Great Peter Knew How

LOS ANGELES, CALIF., FEB. 6—The shooting of the Mexican President, his wife and another, none killed, fortunately, will mean drastic action in Mexico. No nation will tolerate, even in civilized times, a campaign for the control of government by murder. Back of the young hand that fired the shots there stands in the shadow some murderous organization relying on terror and using servile tools for its purpose.

Ortiz Rubio, and the powerful Portes Gil, former President, now Rubio's secretary of the interior, will find a way to terrify the terrorists. They could learn something by reading the history of Peter the Great. That giant Muscovite terrorized the most terrible. A branch of his army presumed to plot for government control. He killed thousands of them in a few days.

When he discovered a plot against his life, as he did often, his action struck dreadful terror.

Living conspirators were gathered around a great scaffold of death and torture. Conspirators that were dead, some of them executed, were taken from their graves, placed on sleds drawn by hogs and dragged beneath the scaffold. There the blood of the living conspirators, tortured and killed, dripped upon the dead conspirators.

That is unthinkable, in our day, no matter what the provocations. But Mexico will have to strike at the root of her murder trouble, or confess failure, and the men now in power will not do that. Peter was horribly brutal but he died in his bed, and forced Russia to accept teaching from western Europe, creating what is powerful in Russia today.

None withstood him. The terrible Charles of Sweden could not overcome him. He even made old Russians cut off their long beards to prove that Russia's only will must be the will of Peter. Many old Russians saved their beards, had them put in their coffins, that they might rise with whiskers and look respectable. They forgot that in the Bible it says, "On that day the Lord shall shave with a razor that is hired."

Before the would-be murderer shot him, Ortiz Rubio, in his brief inaugural address had promised that all classes of Mexicans "should enjoy the privilege of being classed as men." Those familiar with conditions under which Mexico's lower classes have lived and with the attitude toward them of the upper classes, will know what that means to the Mexican underdog.

Congress votes more than five million dollars that "Gold Star" mothers may visit their sons' graves in France. Of 11,000 mothers entitled to go 6000 have expressed a desire to go. Many cannot go, because of duties at home. Others, perhaps, dread the sorrowful shock. To those that do not go Congress should pay in cash the pro rata amount that it would cost to send them, about one thousand dollars. No other course would be fair.

Richard Stewart, rug merchant of Warren, Ohio, is in jail. Judge Perry found him guilty of molesting a woman. Stewart offers an excuse as old as Adam, "the woman led me on." In jail Stewart refuses to eat and is very thin after 23 starving days. It would have been fortunate for Adam and for us but bad for the clothing business had Adam likewise refused to eat.

The Quebec liquor commission reports the provincial treasury full to overflowing after paying millions in tariff and other taxes to the Dominion government. American prohibition is thanked for Quebec's wonderful prosperity. American citizens go there to drink and spend. American bootleggers go there to import supplies.

This nation loses hundreds of millions that it once collected from brewers and others and spends other millions in the fight against bootlegging. However, the law and constitutional provision exist. And the duty of the Government is to make the best fight possible against heavy odds.

Congress has appropriated $587,000 to fight the pink boll weevil in Arizona. An experimenter in this state believes that cotton and other plants might be fed in such a way as to discourage pests that destroy them.

Certain minerals, it is suggested, could be harmlessly absorbed by plants and would be fatal to the attacking insect life.

3 TOTS BURN TO DEATH IN WESTFIELD

Mother Leaves Them for Moment to Telephone and a Gasoline Blast Starts Fire

Westfield, Feb. 7—Three small children were burned to death today when a can of gasoline exploded and set fire to the one-story dwelling in which they had been left for a few minutes by their mother, Mrs. Ralph Dorman.

The victims were Mary, three years; Frank, two, and Roy, four months old.

Another child, Blanche, four, gave the alarm when she ran screaming to the home of a neighbor, where Mrs. Dorman was telephoning, and shrieked that the house was afire.

FLAMES BAR WAY.

The frantic mother and neighbors ran to the burning dwellings, only 100 yards away, but were unable, because of the flames, to force an entrance.

When firemen arrived and broke into the flaming house, the bodies of the three children, burned almost beyond recognition, were found in the bedroom. Two older children were away at school.

Mrs. Dorman said that when she left the house, with the intention of being gone only a few minutes, everything was in its proper place and the four children were playing happily.

GIRL GIVES ALARM.

Fire officials believe that they may have shovelled hot coals from the range in the kitchen into a can of gasoline, which stood in the room.

The gasoline exploded, sending a sheet of flame over the walls and floor, and the victims, badly frightened, ran into the bedroom.

Blanche, fortunately, was in another room and, discovering the kitchen to be ablaze, ran out and gave the alarm.

The house was destroyed.

Goodyear Rubber Interests Sold

New York, Feb. 7 (AP)—Dow, Jones & Co. reports today that control of the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company is believed to have passed definitely to the Cyrus S. Yeaton-Otis & Co. interests of Cleveland.

Dillon, Read & Co., bankers for Goodyear since reorganization in 1921 and dominant in the company's affairs for several years, are understood to have been gradually withdrawing from active interest in the management.

U. S. Dollar Bill Spurned in Paris

Paris, Feb. 7 (INS)—The dollar bill is virtually taboo in Paris today as the result of the discovery in Berlin of counterfeited American notes that laymen are unable to distinguish from real money.

Even American bars refuse to handle American money, no matter if the amount tendered for change be small.

Taft Eats More; Is Better

Washington, Feb. 7 (AP)—Physicians attending former Chief Justice Taft, in an official bulletin at 11:30 a. m. today, said:

"The Chief Justice continues to improve. He is taking more nourishment and is comfortable."

It was announced earlier that Mr. Taft had had a good night's sleep.

Horace D. Taft of Watertown, Ct., brother of the patient, arrived early today. The former President's son, Robert A. Taft, also was expected to arrive today. The other son, Charles P. Taft, and the daughter, Mrs. Helen Taft Manning, are expected tomorrow.

Mr. Taft spoke for a few minutes today to his brother Horace.

Mrs. Taft, following her custom since returning with her husband from Asheville, N. C., took a brief drive. Horace also left the house after seeing his brother and was gone for some time.

The House today adopted a resolution expressing profound regret over the illness of Mr. Taft. The House resolution was like that adopted by the Senate and was offered by Rep. Bankhead, Democrat, Alabama. It expressed the "hope and prayer" that the former Chief Justice may soon be restored to health.

HOOVER MAY ASK GOW TO REMAIN POSTMASTER

Friends of Nichols Sure He Would Be Appointed Until Surprise News Came

With ex-Mayor Malcolm E. Nichols practically installed by his friends as successor to Col. Charles R. Gow as postmaster of Boston, surprise information came today from Washington that Col. Gow has not resigned at all.

Col. Gow, it turns out, wrote to Postmaster-General [illegible], a personal friend, stating that he would like to be relieved of his post because of pressure of private business.

The Washington information declared that both Postmaster [illegible] and President Hoover [illegible] accepted Col. Gow's letter merely as a "feeler" and each expressed the hope that the present incumbent would not relinquish his post at least until the new [illegible] building is completed.

Previously it had been reported that Col. Gow's resignation had been sent in and accepted and that he would become head of a large Boston road-building contracting concern.

WATERTOWN MAN FACES TRIAL IN TEST CASE

The federal grand jury, sitting in Boston, today indicted a man for purchasing two pints of liquor.

It was the first indictment of a purchaser to be returned in Massachusetts in 10 years of prohibition.

The United States attorney's office regards it as a test case and if it is successfully prosecuted other buyers of small quantities, patronizers of bootleggers and speakeasies, will be prosecuted as the evidence warrants.

James E. Farrar, 31, of Cross st., Watertown, is the victim of the zeal of the enforcement officers. He was indicted for "unlawfully and knowingly purchasing" from Frank Rotonda of Medford, two pints of liquor for beverage purposes "in violation of section 6, title 2, of the National Prohibition Act."

VIEW OF DRY AGENTS.

This act, according to Assistant United States Attorney Elihu D. Stone, who is in charge of prosecution of liquor violations and who submitted the evidence in the Farrar case to the Grand Jury, provides as follows:

"No one shall manufacture, sell, purchase, transport or prescribe any liquor without first obtaining a permit from the commissioner so to do, except that a person may, without a permit, purchase and use liquor for medicinal purposes when prescribed by a physician as herein provided."

The local federal office believes that the responsibility of the purchaser is clearly set forth in the above section and will test its belief in the prosecution of Farrar's case where the evidence, the government maintains, is beyond dispute.

In reply to a question why the buyer-at-retail had never been prosecuted in Massachusetts, it was unofficially stated that the reason was difficulty of obtaining direct evidence and the further complication of dry law enforcement machinery already sadly overtaxed by larger cases.

ARRESTED NEAR STORE

A second indictment charging possession and transportation was returned against Farrar, and Rotonda was indicted for the sale.

The sale is alleged to have been made in Rotonda's store in Wester nave, Cambridge, in the presence of Federal Agents William J. Tobin and Otis Vaughan.

Farrar is alleged to have passed over money, accepted the two bottles of liquor and walked with them to his automobile parked outside the store. The prohibition agents then apprehended him.

Vice-President Shot in Brazil; Riot Ensues

Rio de Janeiro, Feb. 7 (INS)—Mello Vianna, Vice-President of Brazil, was seriously wounded today by a would-be assassin, who fired several shots at him while he was addressing a political meeting at Montes Claros in Minas Geraes State.

Several persons were reported killed in the riot which followed the shooting.

Vice-President Vianna was struck by two bullets, one lodging in his neck and the other in his shoulder.

He was immediately surrounded by his partisans, who rendered first aid and valiantly battled the adherents of opposite political faith in what degenerated into a general conflict. The riot was broken up upon arrival of additional police.

The shooting of the Vice-President marked the second such act of violence in the present political campaign.

20 DIE IN MINE BLAST; SEEK 5

Salt Lake City, Feb. 7—Twenty mine workers were dead today and the fate of one other was unknown as rescue crews delved into the lower pockets of the Standard Oil Co. coal mine at Standardville, Utah, after a terrific explosion.

Five were rescued alive early today and four had escaped from the mine soon after the blast. It was believed the one still missing perished, and that, therefore, the death toll was 21.

Monoxide gas, which flooded the tunnel after the blast, quickly overcame the workmen and it was believed they died without a struggle. The cause of the blast is unknown.

A tale of horror was told by Rubio Monroe, Andy Dougherty and Gerald Banasky, who escaped before the deadly gas reached them. A fourth man, rescued unconscious was not identified.

Dougherty said they were working in the main tunnel when the blast rocked the hillside and the walls crumbled. He said T. L. Pritchett, who had been working with him, rushed deeper into the mine to rescue his brother, F. H. Pritchett, and never came back.

Dougherty, Monroe and Banasky fled toward the main entrance, and, though debris made their progress extremely difficult, they reached safety, exhausted.

Several of the men were known to be married and all were believed to live in the Standardville district.

Bodies were left where they were found as search for men possibly alive continued. Day workmen were called back on duty to assist in the search.

HUB WOMAN IN SQUASH FINALS

Haverford, Pa., Feb. 7 (AP)—Boston and Philadelphia meet tomorrow in the final match for the women's squash racquette championship of the United States at the Merion Cricket Club.

In the semi-final round today, the winners were Mrs. George W. Wightman, Boston, and Miss Ruth Hall of the Merion Cricket Club.

Mrs. Wightman defeated Mrs. Crawford C. Maderia, Merion Cricket Club, 15—8, 18—16, 15—6.

Mrs. Madeira yesterday eliminated Miss Eleonora Sears of Boston, who was a favorite to enter the final round.

In the other semi-final match Miss Hall defeated Miss Anne Page, also of the Merion Cricket Club, 11—15, 15—6, 6—15, 15—12, 15—6. This contest was exciting all the way. Miss Hall played a game match, going into play with an injured knee.

SEVEN HURT IN HUB-BUS CRASH

New York, Feb. 7 (AP)—Seven persons were injured today in the crash of a Blue Club Coach Line Boston-to-New York bus into an elevated railroad pillar at Boston Post road and White Plains ave., the Bronx.

The most seriously injured was Margaret Payne, 42, of 34 Anderson ave., New Rochelle, who suffered a fractured wrist and multiple contusions. She was taken to Fordham Hospital. The other six injured were treated on the scene.

The bus skidded on the icy pavement and crashed into a pillar of I. R. T. line. The bus was en route to its New York terminal.

The others injured, none seriously, were:

Ella Moriarty, 32, of 1 Ferguson rd., Hoyloke, Mass.

Jane Gibson, Hall Case 'Pig Woman,' Is Dead

The farm woman had attained wide publicity late in 1926 when she testified from a cot in the Somerville courtroom as star witness against Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall and her brothers, Henry and Willie Stevens, acquitted Dec. 3, 1926, of the murder of Mrs. Eleanor Mills. During the trial she was known as the "pig woman."

She died without having made any statement concerning her testimony that while riding down De Russey's lane Sept. 14, 1922, the night Mrs. Mills and Mrs. Hall's husband, Rev. E. Hall, were slain there, she had seen a white-haired woman and two men bending above the bodies. She identified the woman as Mrs. Hall at the trial.

Mrs. Gibson did not lapse into total unconsciousness until just before her death. She had suffered several relapses during the past few days which, in addition to cancer, caused death.

Irene Bordoni Now Faces Divorce Suit

New York, Feb. 7 (AP)—The New York Daily News says today that Irene Bordoni, musical comedy actress, has been served with a summons in a divorce action filed by E. Ray Goetz, the producer. Miss Bordoni obtained an annulment of their marriage in Chicago on November 6. Counsel for Goetz said he planned to go through with a divorce action he started a year ago, contending the Chicago annulment was illegal in that he had not been properly notified.

Demands Sharp Cut in British, U. S. Navies

London, Feb. 7 (AP)—Prime Minister MacDonald this afternoon issued a pronouncement of the British government's policy for the naval conference which members of the American delegation declared they regarded as complete acceptance of points put forward in the American statement.

The American statement, which was issued by Col. Stimson, head of the delegation, fixed a way to parity between the two nations.

The British desire for ultimate abolition of battleships and submarines and for immediate limitation of cruisers and other categories were outstanding points in the detailed concrete statement of the British stand.

Mr. MacDonald made a concession to the French and Japanese viewpoints. While advocating immediate abolition of the submarine, he indicated willingness to agree to a continuance of this weapon if it were restricted to purely defensive purposes.

He also indicated willingness to allow the transfer of some tonnage in cruiser categories.

U. S. IN DOUBT

While the American delegation expressed the opinion that the statement was acceptance of Col. Stimson's announcement, it informally indicated there were certain new thoughts in the British statement which must be discussed with American naval experts before the Americans could indicate complete agreement with it.

These points include, for example, reduction of aircraft tonnage and limitation of the size of aircraft carriers.

The MacDonald memorandum was stated to represent the views not only of the British government

AIRPORT TO BE PORT OF ENTRY

The first definite step to make the Boston airport a port of entry for foreign passengers and merchandise was announced today when quarters were assigned federal immigration, customs and health inspectors at the flying field.

Dr. Carroll Ramus of the U. S. public health service is assigned one room for himself and assistants, another room has been designated for immigrants and another for customs inspectors.

Anticipated travel from Canada by plane and inauguration of ship to shore service by several steamship lines brought the conference between Dr. Ramus and airport officials.

Famous Old Circus Rider Found Dead

New York, Feb. 7 (AP)—A man who thrilled circus audiences of two continents with his bareback riding 40 years ago, died in the bathroom of his Coney Island home of asphyxiation. He was Alex Sebert, 70, famous rider with Barnum & Bailey for years and also a performer at Luna Park and other New York amusement centers.

In recent years Seabert had been a night watchman for a Coney Island bank. Police listed his death as an accident.

and British experts, but of all the dominions. The statement was first discussed with Dominion representatives, all of whom are said to have agreed.

The statement, which presented the British viewpoint, just as Secretary Stimson's statement yesterday presented the American, follows in part:

"His Majesty's government believes the conference ought not only to reduce existing fleets and building programs, but should put an end finally to competition in naval armaments and thus constitute an important step towards the ultimate elimination of the causes of war and towards establishment of peace on an unassailable foundation. . . .

PACT UNTIL 1936

"It is therefore proposed that the general agreement resulting from this conference should run until 1936 and that in 1935 a further conference should be called to review the situation in relation to world relations.

"In view of these considerations His Majesty's government suggests the following proposals for the conference:

"The agreement should be not upon global tonnage, but upon the size of individual ships in the various categories and upon the tonnage used by each nation in each of these categories.

"The categories should be capital ships, aircraft carriers, cruisers, destroyers and submarines.

"An agreement by categories is necessary in order to obtain elimination of competitive building and the maintenance of equilibrium between fleet and fleet. These two points are essential if security is to be obtained. It is not only the total tonnage of a fleet which counts, but the use to which these tons are put and an agreement on the latter point is called for.

"At some time it might be convenient to allow a percentage of tonnage assigned to different categories to be transferred to other categories. The British Government, however, does not favor a general transfer. It is opposed to transfer in regards to capital ships, aircraft and submarines.

IMMEDIATE REDUCTION.

"In regards to cruisers, it would permit the transfer out of the 8-inch class into the 6-inch class on a percentage which remains to be arranged.

"The government proposes that the number of capital ships for each signatory fixed by the Washington treaty should be reached within 15 months of ratification of the treaty resulting from this conference, instead of by 1936.

"It proposes that no replacement of existing ships should take place before the next conference in 1935 and that in the meantime the whole question of capital ships should be the subject of negotiation between the powers concerned.

"The government will press for reduction, though of course, without disturbing the Washington equilibrium.

"Its experts favor a reduction in size from 35,000 tons to 25,000 tons and of guns from 16 inches to 12 inches. The government also favors a lengthening of age from 20 to 26 years.

"The government would further limit the tonnage and gun calibre of aircraft carriers and suggests that ships of 10,000 tons and under should be included in the total tonnage of this category if used as aircraft carriers.

WOULD CUT U. S. PLANES

"It proposes a reduction of total aircraft tonnage for the British and United States navies from 135,000 tons under the Washington treaty to (say) 100,000 tons and adjustment of that assigned to other nations in the Washington treaties ratios.

"It was assumed during the recent conversation between the governments of the United States and Great Britain that cruisers should be grouped in one category which in turn should be divided into cruisers carrying eight-inch guns and cruisers carrying six-inch guns and under. It was also assumed during the negotiations that the requirements of the British commonwealth would consist of a total tonnage of 339,000 tons divided into 50 categories.

"A final arrangement will be governed by the decision of the conference regarding limitation in the size of units. The British Government proposes that the tonnage limit of eight-inch cruisers should remain at 10,000 tons as provided for in the Washington treaty and that there should be a tonnage limit for smaller vessels at about 6000 or 7000 tons. It suggests that only a fixed proportion in the latter class should be built up to that limit and that the life of cruisers should be 20 years.

WOULD CUT ARMAMENT

"In regard to destroyers it is proposed that the limit assigned should be, for leaders, 850 tons and for destroyers 1500 tons. The maximum size of guns for both classes of destroyers should be five inches. The present British building program of destroyers is for 2000 tons ultimately but this can be reduced if the submarine programs of other powers are reduced, for it is obvious that the size and total tonnage of destroyers must largely depend upon the size and total tonnage of submarines.

"The government proposes the abolition of submarines. Its experts feel that the argument that the submarine is an arm solely of defense was destroyed by the experience of the late war, and that in war conditions it is an arm of attack.

"If abolition cannot be agreed upon, the British Government will put forward proposals limiting submarines rigidly to defense requirements.

"In any case, it will press of limitation of the submarine to the lowest possible limit, and it proposes to urge revival of the agreement signed at Washington in 1922 but not ratified by all the signatory powers, which would regulate in the interests of humanity the use of submarines against merchant ships.

"In regard to auxiliary vessels not strictly entering into fleet strength, the government proposes that they should be specified and that each government should publish yearly lists of vessels of this class in commission as laid down."

Japan Scorns Offer of U. S. to Reduce Navies of "Big 3"

Tokyo, Feb. 7 (AP)—General reaction in Japanese naval circles today to proposals of the American delegation to the five-power naval conference for immediate effectiveness of a naval limitation program did not seem to be very favorable.

It was learned authoritatively also that in their present form proposals of the Americans directly relating to Japan probably would be unacceptable to this government although they represented some concessions on the part of the United States from the position taken in the Japanese-American conversations at Washington last December.

The proposals, which were those mentioned by Col. Stimson in his statement suggesting an "over all" naval relation with the other powers, were handed Reijiro Wakatsuki, head of the Japanese delegation, by Senator Reed in London Wednesday.

The Japanese delegation submitted them to Tokyo without comment, instructions not being asked for, although it was understood the questions involved were of such importance as to go beyond the scope of the delegates' powers and to make necessary their consideration by the entire government.

The foreign office refused to divulge their contents. However, they were understood to involve every category of war vessel and to be drastic and far-reaching.

Japanese naval circles appeared to consider difficult the suggestion for balancing capital ship fleets in 1931, instead of 1942, since the post-Washington conference building conference programs are based on prospective balancing in 1942. Consequently, considerable readjustments would be required.

It was said that although the proposal to scrap certain ships appeared favorable on paper to Japan the American ships proposed for scrapping are armed with 12-inch guns; the British ships proposed for scrapping are armed with 13.5 guns; while the single Japanese capital ship which would be scrapped has 11-inch guns.

Moreover, it was said, if the Kongo is scrapped it would upset the balance of the Japanese fleet, which is based on four ships of the Kongo class as an integral unit.

Rockefeller, Jr., Here, Elated by New Glass

Boston has one of the few living artists in stained glass who is able to reproduce authentically the highly-colored and tinted windows of the 13th century edifices. And his latest patron is John D. Rockefeller, Jr., from whom he received a commission to furnish windows for the new Riverside Chuch near Grant's Tomb in New York city.

In Boston to see the progress of the artist on the painstaking work, Rockefeller was elated after viewing the windows.

The artist, Wright Goodhue, a lad of 23 years, has his studio on the sixth floor of 301 Congress st. The massive windows, rapidly nearing completion, are to be features of ecclesiastical authenticity of the $25,000,000 edifice.

"Goodness, there's color, all right!" Rockefeller said when he entered the studio. Before him, mounted against a tall, clear glass window so that the light poured through, was one of the six 13-foot lancet windows for the ambulatory of the Riverside Church.

It is a glowing mass of deep blue, red, white, yellow and green after the style of the world-famous lancet windows in the cathedral at Chartres, France.

Rockefeller is a stickler for authenticity. Everything must be done exactly as it was done when French workmen who died seven centuries ago mounted the great rose window at Chartres. The glass must be made and colored in the same way, the design must be according to 13th century standards and the painting must be done exactly as it was done in Europe.

Young Goodhue is considered one of the few living artists who can truly be called a genius, which appellation was first used regarding him by Ralph Adams Cram.

His father, Harry Eldredge Goodhue, was noted as an architect and as an artist in stained glass, but he died when Wright was too young to have benefited by his knowledge and experience. Mrs. Goodhue kept up the business, hoping that in time her son would continue it.

Wright set to work to make an artist of himself, and first of all won the competition for the windows for the Second Universalist Church at the corner of Boylston and Ipswich sts.

20 ARE SEIZED IN SHOOTING OF PRES. RUBIO

Inquiry Into Plot Extended by Officials; the Victim Is Still Improving

Mexico City, Feb. 7 (AP)—A widespread investigation into the attempt Wednesday against the life of Pascual Ortiz Rubio was pushed today by Emilio Portes Gil, Minister of Interior. The military, judiciary and police authorities cooperated.

In addition to the assassin, Daniel Flores, who was held in military prison here, about 20 other persons were under detention in Mexico City. Seven others, including two brothers of Flores, named Arnulfo and Pilar, were arrested at San Luis Potosi and are being held there.

President Rubio, making his first public statement since he was wounded, announced today that he hopes to take up his duties within a short time.

Talking through Gen. Augustin Mora, President Rubio said he hoped to have the pleasure of greeting newspaper men in his office very soon. He asked the newspaper men to express his deepest appreciation for the sympathy and concern shown by everyone regarding his condition.

None of the six others injured in the shooting was in serious condition. The injuries of all of them except the chauffeur of the President's car were of minor nature. The chauffeur was wounded in his shoulder. Senora de Ortiz Rubio, and the President's young niece, Senorita Maria Rosh, both of whom were grazed by bullets, were up and about.

Two Mexican Mayoralty Leaders Are Shot Dead

Tampico, Mex., Feb. 7 (AP)—Both the incoming and outgoing mayors of the town of Villa Altamira, near here, were assassinated as they celebrated inauguration of the new municipal government.

The two men were at a party given in their honor and in honor of the newly-elected beauty queen for a forthcoming carnival, when an unidentified man in the party opened fire with a pistol, shooting both.

The assassin escaped. The slain men were Mayor Martin Martinez and the outgoing mayor, Ciro Rodriguez.

Troops were held in their barracks here as a precautionary measure consequent on public excitement after the attempt against the life of President Ortiz Rubio. There were no disturbances.

I had supposed he was content to remain, as he has been making an excellent record as postmaster. It will be difficult to get a successor of like ability. I am very sorry to hear he is retiring."

POLITICIANS BAFFLED.

Boston political circles were thrown into a somewhat confused condition when the word from Washington came that Col. Gow's actual resignation had not yet been submitted.

Just before Col. Gow was appointed, a year ago, Nichols' name was being passed around town, but at that time he said he did not desire the postmastership.

It was understood at that time that if and when Col. Gow should step down, Nichols would be nominated to take his place.

The ex-Mayor and Mrs. Nichols are abroad at present, making an extended tour of the continent. They are not expected back in the Hub for several weeks.

Nichols, whose touring schedule calls for him to travel today from Athens to Constantinople, has been a federal incumbent before. He resigned his post as collector of internal revenue for Massachusetts when he became a candidate for mayor.

Two months ago it was rumored that when he stepped out of the mayor's office he would be offered the postmaster's job. He denied, however, that he was seeking the job, and friends made the same denial today, although declaring that if it were offered him the chances were that he would accept.

THREE OTHERS NAMED

When he left Boston for overseas he was asked what his plans were on his return. He said he did not intend to retire from politics and this was taken as evidence in support of the understanding that he would seek the Republican nomination for United States senator next fall.

Nichols looms as the largest figure in the field of prospective candidates for postmaster, the only drawback being that he is affiliated with the Innes-Republican wing. Before Hoover was nominated as the Republican candidate for President Innes was not a Hoover enthusiast.

The other three men who are mentioned in connection with the postmaster's berth are Edward T. Clark, private secretary to President Coolidge when he was in office; Thomas W. White, collector of internal revenue and a close friend of Coolidge, and Benjamin F. Felt of Melrose, former executive secretary of the Republican State Committee.

To win the job it will be necessary for candidates to be examined by the civil service commission as to qualifications.

Col. Gow has been elected president of the Warren Brothers Company, of Cambridge, world's largest road building concern, and his duties in that position will require his full time, it was said.

He will probably go to Cuba as soon as his successor has qualified to view the 500 miles of road work being done there by the Cambridge company and then inspect other contracts of the company in various South American countries.

Although Col. Gow has been postmaster slightly less than a year, accepting the office on March 1, 1929, he has effected many changes and brought about a complete reorganization of the service in the Boston district.

URGED TO TAKE POST

He accepted the postmastership at the insistence of a number of prominent business men and Republican leaders when the controversy over a successor to Roland M. Baker was at its height.

Several times the resignation of the postmaster has been reported and each time denied by him. While neither affirming nor denying his resignation at this time, Col. Gow points out that his new position with Warren Brothers will not permit him to divide his time.

There is some speculation as to whether the successor to Col. Gow can be appointed without the friction of competing ambitions, as was the case when he succeeded former Postmaster Baker.

SEVEN HURT ON BOSTON BUS

Sarah Goldberg, 50, the Bronx.

There were 15 in the bus, most of them women bound to New York for shopping trips.

Sahlsted said he applied the brakes on approaching White Plains ave. on the post road and the big bus skidded. It crashed broadside into the Elevated pillar, breaking in the side and shattering the windows.

All the injured were on the side which crashed into the pillar, the others receiving only a shaking up.

TAFT INDUCED BY FAMILY TO RETIRE

Chief Justice Resigned Reluctantly, Says Washington; Blease Charge Falls Flat

Washington, Feb. 7 (INS)—Charles Evans Hughes will be confirmed by the Senate next week as chief justice of the United States, administration leaders declared today, despite the dramatic demand by Senator Cole Blease (D.), South Carolina, that his nomination be returned to President Hoover.

The plea of Blease that the Senate also adopt a resolution requesting President Hoover to reappoint William Howard Taft likewise will be ignored, it was said, as will be Blease's startling charges that there was "something crooked" in the resignation of Taft and the prompt appointment of Hughes. Both Republican and Democratic leaders privately deplored Blease's speech, but declined comment.

Rumors were current in the Capitol that Taft had given up his post reluctantly.

It was said he had been influenced by the members of his immediate family to retire because his continued absence from the court was worrying him and retarding his recovery.

One Republican leader declared he had learned that Robert A. Taft, the former President's son, and Mrs. Helen Taft Manning, his daughter, had been responsible for Taft's retirement. He said the chief justice had so deep an interest in the Supreme Court and was so proud of its record under his administration that he constantly worried over being absent.

"His family finally prevailed upon Chief Justice Taft to relinquish his duties in the hope that his retirement would prolong his life," said this leader. "They believed if he did not retire, the worry would result fatally. Now his family and physicians are hoping he will respond to the kindly surroundings of his home and to the lightened burdens of a life in retirement and prolong his life."

RUM SHIP FLEES HAIL OF SHOTS

New London, Conn., Feb. 7 (AP)—Zig-zagging her course as machine gun bullets and shots from a one-pounder dropped dangerously close, a suspected rum-runner, believed well laden with liquor, escaped early today from a pursuing coast guard patrol boat in Long Island Sound waters.

Capt. H. H. Wolf, commander of of destroyer force here, said he believed th smuggler was the Gander of Bridgeport. He did not know.

MAN IS KILLED, WIFE DYING

Attleboro, Feb. 7—Clyde Wallace, salesman for the L. G. Balfour Jewelry Co. of this city, is dead, and his wife, formerly Cynthia Hunt of North Attleboro, is dying from injuries suffered in an auto accident near Lansing, Mich.

Michigan state police are searching for a hit-and-run driver responsible for the accident.

Wallace was attached to the Michigan sales staff of the Balfour company and it was during a visit to the factory here that he met Miss Cynthia Hunt of North Attleboro. They were married in June of last year.

Father of 4 Gets 13 Years for Burglary

Providence, Feb. 7—Michael W. Gottschalk, 35, father of four children, was sentenced today in superior court to 13 years in state prison as a burglar. He had been caught leaving a Cranston st. store with $50 missing from the register and the sentences were for two previous breaking and entering cases. One was for 10 years and the other was from one to three years.

J. D. ROCKEFELLER, SR., MARVELOUS EXAMPLE OF "RIGHT LIVING"

CLOCK NOW RULING HIS DAILY LIFE

Eating Three Times a Day and Enough to Keep Him Going

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN

Copyright, 1930, International News Service

Ormond Beach, Fla., Feb. 7.—John D. Rockefeller, Sr., is not on a diet. He eats three meals a day—not unusually big meals, but big enough to keep him at the peak of physical efficiency.

He is adhering to a strict daily health regimen at his winter home where, at the age of 90, he is displaying as much vitality as he did when he first came to Ormond Beach for health and recreation 18 years ago.

Mr. Rockefeller's week-day schedule, as revealed today to International News Service by a close personal friend who frequently has been his guest at his home, the Casements, here and at his summer estate at Pocantico Hills, near Tarrytown, N. Y., is as follows:

Rises at 7.

Breakfasts at 8. This does not mean 7:59 or 8:01.

Tees off for eight holes of golf at exactly 10:15 a. m.

Has luncheon at precisely 1:30 p. m.

Has dinner at 7:30 p. m.

Retires no later than 10 p. m. and invariably at that exact hour.

John D.'s friend, who is the authority for this information, laughed at the reports that Mr. Rockefeller has a "false stomach," saying such reports are untrue.

EATS CRABS AND PIE.

He said that on one occasion, about five years ago, he was at the table when Rockefeller ate during luncheon two soft shell crabs and elderberry pie, a mighty tough combination to digest.

But, as a matter of fact, Mr. Rockefeller is very careful about what he eats. He eats lightly, as a rule and very slowly. He never drinks intoxicants and even abstains from coffee. He does not smoke. He does nothing that will interfere in the slightest with his health.

Mr. Rockefeller awakens in the morning naturally, without the aid of an alarm clock. His subconscious mind is so attuned that he almost always awakens at 7 a. m. He likes to lie in bed for a short while and have members of his household come in and discuss the weather. He asks such questions as:

"How was the weather last night? What is the prediction for today? What does the barometer say? Will there be much wind today?" Invariably he is thinking of his morning round of golf, his greatest pleasure.

He has his morning tub and dresses leisurely. Contrary to the general impression, he has no valet. Neither has he a regular doctor.

Years ago in Cleveland, when he suffered from a stomach ailment, he had a specialist, but he no longer needs regular medical attendance. He has had a cold a few times in the last year or two here, and on such occasions was treated by one of the local doctors.

Precisely at 8 Mr. Rockefeller sits down to breakfast. It is quite a formal affair. Mr. Rockefeller says grace before every meal. He asks a blessing and then usually someone at the table reads "Daily Thoughts" or two or three verses from the Bible. A maid stands directly back of each chair as Michael, the butler, serves the food.

MORNING "SOLITAIRE."

Breakfast over, Michael brings in the game called "Numerico." This is a sort of a family solitaire, played with 52 pieces of square cut cardboard, each piece numbered. The cardboards are of four colors. He turns them face down and stirs them around. He lifts one card at a time and calls the number. If a guest completes his set, as in solitaire, Mr. Rockefeller gives him one of his new dimes. If not, the guest receives only a nickel.

After breakfast Mr. Rockefeller goes to his room and lies down while his secretary, Nelson W. Davis, a veteran employe, reads his mail.

At 10 a. m. he gets into his limousine and his chauffeur, Vincent Frasca, drives him to the Ormond Beach links where he tees off at exactly 10:15 for eight holes of golf—no more, no less, rain or shine.

By noon Mr. Rockefeller is back at the Casements and he takes a short nap before luncheon at 1:30. After luncheon he reads for a while and at 3 p. m. goes motoring for an hour or two. At 7:30 p. m. he sits down and slowly eats a light dinner. Then he either reads or listens to the radio.

And by 10 p. m. he has retired, usually falling asleep without the slightest trouble.

Music Still Hath Charms to Lure the Youth of the Modern Athens

Wagner's Tristan und Isolde proved at the Boston Opera House that German music has lost none of its pull. Society was out in full force with the younger element very much in evidence. Furthermore, they didn't just attend but stayed through which is a real test of operatic worth. (Staff photo.)

LINK CAPONE IN SONG PIRACY

New York, Feb. 7 (AP)—The name of Al Capone, Chicago gang leader, was linked today with the popular song racket, which consists of pirating copyrighted songs and selling them at 5 cents a copy on the street.

The activities of the racketeers was revealed at the arraignment of two men, Morris Shapiro and Samuel A. Cohen, in federal court on charges of violating the copyright law.

Nathan Burkman, counsel for the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers, attended the arraignment and said that the composers and publishers are losing millions of dollars a year because of the racket.

"It is our impression," he said, "that the racket originated in Chicago and that persons close to Al Capone are back of it."

As a result of the distribution of the sheets of pirated lyrics, he said, the sales of Irving Berlin had dropped from 16,000 to 6000 copies a day.

Scotty 'Admits' He's Blowing Bubbles

Los Angeles, Feb 7 (AP)—The mysterious desert "gold mine" of fabulous wealth which legend for years has credited to the ownership of "Death Valley Scotty," picturesque survivor of the Bonanza days, floated off in the land of bubbles today through a "confession" by Scotty. Scotty admitted that a recent report that he had lost $6,000,000 in the stock market didn't have as much solid reality about it as some people thought, although he did say that he was broke, washed up and cleaned. But as the result of speculation.

For 40 years Scotty, whose real name is Walter Scott, has lived the life of an uncrowned king in the barren California desert. The story that he had a hidden gold mine in the desert gained wide credence from the speculative fashion in which he made excursions into the outer world, spending money lavishly.

This cloud of wealth he dissipated here with the simple statement that "Thar ain't no gold mine and thar never was."

At the same time he asserted that his source of money had been A. M. Johnson, millionaire retired insurance man from Chicago.

Scotty had just returned here from Chicago, where he interrupted a projected trip to Paris with the statement that he had gone broke in the stock market. He gave his red tie a flick and waved his 10-gallon hat, and told all within hearing that he had been living on other people's money and was, in truth, Death Valley's press agent par excellence. He took occasion to laugh at miners who hired Indians to track him across waste lands in the hope of finding his fabulous gold mine.

Johnson, Scotty's close friend, was revealed as his chief benefactor. The firm of Johnson & Scott now has under construction a $2,000,000 mansion in Death Valley. Scotty said the firm was "mostly Johnson," as his Chicago friend furnished the money, and that he, Death Valley Scotty, didn't want to live in a house "with all them gadgets on it anyway."

Scotty gained his first notoriety in 1905 when he chartered a Santa Fe train for a run from Los Angeles to Chicago just to see how fast the trip could be made. The record of 44 hours and 54 minutes still stands.

Pope Pius Receives Austrian Leaders

Vatican City, Nov. 7 (AP)—Pope Pius XI today received Chancellor Schober of Austria and the minister of Austria to the Holy See in private audience.

For 20 minutes after the audience the chancellor was allowed to browse in the Pope's private library, after which he re-entered the quarters of the Pope and presented his entourage.

Democrats Slash Red Lead Tariff

Washington, Feb. 7 (AP)—Democrats started on another tariff-slashing drive in the Senate today, winning by 37 to 35 a reduction in the present duty on red lead from 2¾ to 2½ cents a pound.

The Senate disapproved a reduction in the tariff on white lead used in the manufacture of paints from 2½ to 2 cents a pound.

Dartmouth Snow Queen

OPEN CARNIVAL AT HANOVER

Hanover, N. H., Feb. 7.—While Miss Jeannette Ross of Maplewood, N. J., student in a Boston private school, and thousands of others looked on, the open ski, skates and snowshoe competition at Dartmouth's 20th annual winter carnival got under way here today.

During the various contests Miss Ross continued to be the cynosure of all eyes, having been chosen "Queen of the Snows" from more than 600 girls who are attending the carnival.

Forty-nine men were entered in the events, while Dartmouth and University of New Hampshire expected to fight it out for first honors. Other colleges whose athletes were entered included McGill, Williams, Bishops, University of Canada, Pennsylvania, Vermont, Worcester Tech and Massachusetts Agricultural.

Among the stars entered in today's events were J. D. Perley of New Hampshire College and Bryce Grayson-Bell of McGill, who were to compete in the ski proficiency test and the mile-down-hill ski race. Several events will be held tomorrow.

Senator Knocks Foe Senseless With Fist

Cape Town, Union of South Africa, Feb. 7 (AP)—The calm atmosphere of the Senate here was broken today by a scene reminiscent of the boxing ring when Senator T. Boydell, former minister of labor, knocked T. S. Warwick, a member of the opposition, unconscious with a blow on the chin.

The incident took place when Boydell asked Warwick to apologize for an alleged blow Warwick struck Boydell at an election meeting in Durban. Boydell said Warwick refused to apologize and pushed him away. He denied he struck the first blow.

THAYER'S WIFE IS AWARDED $30 A WEEK

Counsel for the Husband Says Her Liquor Bill Ran Up to $130 Weekly

Worcester, Jan. 7.—Fred B. Thayer, wealthy local sportsman, today amended his divorce petition against Mrs. Jane H. Thayer, society matron, by inserting the name of Albert J. Desjardin, family chauffeur.

He also added to the petition charging Mrs. Thayer with cruel and abusive treatment and gross and confirmed habits of intoxication, an allegation of misconduct.

He has filed a $25,000 suit against Desjardin, charging the chauffeur and aviation mechanic with alienating the affections of Mrs. Thayer.

While arguments were being heard by Judge Harry H. Atwood on the question of counsel fees for Mrs. Thayer, counsel for her husband charged that her liquor bill ranged from $130 a month to $130 a week.

WITHOUT FUNDS

Thayer, accompanied by a nurse as a result of a nervous breakdown, remained in a corridor during the proceedings in probate court.

Counsel for Mrs. Thayer said she was also ill at the home of a daughter by a former husband in Brookline st., this city.

Atty. Clarence E. Tupper told Judge Atwood that Mrs. Thayer is without funds. This was disputed by Atty. Frank B. Hall for Thayer, who said Mrs. Thayer took with her from the Grafton home of the couple 30 dresses, 11 pairs of shoes, the cheapest having cost $18, jewelry worth $7000, and a $5300 automobile, together with the chauffeur.

Hall added that her liquor bill amounted to $130 per month, but his associate, Attorney Jeremiah Moynihan interrupted to say: "I'd like to get that right. Sometimes it's $130 a week."

Then Attorney Tupper arose and stated that Mrs. Thayer suffered from neuritis, and that she had been so "beleaguered and besieged" at the Grafton house that she is now in a serious condition at her daughter's home. He added his client always took good care of her husband, who he said lives "sumptuously."

MONEY TIED UP

Hall rejoined that Thayer's assets are badly tied up, consisting of an airplane and other properties and securities of such a type that he cannot realize cash from them.

Tupper questioned the accuracy of Hall's information, contending Thayer's securities are of a gilt-edged type and he has an income of $12,000 a year.

Counsel for Thayer disputed this, declaring his client's income is nearer $8000, adding that Mrs. Thayer has resources of $6000 from the estate of her mother.

Tupper said she had not received it. Judge Atwood gave her counsel fees of $30 a week and the hearing was adjourned. The divorce hearing will come up on March 3, 4 or 5.

GAS DRIVES OUT CAPT. GOODWIN

Three persons were partially overcome, a number of others including police Capt. Herbert Goodwin of Division 4 were driven to the open air and a cat was killed by an illuminating gas leak that flooded part of the Little building at Tremont and Boylston sts. today.

The leak was in a main on Van Rensselaer pl., next to the Majestic theater, and the fumes spread in the neighborhood, flowing down Lagrange st., and into Station 4.

While an emergency crew from the Consolidated Gas Co. worked on the leak, Engine 35 stood coupled to a hydrant ready to battle possible explosion or fire, and a heavy police detail cleared the crowds from the vicinity.

Those who suffered from inhalation of gas fumes and had to go home are Miss Alice Dwyer, employed in the office of the Hamburg-American line in the Little building; John Regan, a porter, and Nathan Silverstein, employe of Wax Bros., florists.

The leak was first noticed when Silverstein and Joshua Johnson opened Wax Bros.' store.

Johnson found "Teddy," a tiger cat, and ran with it to the Animal Rescue League, but the cat was dead.

Silverstein, trying to find the leak, was partially overcome and fled to the street.

Other tenants of the building were forced to the open air, as were employes of the Majestic Theater.

The fumes crossed Tremont st. and into Lagrange st. into Station 4. Capt. Goodwin then had to seek fresh air.

GOODWIN RAPS CURLEY 'JOB TO FATHER' PLAN

Civil Service Chief Says Day Is Coming When the State Must Work Destitute

Civil Service Commissioner Elliot H. Goodwin, after asserting today that civil service positions are filled on merit and fitness, declared the time is coming when the state must decide whether or not the public service is to be used for the relief of destitution.

Goodwin's observations were made to the House committee on rules. He was called in to give his views on Mayor Curley's petition for preference in temporary municipal employment to heads of families in accordance with the number of dependents.

H. Murray Pakulski, city law department staff, representing the mayor, in urging the petition, explained that it was intended to give relief to those needing it most in times of emergency.

"It would substitute employment for charity," he argued.

Goodwin said the bill would greatly increase his discretionary powers, something he did not want. Aside from this, there is a deeper question involved, he pointed out.

"They are looking more and more to the public service for relief from destitution," he explained. "The time will come when the state will have to decide whether or not the public service is going to be used for the relief of destitution. That's a very big question. At present we are filling positions on merit and fitness."

He said that the proposed bill would place the public service on a basis of poor relief.

EXPANSION OF CITY BEATEN

Providence, Feb. 7.—The aldermanic idea that what Providence needs is a bigger and better Providence was trimmed down today to merely the "better" interpretation.

Mayor James E. Dunne of Providence and the town and city fathers of East Providence, North Providence, Cranston and other communities concerned sat with finality on the proposition put forth at the meeting of the board of aldermen.

At the aldermanic meeting the aldermen voted to refer to the ordinance committee a resolution introduced by Alderman Sol S. Bromson to appoint a committee of aldermen and councillors to negotiate with neighboring city and town heads regarding amalgamation with Providence into a "Greater Providence."

Mayor Dunne started the "anti" barrage with a statement declaring that expansion would mean immediate demand from the outlying sections for highway and sewer improvements, necessitating an increase in taxes.

Suburban home taxes, Mayor Dunne asserted, are as high now as the home owners can stand.

His sentiments were echoed by the governing powers of the cities and towns concerned.

Atlantic Quake Made Cable Shortage

Halifax, N. S., Feb. 7 (INS)—The unusually heavy demand caused by destruction wrought by the recent submarine earthquake under the north Atlantic has resulted in a world shortage of deep sea cable, C. Berner, cable engineer in charge of the repair expedition aboard the Dominia, world's largest cable laying ship, said today.

PRICE 'KIDNAP DEN' IS SOUGHT IN BAY STATE

New Haven, Ct., Feb. 7 (AP)—Max Price, wealthy real estate dealer, released Wednesday night in Bridgeport by the gang which kidnaped him January 28, told police today that his captors' establishment was ready for more "guests."

He said he saw from beneath the bandage blindfolding him a row of cots similar to that upon which he was chained, and fastened to each cot leg irons and shackles similar to those which bound him.

Police were still at a loss to place the "den" where Price had been kept for 10 days. The victim thought it near Springfield, Mass., and the police near Fairfield, Ct.

Three men and two Bridgeport residents were given their freedom after being held two days as suspected members of the kidnaping gang. Police said their apprehension had come about through the "meddlesomeness" of one of them, Jacob Prober of this city, who, they say, urged the Price family to hire the services of Mme. Emma Delamater, Bridgeport seeress, and a detective with whom Prober was to split $50 a day wages.

Those released were Prober, Herman Berman and Solomon Bolick of this city and Isaac Katzman and Morton Lessner of Bridgeport. The case against Simon Orchowsky of this city will be nolled.

Police still hold Mme. Delamater. They say her description of a Hackensack, N. J., "dive," where she said Price was held, and which was visited by Price's brothers, was too accurate.

Police say a move will be made to extradite Samuel Handel and Harry Fleisch, held in New York, and alleged members of the Detroit Purple gang, who, police state, named a New Haven "agent" in the kidnaping.

Hyannis Man Views "Rainbow of Snows" Off Cape Shore

Falmouth, Feb. 7—Atty. Robert F. French of Hyannis thought he was seeing things when he glimpsed a "rainbow" out over the water, although the sky was cloudless and the sun shining.

What the lawyer really glimpsed, however, was another rare critter, a sun-dog, or reflection of the sun's light from ice prisms or snow crystals in the air.

French, who was driving from Falmouth to Woods Hole, said the colors in the false rainbow were many and vivid.

Mill Agent Resigns

Lewiston, Me., Feb. 8 (AP)—Fred E. Wagg, agent of the Hill Manufacturing Company, makers of cotton goods, resigned today. William Summersby, general superintendent of the Boston Manufacturing Company, Waltham, Mass., will succeed him.

SAYS PLYMOUTH POLICE CAUSED CHIEF TROUBLE

This testimony was given today by Frank Eastman, chairman of the town selectmen, at the continued hearing on Armstrong's petition for reinstatement.

The case, which started before a master in Suffolk court and was transferred to Brockton district court, resumed before Master Charles Winkler here this morning.

As a result of dissension in the department, the morale was not what it should have been, Eastwood admitted. With Selectman Bartlett he opposed the chief's discharge but was defeated by the votes of Selectmen Anderson, Carr and Kellar.

Eastwood read the notes of the December 30 meeting of the selectmen at which Armstrong was voted out of office. At that meeting, he said, Selectman Anderson suggested that Carr would be a good chief, the suggestion being made before the vote was taken.

Armstrong had been questioned why he reported one case to the board and not another and had admitted he was lax in this respect, Eastwood said. Charges that he had been disloyal to the selectmen were voiced at the meeting before the vote.

Chicago to Pay City Employes in 'Scrip'

Chicago, Feb. 7 (INS)—Large blocks of tax anticipation "scrip" will be paid city employes today as rumblings of growing discontent came from the thousands of workers who have gone payless for the last six weeks while Chicago has struggled to avert impending bankruptcy.

Although the Chicago and Cook County Bankers' Association has voted not to honor the "scrip" in lieu of currency, it is believed that some merchants and a few banks will accept the certificates at face value.

Indications are that discontent is growing in the ranks of the 40,000 unpaid public workers, city hall officials have learned. It was rumored that hundreds of employes are planning to strike unless some relief is offered soon.

Another development significant of unrest came when Chicago's policemen petitioned Governor Louis Emmerson in a series of resolutions to call a special session of the Legislature. The policemen asked that the Legislature be instructed to provide revenue relief.

Jail, Fine Woman in 10th Rum Case

For the 10th time, according to the police, Rose Brown of Columbus ave., South End, appeared in court today for keeping and exposing liquor. With Archibald Butts, who was present at the time police raided the apartment and seized six gallons of contraband, she was sentenced to one month and fined $50.

Of Butts' alibi that he was only cooking there, Judge Zottoli said: "He may have been cooking, but he was cooking up the wrong stuff."

How's This?
Corns Lift Out
With Fingers—No Pain!

Thanks to a new discovery made from a Japanese product your foot troubles can be quickly ended.

Ice-Mint as this new preparation is called is said to shrivel up hard corns, soft corns or corns between the toes so that they can be lifted out easily with the fingers. It's wonderful. Think of it, only a touch or two of Ice-Mint and real freedom is yours.

There is not one bit of pain or soreness when applying it or afterwards and it doesn't even irritate the skin.

If your feet are inclined to swell or [illegible] or if you have cracked or bleeding toes, it will draw the inflammation right out and quickly heal the sore and tender places. It is the real Japanese secret of fine, healthy little feet and is greatly appreciated by women who wear high heel shoes and by men who have to stand on their feet all day. Try it. Just ask in any drug store for Ice-Mint and learn for yourself what solid foot comfort really is. There is nothing better.

Film Actresses Talk Through Noses? Yes?

Los Angeles, Feb. 6 (AP)—America's talkie actors received a little free advice today from Alastair MacDonald, son of the British Premier, and it didn't concern politics or architecture, but speaking.

"The movie players should act natural instead of affecting the British broad 'A,'" MacDonald observed. "Affecting is despised by English playgoers and those of the films should not try to ape the English in their broad pronunciation. All they ask is that they enunciate clearly. We have found that most American screen actors talk through their noses."

The 31-year-old English architect said he was having a "fine time" in filmland and that "the girls of Hollywood are lovelier than I had ever supposed," but "Hollywood is not one whit wilder than London." His father, MacDonald said, "goes to the movies quite often."

MacDonald believes that "the habits and customs of the world are being moulded on the screens. There should be, however, a greater tendency to produce historical and travel pictures."

Directed Verdict Clears 5 of Murder

Providence, R. I., Feb. 7 (AP)—A directed verdict of not guilty in the case of all five defendants in the East Greenwich Superior court in the murder of Alfred "Red" Russo, was ordered this morning by Judge J. Jerome Hahn because the state had not presented a case which could be justifiably allowed to go to a jury.

OLD HANGAR TO BE REMOVED AT LAST

By GEORGE HAMBLIN

The battle is won!

No longer will this menace to safe commercial flying sit out in the middle of the Boston Municipal Airport and laugh at the attempts of everybody to get it removed.

Our slogan, "Remove that Hangar," will go down into history for centering the attention of the boys at the airport, the officials in City Hall and the Ames estate trustees on the hangar and the reason why the hangar will be out of there before the first of March.

But, on the other hand, our more or less humorous suggestion that the hangar be made a memorial or those who come after us to see is violently thrown in the discard. But what care we, when the good of all the commercial boys, and the safety of the passengers using the airport is considered.

Yep, when it comes down to cases our original suggestion to "Remove that hangar" was the better of the two, and we are glad to be of this much service to the flying public of Boston.

Bids were published in the City Record for the removal of the hangar, with the stipulation that the building be completely out of existence and only a memory when the tenth day after the signing of the contract by the winning bidder rolls around. Ten days are all that are allowed to the successful bidder, but in a way, we think it is ten days too long.

But there you are, and the hangar is on its way elsewhere, and no one cares just where.

Those of us who saw the hangar being started, and saw Boston's first commercial air enterprise, had better get over to the airport and make their final pictures of the old relic because its days are numbered.

Loud rejoicing was heard at the airport when the word went around that the building was finally on the skids. All the wisecrack suggestions made by various and sundry of the boys will now have to be turned elsewhere.

A grand, a glorious feelin', what we mean, to think that the entire levelled and cindered airport will be available for use in the next three weeks or so.

No more narrow escapes from colliding airplanes, boys, no more busted propellers and dented leading edges of wings, caused by bumping into the hangar when the wind takes the tail of the ship out of your control when your taxiing. That's all rapidly fading into memories, along with the other bugaboos that have faced the flyers during the years past.

And a great and grand celebration is in order when the last brick, last window frame, and last stick of wood is removed from the center of the Boston municipal airport.

FLY DESPITE COLD

Despite the subzero temperatures up in the air, the commercial boys insisted on doing a little flying, with the more hardy of the students wrapping their faces in masks, and going up for their usual flying instruction.

Leonard Povey, pilot for the Massachusetts Airways Corp. of Springfield, who has been down in this territory giving demonstrations with the Argo, owned by the company, waited until noon, when the sun was hottest before taking off for his home base. Povey was to pick up officials of Mass. Airways, and fly them down to New York for the air show, so, all wrapped up in every bit of clothing he could find, off he went for the hour's trip.

Two of the boys who announced their resignations from the Curtiss-Wright station at the airport, moved out, bag and baggage, to walk into their new jobs with the new flying outfit R. G. "Gil" Ervin is starting.

The boys are Robert "Bob" Foote, traffic manager, and William C. Harris, assistant traffic manager. We saw Bob as he was setting sail for his desk at the airport, bent on cleaning it out, and Harris bade the entire staff of C.-W. farewell for the time being.

That's the way these boys do things. Right away, quick.

17 IN TRIBUTE

There were two other ships in the formation put on during the burial of Carey Pridham, mail pilot killed at Hartford, bringing the total to 17. We counted 15 during the services, and the other two, containing Mrs. John Fay Shankle, in her Stearman, and Harold G. "Waco" Crowley, sitting at the controls of the Travel Air owned by the "Three Must Get Theirs," Win Young, Wes Temple and George McDonald. McDonald went along with Waco to take in the sights.

And we repeat, it was the greatest show ever put on by the boys for one of their comrades who had made the supreme sacrifice to commercial aviation.

WHALER READY FOR ANTARCTIC RESCUE DASH

Wireless Operator Aboard the S. S. Melville on the Wilkins-Hearst Antarctic Expedition.

(Copyright, 1930, by the New York American and Universal Service, Inc. Copyright in Great Britain, France, Germany and all other countries. Reproduction in whole or in part prohibited.)

Deception Island, Antarctica, Feb. 7 (via S. S. Melville and Kup, San Francisco Examiner Wireless Station)—We are marshaling our strength here today and preparing to launch a vigorous and widespread search for the steamship Scoresby and Capt. Wilkins, missing now for 10 days and nights.

What has increased our fears more than anything is that the last time the Scoresby made a trip south her radio was received very strong. We had hoped that this time the Scoresby may only have developed radio trouble and will answer as soon as repairs are made, but as day by day goes by our worry increases.

The Scoresby, with Captain Wilkins and the entire personnel of his expedition aboard, is somewhere in that sea of ice to the south of us.

I am to confer with the captain of the whaler Melville and ask his opinion as to the best way to launch an expedition south. We are prepared to send a spare whaling vessel out immediately to start the search, once our plans are formulated.

There are two whaler factories, Svenloyn and Maudie, lying south of Deception Island. Inquires show that they have not heard from the Scoresby.

Captain Wilkins had taken a general course southward when he failed to find a takeoff point for the proposed Ross Sea flight across the polar cap.

Weather condition here at Deception Island have been good, but sudden storms are prevalent in the ice sea to the south.

Amoskeag Employes to Receive Bonus

All employes of Amoskeag Manufacturing Company will receive a bonus of 5 per cent from last year's profits, the date of distribution to be determined later, according to a decision of the trustees today. They also declared a dividend of $1 per share on common stock, in three instalments, from last year's profits, this being the first dividend to be paid on such stock. The present capitalization of the company was effected in November, 1927.

Letters From Our Readers

Pacifism Develops Puny, Timorous Race

Editor Boston American:

People think that they are going to get rid of war by scrapping submarines, booming the Kellogg Pace Pact, pumping air into the World Court and caressing the League of Nations. I wish them well, but they, too, must reckon with human nature.

Wars arealways terrible, but it has to be admitted that a nation that never knew the shock of battle would have become a puny, self-centered and timorous people. The smooth and easy life only leaves us selfish, inert and useless cowards.

Such beings would never have cheered the men of the Armada, or Old Ironsides, or Dewey at Manilla.

The fighting instinct is in every one of us. It is expressed in different ways. Nations have their war. The fishes of the ocean are constantly in a broil and eat one another. If you are going to make this world a molly coddle one, you will soon find out that even this will stir up a fight, a snarl and a flare up that will never be settled unless with blows. We are also trying to make this world a sort of summer hotel, where we can take our ease, sit on the piazza all day. But there will be a row somewhere around and the cops will be called.

The way to stave off war is to be prepared for it. If we scrap submarines, it may be a case of locking the barn door after the horse is stolen. Time will reveal this.

HENRY T. GOODFELLOW.

Things That Cause Love to Disappear

Editor Boston American:

You hear many good things in Boston from different speakers from all parts of the world, who appear here. One this past week said so many things about husband and wife that I am going to launch them upon your readers.

"Women are often too afraid of losing their husband's love. But they are absolutely more civil to their husbands than are husbands to their wives.

"Some men seem to think that they never lose the love of their wives through their own conduct, proving themselves disagreeable as daily companions. That jealous husband who fears every other man who speaks to his wife and smiles at her, does not see in his rudeness to his wife, the very evidence of all ways of losing her."

These words are so true that I thought others might like to read them and reflect. They strike the nail on the head.

MRS. R. T. L.

Editor Boston American:

So the degree of Bachelor of Arts at Harvard University is to become a swimming degree. Why not ask this for entrance to Harvard? Of course, making it somewhat obligatory, but not decisive in all features.

Colleges are becoming pressed for new ventures to put one over on another college. A small college out West exacts teeth examination as one of the requisites for entrance. Another college for women rules what to wear on Commencement Day. For the life of me, I cannot see what swimming has to do with qualifying for the B. A. degree! I suppose we will be told later on about this when the powers that be will issue their bull on the subject. Till then we still wonder. It was a poem at Harvard that held up that degree last June.

Editor Boston American:

This ground hog business that ops up every Feb. 2 makes me ise my eyebrows far beyond heir normal height. Who is sufcient of a fool to believe this adow business? No one knows e origin of this, in fact, no one res to know it, even if it were und.

In Germany, the badger takes e role of the ground hog. The dger is a more helpful animal humanity in building dams an any ground hog. They say at the Scandinavians have iven this ground hog distinction to the bear who, when finding the sun is shining in his den, turns over and takes another nap.

There is too much of this kind of superstition crawling around, such as shaving makes the hair grow faster; a square jaw is the sign of will power; if your ears burn it is a sign that someone is talking about you; a high forehead indicates superior intelligence. To all this we say rightly:

Blah-Blah!

Thinks Radio Fans Should Be Given Consideration

Editor Boston American:

I heartily agree with the statement of Richard Western of Newton about radio programs. They are too much cluttered with jazzy noise and advertising.

The broadcasting companies made a great mistake in putting aside Dr. Conrad's Sunday evening sermon for paid advertising.

This advertising is becoming a great strain upon the minds of people who do not care for advertising in this shape. It must interfere with the sale of radios. We buy our radios for entertainment as well as educational purposes. We get advertising and cheap jazz seven days a week.

Every one reads the newspapers. Surely there is room in their columns for all the needed advertising. I am turning off the radio for days at a time, because there is nothing on the air but a lot of advertising jargon.

Pleads for Return of Beer and Light Wines

Editor Boston American:

In the year 1918 when the boys were at war the Congress assembled and they voted for the Eighteenth Amendment and they put it in force, and since then conditions have become worse and worse, no home is secure, and no life worth a straw since they started enforcing this tyrannical law.

In the old days you could buy a dram for a dime, but it now costs a dollar a slug for moonshine. The bootleggers are thriving, the cops cannot see, or that's how the situation seems up to me. They're all out for the money, let enforcement go hang. They leave that to Doran, Andy Mellon and his gang, but there must come a change and it ought to come now. Conditions were never so bad you'll allow. The millions made idle by that sumptuary law could be toiling and happy as they were heretofore. So give us our beer and our wines, then at least you'll have started this nation on the right road to peace.

HIS BOSTON BAKER WAS AFRAID HE WOULD HAVE TO GIVE UP HIS BUSINESS

ut Headaches and Pains in Small of Back Were Quickly Relieved by Bon-Tone

Mr. Robert Rondelli

In a recent statement to the Bon-Tone man at Epstein's Drug Store, Scollay Square, Boston, Mr. Robert Rondelli, of 126 North street, Bosou, said:

"I had been feeling very poorly y the past year. I was a baker, my business proved so confinthat I had to give it up. I had ost severe headaches, and also severe pains in the small of my back. My appetite was very poor—I never felt really hungry, but would force myself to eat; and no matter how little I did eat, I would always be troubled with gas. Another thing that bothered me was constipation, and I always had to take some kind of laxative to get a movement. All these troubles left me in such a weakened condition that the least exertion completely tired me out; and, as I said before, I had to give up my work.

"When I met a friend of mine and told him I was loafing on account of my condition, he advised me to go to Epstein's Drug Store and try Bon-Tone, as he knew people who spoke very highly of it. I bought some Bon-Tone, and have now used three bottles of this remedy; and I feel very well. I am going to take a few more bottles, and then I think I will be in fine shape and able to go back to work. I recommend Bon-Tone!"

Call and see the Bon-Tone man at Epstein Drug Co., Inc., at Scollay Square, Boston. Bon-Tone is for sale at all good Drug Stores everywhere. Call or write for free booklet.

Miss Laetitia Orlandini Makes Bow at Mrs. Curtis Guild's Ball Tonight

MANY DINNERS TO PRECEDE DEBUT

AN OUTSTANDING PRESENTATION party of the winter is taking place this evening with Mrs. Curtis Guild as hostess, the affair to be held at the Ritz-Carlton. The honor debutante is Mrs. Guild's niece, Miss Laetitia Orlandini. Miss Orlandini's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Vittorio Orlandini of Marlborough st., are to entertain at the ushers' dinner of 60 at the Copley Plaza preceding the dance. Mrs. Guild is to wear a chiffon gown of pastel colors, interwoven with silver in patterns of ferns and flowers. With this costume she will wear diamonds. Mrs. Orlandini has chosen for this occasion a green crepe dress ornamented with rhinestones, while her daughter, bud-like, is to be frocked in silver and white, the bodice of silver and the skirt of tulle. Miss Orlandini will carry red roses.

THE USHERING IS TO BE under the leadership of Willis P. Beal of Boston and John Lavalle of Cambridge, a nephew of Mrs. Guild's. The following named young men will assist them: Frederick T. Burgess, Charles S. Bound, Desmond FitzGerald, and John G. Lewis, all of New York, Richard D. Kernan of Utica, N. Y., Potter Palmer, 3d, Henry G. Nickerson of Dedham, Francis J. Hallowell of Readville, W. Prescott Wolcott of Readville, and John S. Ames, Jr., John P. Barns, John A. Blanchard, 2d, A. L. Coleman, Laurence Curtis, 2d, Robert Cushman, Arthur L. Devens, Jr., Charles Devens, Robert T. Hamlin, George W. Moving, Richard Olney, Jr., Edward Orlandini, a brother of the debutante, J. Harleston Parker, Jr., Frederick B. Robinson, Henry B. Sawyer, Jr., Henry B. Sleeper, Charles H. Stockton.

A NUMBER OF DINNER parties are being given this evening whose guests will go on to Mrs. Guild's dance afterwards. Mr. and Mrs. Chester S. Day of Browne st., Brookline are feting their debutante daughter, Miss Caroline Day, in this manner. Miss Alice Blake Newell is to be honored at a dinner given by her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. James Newell, Jr., of Cambridge. The party is to be at the Commonwealth ave. residence of Mr. and Mrs. James M. Newell, Sr. Among those bidden to this dinner are Mr. and Mrs. Howland Seabury, Miss Caroline Wildrick, Miss Kathleen Chase, Evan Randolph, John Stetson, Mason Hammond and Henry Newell.

OF OUTSTANDING INTEREST in the horseshoe of boxes at the opera house last night was the one in which Mr. and Mrs. Alvan T. Fuller were entertaining. Mrs. Fuller was looking very beautiful in a Parisian creation of blue and silver lame. Among the guests in Mr. and Mrs. Edwin S. Webster's box was their debutante niece, Miss Elizabeth deP. Hovey. Miss Hovey was modishly attired in a fine green lace. Mrs. Charles G. Weld, hostess in her box, was charming in gown of pale pink. A seagreen lame was the choice of Mrs. John L. Grandin for the hearing of Wagner's "Tristan and Isolde."

MR. AND MRS. HENRY STURGIS GREW were also in attendance and with them was their daughter, Miss Ethel Hooper Grew, who was wearing an attractive flowered frock. Mrs. Grew's evening dress was of blue lace. Miss Rachel Jackson was once more among those present, she too was attired in a flowered gown, hers of particularly brilliant colors. Mrs. William H. Thayer, gowned in black, was accompanied by her daughter, Mrs. Laurence Batchelder, who before her marriage last November was Miss Nancy Thayer. Miss Louise Fessenden was costumed in a flame colored gown and a fashionably short wrap of green and gold cloth.

AMONG THOSE SEATED IN an orchestra stall was Mrs. George S. West. As usual she was looking very charming, this time in a black gown with rhinestone trimmed bodice and a tulle skirt. Another wearing black was Miss Betty Thomas. She was with Miss Peggy Bent, whose dress was of buff satin. Miss Eleanor Garfield, continuing her fidelity to the opera, was last night frocked in pink crepe. Miss Olga Monks, another music lover, was strikingly clad in a red velvet having panels at the back. She was wearing an elaborate gold necklace.

AS ON THE OPENING night of the opera, Mr. and Mrs. Eliot T. Spalding are entertaining guests at dinner tonight, then taking them on to hear Mary Garden in "Louise." Her honor guest is to be Miss Elizabeth Hobbs, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Hobbs, a friend of their daughter, Miss Betty Spalding, who, of course, will be among the guests, as will also Miss Dorothea Newman and Miss Pauline Shaw.

JOHN STORER WAS JOINED at the Wardman Park Hotel in Washington by his brother and sister-in-law, Dr. and Mrs. Malcolm Storer, who motored from their home in Boston, and entertained Mr. Storer and his daughter. Miss Emily Storer will entertain at the Stratford dinner this evening when their guests will be Rear Admiral and Mrs. Mark Bristol, Judge and Mrs. John Rutherford, Dr. Sterling Ruffing, Mrs. Robert Whitney Imbrie, Mrs. Arthur MacArthur, and the Rev. Dr. Robert Johnson. Mr. and Mrs. George Higginson, Jr., of Lenox, have taken an apartment at the Wardman Park Hotel, where they will be for several months.

MRS. CHARLES UNDERHILL, Mrs. Charles Gifford and Mrs. Frank Foss, wives of the Massachusetts Representatives in Congress, entertained at a luncheon Wednesday at the Hotel Roosevelt in Washington. Their guests were members of the congressional set and included, Mrs. John Q. Tilson, Mrs. Henry Allen Cooper, Mrs. Lindley H. Hadley, Mrs. Albert H. Vestal, Mrs. Daniel A. Reed, Mrs. Clarence Lea, Mrs. Richard N. Elliott, Mrs. Guy U. Hardy, Mrs. John McDuffie, Mrs. Henry E. Barbour, Mrs. Earl C. Michener, Mrs. Olger B. Burtness, Mrs. Thomas J. B. Robinson, Mrs. Edward M. Beers, Mrs. W. W. Arnold, Mrs. Scott Leavitt, Mrs. J. Banks Kurtz, Mrs. Elbert S. Brigham, Mrs. Albert E. Carter, Mrs. Harry L. Englebright, Mrs. Franklin Fort, Mrs. Fletcher Hale, Mrs. Frederick M. Davenport, Mrs. Lloyd Thurston, Mrs. Joe J. Manlove, Mrs. Frederick W. Magrady, Mrs. Charles F. Keifner, Mrs. Joseph L. Hooper, Mrs. William R. Coyle, Mrs. Edgar C. Ellis, Mrs. T. S. Williams, Mrs. Jessie Walters, Mrs. James MacLafferty, Mrs. Walter Newton, Mrs. Schuyler of California; Miss Ruth Foss and Miss Phoebe Underhill.

AMONG ARRIVALS AT THE St. Regis in New York City are Mr. and Mrs. Russell Sturgis Codman of Boston.

IT IS ANNOUNCED FROM New York that Mrs. Harris Livermore (Mildred Stimson), was married to Charles Ridgely of New York on Tuesday at 437 East 51st st. Mrs. Ridgely is the mother of Mrs. F. Murray Forbes Jr. (Elizabeth Livermore) and the Misses Grace D. and Lorna Livermore, she had been making her home in Beaver pl., Boston.

TRIUMPH IN CLASSIC BY WAGNER

By MOSES SMITH

The performance of "Tristan and Isolde" by the Chicago Civic Opera Company at the Boston Opera House last night was the third or fourth in this city since the war. The neglect of the greatest of all musical love-tragedies gives some idea of the low estate, operatically speaking, into which Boston has fallen. Let us first of all thank the visitors for the opportunity of hearing this glorious music in its proper setting, especially since the performance would have been a credit to any opera company in the world.

The excellence of the production was due principally to the splendid cast, for it is now obvious that the Chicagoans have more than the nucleus of a remarkable German contingent, capable of playing German operas, especially Wagner's, with the requisite authority and artistry. Of the singers on stage last night Frieda Leider and Maria Olszewska were recognized leading singers at European opera houses; Alexander Kipnis is being similarly established, even to Bayreuth, fountain-head of the Wagnerian tradition; Theodore Strack is an able tenor from German stages.

EXCELS IN ROLE

In these days of bad singing, especially Wagnerian singing, Mme. Leider's Isolde last night was an extraordinary performance. The beauty and power of her voice were stunning, for she was in better form than in the opening night's "Walkure." As she sang last night here was an Isolde voice par excellence, matched by few if any in the world today. The exhausting demands that Wagner made on his heroine left Mme. Leider still fresh for the closing "Liebestod."

Her acting was mate to her singing. She satisfied one of the requisites of a great impersonation—apparent spontaneity. It had moments, but only rare moments, of the heaviness of gesture characteristic of the formalized Wagnerian acting of today. For the most part Mme. Leider was a passionate sweetheart, comparatively youthful-looking. Her makeup, incidentally, was remarkably effective.

The Brangaene of Mme. Olszewska calls for equally enthusiastic praise. Singing or acting, in motion or in repose, the woman was gorgeous. She added to other talents a certain statuesque beauty, as when the curtain rose on the first act, disclosing her resting against the drapery in the back of the stage.

Mr. Strack began with a none too effective Tristan in the first act, but he bettered his performance as the music-drama progressed, apparently becoming more engrossed in his work. Sometimes his voice was, even from the standpoint of power, a poor second to Mme. Leider's, but as a rule it rose above the orchestral fury, thanks to the skill of the conductor, Egon Pollak. At all events it was a Tristan immeasurably superior to the last one Boston saw and heard.

IN RIGHT TONE ALWAYS

The glorious Kipnis was King Marke, so nobly, so touchingly, that we almost forgot the tragic sweethearts. His singing in the second act was one of the most moving things we have ever heard on any stage. And the eloquence of his back while Isolde sang her "Death of Love" was compelling.

All four of these singing actors, moreover, possessed the gift of tonal speech, clothing the words not only with appropriately illusory gestures but with just the right tone quality as well. With the exception of Strack they exhibited often and tellingly the ability to vary vocal quality during the course of a single tone—an ability that never fails to excite admiration, but that is all too rare among opera singers.

The one other important part, Kurvenal the faithful, was done by Richard Bonelli. Recognizing that a really satisfactory performance of an important Wagner role demands years of study and experience, let us none the less be grateful for his able performance. On the vocal side, as pure singing, it could not have been appreciably better. It was a beautiful voice singing with flawless artistry.

Mr. Pollak's reading of the score was something of an enigma. It had unquestioned authority. For rhythmic urge, upbuilding of climaxes and unusually fine balance of orchestral tone with voices it left little to be desired. But it was not, for the most part, an impassioned reading, nor did it have a sensuous—or sensual—quality, and these things are necessary in a first-rate "Tristan." Undeniably Mr. Pollak was hampered by an orchestra neither large nor plastic enough.

The other points in the production, including lesser singers, chorus and stage direction of ensembles, did not suggest the Wagnerian atmosphere. But this, after all, is too much to expect anywhere else than in Germany, where singers grow up on this diet. The scenes, in their workaday fashion, were sufficiently effective. The lighting technicians, however, have not yet quite settled down to a Boston environment.

CONFERENCE ON SPRING FASHIONS

By ANN ARDEN.

THE enthusiasm of the business family known as R. H. White & Co. was displayed for all to see at the spring fashion conference held in the store last evening. It was a happy, intimate and altogether efficient gathering of executives, buyers, representatives of the press, fashion magazine and last, but not least, the stylist.

Mr. MacCurdy, beaming on his associates, announced that the object of the conference was to "enable the entire store to present a united front regarding fashion." Mr. MacCurdy declared fashion to be universal, as there are fashions in games, sports, books, even fashions in dogs—as well as in furniture and clothing. Mr. MacCurdy's little talk was that of the far-seeing merchant, and included the sage statement that "the use of fashion means success—the lack of it means failure."

Miss Lillian M. Beckett, the stylist, gave a most interesting talk on the style trends and developments, and illustrated her salient points, first by lantern slides of the modes of a year ago contrasted with the more gracious styles of today, and then demonstrated the more subtle details on living models.

Miss Beckett defined style "as a characteristic of a given period," and fashion "as a style which is accepted by a group of people," and the salient points of the mode she defined as harmony, proportion, individuality and suitability.

The many details demonstrated on the costumes worn included the accepted skirt lengths, high waistline, bolero jacket, the style importance of capes, peplums and variety of bows, the versatility of sleeve lengths and the charm of pastel colors, as well as the fun of mixing or contrasting one's costume color scheme, rather than the safe and sane rule of matching frock, hat and bag.

Miss Beckett talked of the new fabrics, too. Altogether a clever and entertaining resume of the highlights of the mode for spring and summer.

Mr. Flanagan, publicity director, added many witticisms and much solid common sense to the evening's enlightenment in his talk on "how these styles should be advertised and displayed." Mr. Flanagan defined advertising as "mass selling," and urged his hearers to greater co-ordination and helpfulness. He declared there are fashions in words as well as in fabrics and colors, and then gave a list of words he particularly disliked. Undoubtedly the audience was "with" him—almost to the point of hissing the offending words and phrases.

As an attentive listener and observer of Mr. Flanagan's performance, I should say Ed Wynn had a rival in Boston as to personality and showmanship!

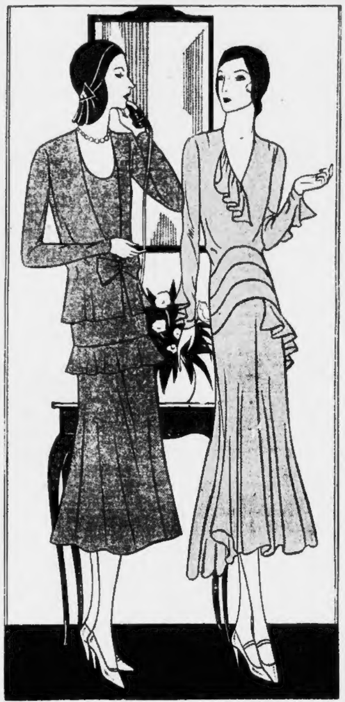
A Department Devoted to Fashions, Decoration and Social Customs



Green Is First Color of Fashion's Formal Afternoon Mode

HAIL to the green this year for it is the first color of this fashionable land. Green from its brightest hue to the paled tone verging on the yellow is marked to lead the color card for coats and frocks alike. And you who have shunned green as a "difficult" shade for your coloring need no longer do so. There is a green this year for every type; you have only to decide which shade is for you.

IN choosing your spring green it would be wise to consider five definite tones which are going to be smartly seen and which will form the basis of many effective contrasts with other colors. In coats the greens are slightly misty or dulled, whereas for frocks they are bright and clear.

There is a parsley green whose name describes its tone. A peasant green is reminiscent of the emerald tone of the winter mode. Oriental green has the blue-green tones of jade. Lettuce green leans toward the yellow scale and absinthe green is more yellow than green in character.

FORMALITY remains a definite characteristic of the late afternoon and early evening mode. The longer skirt, subtle fullness and intricate detail are given a new importance for spring by the careful way in which they are handled. The mode has gone through its transition period and the fashions which now emerge for spring are the careful mergers of the new silhouette's best points.

Three phases of the more formal afternoon fashions have been sketched here. There is the frock which attracted great attention this winter and was known as the "Sunday night dress." It appears again for spring and summer wearing its jacket, which upon removal reveals a dinner frock!

Radcliffe Girls Have Series of Proms

Radcliffe's social season is at its height this week-end, when proms hold forth in a blaze of glory. Even the just-completed mid-year exams are forgotten, as the girls gather in groups to discuss dance programs, boxes, and new evening gowns.

The Senior Prom was held under the direction of Helen Reed of Salt Lake City, Utah; and the Junior Prom, for which Clara Butler of West Roxbury is chairman, will take place tonight. On Saturday afternoon the Year Book will hold a tea dance, under the direction of Hess Houghton, '32, of Plainfield, N. J.

Hazel Forbes of "Whoopee," proves that PROPER CARE makes the hair more attractive. She's wearing the popular LONG BOB.

Easy Way to Make Hair Grow Long, Soft, Abundant

YOU, too, can have long, soft, abundant hair. It's simply a matter of using this easy method; approved by hair-specialists; endorsed by stars of stage and screen; used by millions who haven't time for the more laborious treatments.

Tonight when you arrange your hair, just put a little Danderine on your brush. Then as you draw the bristles through your hair, see how the scalp is toned and soothed. See how the hair becomes softer, easier to manage; how its natural color is brought out; how it takes on new brilliance and lustre!

Danderine dissolves the crust of dandruff; helps stop falling hair; keeps hair and scalp healthy; encourages the growth of long, silky, abundant hair. Five million bottles used a year. That proves Danderine's effectiveness!

Raising Money Easy If You Know How

Various Methods Explained to Women

Experts Speak at Club Institute Session

THERE isn't a thing about how to raise money that clubwomen don't know.

The task of acquiring the necessary shekels is simple and easy to them, for they are experienced in every method, to judge by the reports of club officials at the monthly Club Institute session at the Hotel Vendome.

Ways and means for raising funds for club pursuits and philanthropies, and even for that ever-to-be-remembered foundation fund were chronicled by the speakers, while an attentive audience of several hundred anxious clubwomen didn't miss a word.

As these women told about it, money was just waiting to be collected by needy clubs and women. The usual card parties and bazaars and rummages were related. But indeed these are not the only systems. There are dramatic nights, fines for forgotten membersnip cards, house parties, special programs, lectures, extra charges for guests, retail merchandising of whole sale purchases, the visiting of laundries for premiums, food demonstrations and many other such enterprises.

Mrs. Thomas J. Walker, third vice-president of the State Federation of Women's Clubs, and "mother" of the Club Institute, welcomed the several hundred clubwomen, announcing as the tonic of next month's discussion, a resume of all the questions relative to club life that have been unanswered during the year.

FOUNDATION FUND

The meeting was then turned over to Mrs. George A. Mellon, vice-chairman of Club Institute, who introduced the speakers.

Little boxes inscribed with "Foundation Fund, Keep Me In Sight," will be used to collect the per capita tax of $2.50 for the fund by the Cosmos Club of Wakefield, Mrs. A. Augustus McWhipple said. The two vice-presidents of the club are in charge of the fund raising which is to affect 350 members.

The club is particularly proud of its student loan fund, Mrs. McWhipple who is club president, announced. The fund consists of $2360, by which 16 students are benefited. Of this number, 11 are in college. The club also has a reserve fund; they make good use of the "small change" basket for remembrances; they sponsored an all-ladies' minstrel show successfully.

In March they are planning an evening fashion show. And February 21 will be New England Day, featured by a New England boiled dinner and the presence of Mrs. Azel A. Packard, State president; Mrs. Frank G. Allen, wife of the governor; Mrs. Philip H. Tirrell, district director, and Mrs. Lauren McMaster, State chairman of the department of American home.

The West Newton Educational Club realized $1700 from their bazaar, the report of Mrs. Joseph A. McDonald read. This amount was earned by the 125 women who participated in it.

Mrs. Stephen Bradford of the Clifton Literary Club of Dorchester, introduced many novel ways by which he club hopes to make money. She told of going to a laundry, being shown over the plant and then given 25 cents for each woman who is in the party; also of a special contribution of $1 for sending another party who mentioned her name.

She told of accepting invitations to be shown household equipment for the free use of a meeting place and luncheon. Since the program is gratis, the members are taxed a small sum, which goes back into the treasury.

MARBLEHEAD CLUB

The Marblehead Woman's Club has an interesting story in its efforts of last summer, when it participated in the town's tercentenary celebration and cleared as profit $975. Since the town made possible the gain, the women felt part of it should go back to the town, Mrs. Wright told, and so $700 was contributed to the upkeep of the Marblehead Female Humane Society.

Mrs. Charles P. Marshall of the Braintree Philergians said the club had 500 members and a reserve fund started six years ago by the $250 gift of a retiring president. Estimating the return in percentages on the dollars invested by club members in the club, Mrs. Marshall suggested that the women got back 50 per cent on their money. Twelve per cent in music; 15 in programs and 22 per cent in hospitality.

Mrs. Stewart A. Colpitts, president of the Brightelmstone Club of Brighton, told of having a scholarship of $100 for the Brigton high school annually, a club house, a savings account and a checking account. Indeed a prosperous club. By a two-day bazaar last year, she said, the club received $1500 in money and millions in sociability.

Mrs. Arthur Devens Potter, Massachusetts director for the General Federation told of the ways and means pursued by the various states for the Foundation fund. Particularly interesting is the decision of North Dakota clubwomen to raise money by raising pigs.

BROOKLINE WOMAN'S CLUB

Young people's afternoon will be celebrated at the regular meeting on Monday afternoon at 2:30 in Whitney Hall. Mrs. Newell L. Keith, chairman, has secured a magician to entertain club children and guests as well as grown-ups.

A clown will present each kiddie with a cap and balloon, and Jean Budding will entertain with toe dancing. Music by the high school orchestra and dancing for the older girls and boys will close the afternoon. Mrs. Reginald Margeson is hostess.

The literature class will meet at the home of the chairman, Mrs. Oscar C. Gallagher, 1821 Beacon st., on Thursday, February 13, at 10:30 a. m., in Beacon Hall. Marie Ware Laughton, president of the Drama League of Boston, and identified with the Outdoor Players of Peterboro, N. H., will read a play.

Mrs. Grace Morrison Poole will present the fourth lecture in the Current Event series on Friday, February 14, at 10:30 a. m. in Beacon Hall. The large attendance shows the interest and value these talks are to club members.

The art committee, Mrs. Frank R. Fayerweather chairman, announces an afternoon at the Gardner Museum, 280 Fenway, on February 20, at 1:45 p. m. An hour will be devoted to viewing its art treasures under a competent guide. This will be followed by a half-hour concert in the tapestry room.

BARNSTABLE WOMAN'S CLUB

The club meets again next Monday at 3 p. m. in the club room to hear a talk on Dedham pottery by Mrs. Giles Dowling of South Yarmouth, first vice-president of the Hyannis Woman's Club, presented by Mrs. F. Howard Hinckley, chairman of the American Home Committee, which sponsors the program. Mrs. William A. Jones, another member of the committee, will be the hostess for the day.

STATE FEDERATION BROADCAST

Mrs. Thomas J. Walker, third vice-president, will broadcast a "greeting" from WNAC next Wednesday morning at 11:30. Miss Bernadine Brooks, violinist; Miss Virginia Brooks, 'cellist; and Miss Helen Lyndon, pianist, are to entertain at 11:40. This trio is presented by Mrs. Vern Q. Powell, a former member of the music department of the State Federation. Mrs. Carl L. Schrader, the first vice-president of the Federation and the radio "Book Lady" of the organization, will be on the air at 11:50 a. m. with "Bookland's New Bill of Fare." Announcement of this program is made by Mrs. Leon E. White, radio director of the Federation.

Y. W. C. A.

A supper for members and friends of the association will be held at the Boston Y. W. C. A. next Tuesday night, with Mrs. John C. Johnston and Mrs. Henry J. Kenderdine, both of Brookline, as hostesses. This is one of the series of similar gatherings held under the auspices of the membership department. There will be special music and an informal get-together. Mrs. Oliver O. Pope of Wellesley and Miss Bertha Fogerty of Brookline will assist the committee in welcoming the guests.

Mrs. Mercedes Gould, formerly manager of the Pioneer, Boston's new residence for women, has been appointed food service director of the Y. W. C. A. at St. Louis.

DAUGHTERS OF VERMONT

Governor and Mrs. Allen of Massachusetts and Governor and Mrs. John E. Weeks of Vermont, will be guests of honor at the annual joint reception and banquet of the Daughters of Vermont Club and the Boston Vermont Association at the Hotel Vendome tomorrow evening. Dinner will be at 7 p. m., after which there will be a program. Dancing will follow.

U. S. EXPORTING MILLION A DAY IN MACHINERY

Washington, Feb. 7 (INS) In American industrial machinery exports of aproximately $1,000,000 a day, Commerce Department officials today saw the rapid adoption in foreign countries of mass-production developed to a high degree in United States since the war.

There are several important effects of this tendency, some of which will react against American producers, although the beneficial results, through creation of higher purchasing power abroad, probably will outweigh the disadvantages.

Officials pointed out that with the more efficient industrialization of Canada, the United Kingdom, France, Germany, Japan, Russia, Belgium, Italy and Czechoslovakia the products of these nations will come into more effective competition with the United States, especially with mass-production plus cheap foreign labor.

On the other hand, mass-production abroad, means a great check to unemployment, probably better wages, and the subsequent materially stronger demand for luxuries and semi-luxuries as well as high-class necessities, in which American industry excels.

Rescue Ship Brings Fishing Boat's Crew

Vigo, Spain, Feb. 7 (AP)—After being given up for lost 11 members of the fishing smack Maria Del Carmen arrived here today aboard the Terrera Republica, which rescued them at great risk during the latter days of January when their own craft sank.

The men explained that they were surprised off the Portuguese coast by terrific storms which disabled their boat and left them helpless until the Terrera Republica appeared on the scene and made a daring rescue, despite the high seas.

Leominster Pastor Dies at Age of 79

Leominster, Feb. 7 (AP)—The Rev. Eugene Toher, 79, pastor of St. Leo's Catholic Church since 1900, died today at his home. He was born in County Cavan, Ireland, and was admitted to the priesthood in 1877, coming to America a few years later.

He came here from a pastorate at St. Patrick's Catholic Church, South Hadley Falls.

Martha Lee Gives Delicious Recipes for All of Your Valentine Parties

LUNCHEON, DINNER DISHES INCLUDED IN TESTED LIST

THIS week's work in the Martha Lee School of Practical Cookery centered around a Valentine Luncheon, but even though you may not be going to entertain on Valentine's Day, we think you will find among the dishes at least two or three that you can incorporate in your next bridge luncheon or Sunday night supper.

Here's the menu:

A VALENTINE SUPPER
Essence of Tomato Soup
Radish Roses Curled Celery
Creamed Ham in Bread Baskets
Stuffed Pimientos
Parsley Potato Balls
Valentine Salad
Valentine Cake
Grenagin

CREAMED HAM IN BREAD BASKETS.

Cut stale bread in squares and then cut into heart shapes. Remove centers and brush shell with melted butter. Place on cookie sheet in moderate oven and bake until brown, or fry in deep fat. Fill with creamed ham.

CREAMED HAM

Make a cream sauce with 1½ tbsps. butter, 1½ tbsps. flour and 1½ cs. milk. Season to taste. Add to this 1½ cs. of diced cold boiled or roasted ham, 1 tbsp. of minced pimiento, 1 tbsp. of chopped olives. Bring to a boil. Fill the bread baskets. Garnish with parsley and serve at once.

VALENTINE SALAD
¼ c. cold water
½ c. boiling water
1 level tbsp. gelatine
⅓ c. sugar
1 c. canned fruit juice (strawberry, raspberry or loganberry)
2 tbsps. lemon juice
Dash of salt
Pineapple slices

Soak the gelatine in cold water about five minutes. Then add 2 tbps. boiling water and then add the heated fruit juice, salt, and sugar to taste (about ⅓ c.). Turn into heart shape mould, or into a shallow pan and when firm cut out the hearts with a tin cutter. Arrange each heart on a slice of canned pineapple, garnish with lettuce and whipped cream. If pineapple juice is used for the jelly instead of strawberry or raspberry or loganberry juice, the jelly can be colored with red coloring.

VALENTINE CAKE
1 cup white shortening
6 egg whites
4 tsps. baking powder
1 cup cold water
2 cups sugar
3 1-3 cups sifted pastry flour
½ tsp. salt
1 tsp. vanilla.

Cream the shortening until soft enough to beat with spoon. Sift sugar and add it to the shortening and cream well. (It often helps to hasten perfect creaming to add 1 tbsp. or 2 tbsps. of the measured 1 cup of water to the sugar and shortening at this point.) Sift flour, baking powder and salt together and add alternately with the remaining water. Add the flavoring and beat lightly rather than stir. Cut and fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites. Line the bottom of layer pans with paper. Bake in 375 F. oven 25 minutes. When firm to touch and shrunken from sides of pan, remove to cake cooler and let stand a few minutes. Ice with your favorite icing sprinkled with fresh grated cocoanut. The dough may be divided and one-half colored pink if desired. The frosting can be colored pink and will contrast prettily with the white cocoanut.

BOILED FROSTING
1 cup granulated sugar
Whites of 2 eggs
½ cup of water
½ tsp. flavoring

Boil sugar and water over slow fire until syrup spins thread. Pour very slowly into stiffly beaten egg whites. Beat until smooth and almost stiff enough to spread. Add flavoring and color. Spread on cake. Cover with cocoanut.

If you'd like a complete lesson sheet giving the recipes for the Soup, Stuffed Pimientos, the Radish Roses, Curled Celery, and Parsley Potatoes, drop a line to Martha Lee, giving your membership number in the Martha Lee Women's Club, and your copy will be sent you promptly. (And we'll repeat today, if you aren't already a member of this interesting club of no dues but many privileges, you'd better write Martha Lee for your registered membership number today.)

ONION SOUP ITALIENNE

Wipe, peel and slice five small onions; put in a frying pan and cook in butter until soft, taking care not to burn. To six cups of soup stock add onions and salt to taste. Cut bread in thin slices and remove crusts. Toast on both sides. Place in soup dish, sprinkle with three tablespoons grated Italian cheese, and pour soup over bread just before serving.

SOUPS AND STEWS

Long ago I talked to you about the value of a stock pot, its convenience and economy—and I'm hoping that those of you who haven't yet started one will buy a good deep iron kettle and use the remnants of Sunday's dinner for the first installment.

You know all your left-overs with the exception of bacon or other smoked meats, potatoes and leafy vegetables can be used. Small pieces of beef, roasted, broiled or stewed, veal, chicken and turkey bones, chopped bones of lamb and all of the trimmings and bones from the market go into the kettle. Don't use large pieces of fat on account of the strong flavor. You should have 2-3 lean meat and 1-3 bone and fat to proportion your stock pot properly.

The lean meat gives the juices, salts and extracts, and from the bones come the gelatine and mineral matter. Fat which rises to the top when the stock is cold should not be removed until just before you are ready to use the stock as it forms a protective blanket.

When you first start your stock pot it should simmer five or six hours, after that you should boil it up each day and strain out the solid matter. In this way you will always have ready the foundation for delicious and rich soups, gravies and entrees.

CREAMY NUT FUDGE

A Somerville member sends a request for cream nut fudge, so will all of you who have written for this special recipe, take this for your answer:

CHOCOLATE WALNUT FUDGE
2 c. sugar
2-3 c. rich milk
2 squares chocolate, grated
2 tbsp. butter
½ c. walnuts

Put sugar and milk in saucepan, stir until sugar is dissolved, and boil without stirring to 238 degrees F. or until candy forms a soft ball when tried in cold water. Add grated chocolate and butter, and pour on marble slab or large platter that has been wiped over with a damp cheesecloth.

When cool add nut meats, and work with a spatula until creamy. Press into a buttered pan, or shape on a marble slab, and when firm cut in squares.

Don't stir until cool.

ROUGHAGE IN DIET NEEDED IN REDUCING

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Eliminates Danger

Are you one of those who are reducing by diet? If so, there is one important thing you should know—diets that do not include roughage cause constipation, often with serious consequences. Guard against it!

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN contains the roughage needed to insure regular elimination. It is guaranteed to relieve both temporary and recurring constipation or your money will be refunded. Two tablespoons daily—in serious cases, with each meal.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is not fattening. But it does add valuable iron to the blood which helps prevent anemia (another dieting danger) and bring a glowing, healthy color to the complexion.

You can enjoy Kellogg's ALL-BRAN in many delightful ways. As a ready-to-eat cereal with milk, honey, sprinkled over cereals and salads, in soups and soaked in fruit juices. It is appetizing in cooked food. Your grocer has Kellogg's ALL-BRAN in the red-and-green package. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Market Features as Seen From the Watch Tower

February usually calls for extra entertaining — Valentine bridges, suppers after the theater or opera, Washington's Birthday luncheon, etc.—so even though it's a short month, the food budget is often pretty long. A knowledge of market prices and supplies such as we try to give you in this column should help the homemaker who must plan the menus.

Firstly about vegetables. Broccoli is in season and can be found for as low as 14c to 15c a pound. If you aren't acquainted with this aristocratic member of the spinach family, haven't ever eaten it boiled until tender and then served with melted butter and Parmesan cheese, or Hollandaise Sauce or fried in olive oil—don't delay getting acquainted. Spinach is selling for 3 lbs. for 35c to 45c not quite as high as last week, and I did find a basket of native hothouse tomatoes at 75c a pound, luxury or luxuries. Most southern tomatoes around 30c a pound are of rather poor quality. Cranberries are available from 25c to 35c a pound with a poorer grade at 10c to 20c. Locally grown products are limited to squash and the root crops, such as carrots and parsnips. Lemons are low priced and so are grapefruit. And baked apples, apple sauce, and apple pie with accompanying whipped cream can well afford to be on your menus with native Baldwin apples at 3 to 5 pounds for 25c, and cream a bit more reasonable than it has been.

Some early shad have arrived in the market at 85c a pound but the real shad lover will cheerfully dig down deep for this delicacy. Lobster meat at $1 a pound and brook trout at $1.25 a pound are other fish counter luxuries, but haddock, cod steak, and flounder fillets make good fish buys for you and me.

ORDER YOUR PARTY CAKE NOW

If you're still undecided as to the piece de resistance for your Valentine Party refreshment, let us remind you again of the Valentine Ice Cream Cakes that are so popular. These are made of solid ice cream in two flavors—rubyette and mocha—and are exquisitely decorated in pink and white whipped cream and a huge pink heart with appropriate lettering.

Delivered in a dry ice carton to keep in perfect condition for several hours, this ice cream cake certainly makes a novel and luscious dessert for any kind of Valentine entertaining.

Shall I tell you how to order one brought right to your door? In sizes to serve either 10 or 14 people?

Today, in the real estate columns of the Classified Ads, you will find scores of opportunities for profitable investment.

A COLORFUL MENU FOR WASHINGTON'S BIRTHDAY
Creamed Tomato Soup with Toast Blockade
Chicken Salad in Tents
Midget Pickles
Heart-like Rolls
Pears a la Valley Forge
Red Cinnamon Patties Coffee
Dates Stuffed with Cherries

FOR the Toast Blockade, cut bread in pieces about the size of French fried potatoes, browned lightly in a moderate oven and piled in blockade fashion on serving dish.

For the Chicken Salad in tents, mix lightly 2 cups of diced chicken meat or 1 large can of cooked chicken, 1 cup of diced ripe tomatoes, 1 cup of diced celery, ½ cup of walnuts, ½ cup of sliced stuffed olives. Moisten well with mayonnaise. Place a slice of canned pineapple on a bed of shredded lettuce and pile the salad on top. Stick cheese straws around the pineapple uniformly, bringing the ends together at the top of the salad.

Pears a la Valley Forge are made by draining 1 large can of pears. Add ½ cup of orange juice, ¼ cup of lemon juice, and 1 cup of grenadine to the pear syrup. Bring to a boil. Soften 1½ tbsps. of gelatine in ¼ cup of cold water for 5 minutes. Dissolve in the boiling liquid. Cool. Arrange the pear halves with the cut side up in the individual wet moulds. Pour over the gelatine. Chill until set. Unmould and serve with a fluting of whipped cream around the base and a tiny flag on top.

Choice Sandwiches for Valentine Socials

Cut fresh bread in thin slices, butter lightly and spread with cream cheese mixed with finely chopped pimiento or strawberry jam. Cut with heart shaped cutter and decorate with a tiny sprig of parsley or pimiento hearts.

RICE, ITALIAN STYLE
1 cup uncooked rice
2 cups hot soup stock (preferably chicken).
1 tablespoon butter
1 teaspoon minced onion grated parmesan cheese
salt and paprika

Heat the butter in a stewpan and add the onions, letting them cook until a pale yellow. Then add the rice, stirring continually until it is all a golden brown. Add the stock half a cup at a time, stirring constantly until the rice is tender. Season with salt and paprika. Serve on a hot platter and sprinkle with grated parmesan cheese.

DRY FANATICS KILLING G.O.P., SAYS BECK

[illegible]ington, Feb. 7 (AP) Predicting the destruction of the powerful Republican party if it continues to sell its soul to the fanatical drys, Rep. Beck (R. Pennsylvania) today declared in the House that prohibition was like a cancer "eating away the moral fibre of the American people."

Beck, former solicitor general of the United States, and recognized as an authority on constitutional law, said that if the Republican party becomes "the party of prohibition" it will perish.

"The Republican Party," he asserted, "cannot hold forever a large number of self respecting men and women to whom the intolerance of prohibition is a moral affront. It cannot be half wet and half dry."

CAUSES HYPOCRISY

Prohibition had produced a colossal hypocrisy which would [illegible] only the more at increased effort to enforce the dry laws, he asserted.

While the Pennsylvanian saw little immediate possibility of repeal of the 18th amendment, he suggested that living generations were given the power to determine whether its provisions should be exercised and in what manner.

"Each living generation," he said, "can determine for itself whether they will pass affirmative legislation to enforce the 18th amendment, or leave it without enforcing statutes."

"Even if this were not so," he continued, Congress could, without any violation of the Constitution, reach the conclusion that the methods of enforcement and the actual enforcement of the 18th amendment were best left to the states.

FOR BEER AND WINE

"When the American people thus recognize that the non-exercise of a power is not necessarily a challenge to the Constitution, they will in [illegible] wholly sweep away that monstrous compound of iniquity and folly, the Volstead law, and upon its ruins build afresh.

"They will recognize that the normal use of light wines and beer not only does not lead to intoxication, but promotes temperance by preventing hard drinking and the use of narcotics."

Beck [illegible] that no one who knew him would challenge his deep reverence for the constitution and noted that he had given the best energies of his life to its defense.

"But," he declared, "I am not prepared to say that even an amendment to the constitution forecloses controversy upon any subject or that it is unpatriotic to challenge its wisdom."

In conclusion, he said that unless "we are prepared to vindicate that personal liberty of a man to order his own life, we should tear down the Statue of Liberty in New York Harbor, for at the moment and in this respect it is little more than a broken lie."

Brother of Duchess Dies

Glamis, Scotland, Feb. 7 (AP) John Herbert Bowes-Lyon, 41, brother of the Duchess of York, died today. He was the second son of the Earl of Strathmore.

Colorado Jail Placed Under 'Dictatorship'

Canon City, Col., Feb. 7 (AP)—Within the gray granite walls of the Colorado State penitentiary, a restless prison population awoke today to find itself under control of a military dictator, a man who rose from a sick bed to strike with the mailed fist at a riotous group of convicts who in four months have taken 13 lives and caused inestimable property damage.

The man, austere in manner and curt in speech, is Col. Patrick J. Hamrock, bred to arms, [illegible] by his own admission a fighting man. He led troops and won honors in the Sioux Indian campaigns, in Cuba and in France.

The dictatorship was declared by a harried State Board of Corrections which just had worded a public statement refusing to comply with a demand by Governor William H. Adams that it resign. Its edict of military rule in the walled city said that while Warden F. E. Crawford would retain his post, Hamrock would be given entire charge of the guards and prisoners.

Rising from the hospital bed where he was recuperating from a three-week illness, Hamrock entered the prison only a few hours after his appointment.

"I accept the task and responsibility," was his terse comment. "There will be no more riots."

Gunmen in Chicago Fire "Blanks" Only

New York, Feb. 7 (AP) Henry Butts, [illegible] expert of the New York police, has conceived the theory [illegible] of gunmen in Chicago fire only blank cartridges. He testified so in the trial of one Max Brand, accused of possession of firearms. Brand's gun could not shoot bullets and the case was dismissed.

Nina Wilcox Putnam Becomes Bankrupt

Miami, Fla., Feb. 7 (AP) A voluntary petition in bankruptcy for Inez W. Sanderson, widely known as Nina Wilcox Putnam, short story writer, was on file today.

The petition said she is unable to pay debts she has contracted and is willing to surrender all her property for the benefit of creditors.

The Weather

LEAGUE DRUG COMMITTEE REPORTS

By JAMES T. WILLIAMS, JR.

Copyright, 1930, by Universal Service, Inc.

Geneva, Feb. 7. The subcommittee of the League of Nations advisory committee on traffic in opium and other dangerous drugs has completed and approved its report and will distribute it today.

The report includes the outline of a plan giving effect to the assembly's resolution calling upon the advisory committee to submit plans to the council for the limitation of narcotic manufacture.

The assembly's resolution did not authorize the committee to submit plans for the direct control of production, which is why no mention of that is included in the report.

"Any plan for the limitation of the manufacture of drugs," says the subcommittee's report, "depends for success as much on the support of the non-manufacturing countries, or a great many of them, as on the adhesion of the manufacturing countries."

[illegible] the subcommittee felt that [illegible] entitled to proceed on the assumption that any workable plan will receive the support of [illegible] manufacturing countries.

MAWSON TESTS POLAR AIR CURRENTS

[illegible] for the [illegible] Douglas Mawson [illegible] the accomplishment [illegible] Antarctic [illegible] expedition. [illegible] the [illegible] he described the physical and geological aspects of a portion of the Antarctic Coast, and [illegible] another explorer's claim that Enderby Land was not part of the Antarctic Continent.

By SIR DOUGLAS MAWSON
Commander of the British, Australian and New Zealand Antarctic Research Expedition.

(Copyright, [illegible] New American [illegible] by the New York American [illegible] copyright [illegible] Douglas Mawson.)

Radio via London

S. S. Discovery, Antarctica, Feb. 5 (delayed). A continuation of the [illegible] and facts [illegible] Antarctic [illegible] character [illegible], and much has been accomplished.

In addition to a full program of general meteorological observations [illegible] records were made at frequent intervals by [illegible] of pilot balloons [illegible] the movement [illegible] record [illegible].

The data were collected to a height of 30,000 feet [illegible] the influence of [illegible] over the [illegible] regions [illegible] outward movement of Polar air at the land surface and low elevations.

STORMS FREQUENT

The upper air movements were found usually to be roughly from northwest to southeast. Useful figures relating to the temperature gradient in the free air, obtained during airplane flights were found to be of a very similar order to that pertaining in lower latitudes.

It is interesting to note that the weather [illegible] in the region [illegible] is quite distinct from that [illegible] further east, where the gales are southeast or even more southerly.

Off Enderby Land the gales are easterly or even north of east. The vicinity of Enderby Land is apparently a region subject to frequent recurring storms, with a drive to the west or even south of west.

Under such conditions, with the coast trending toward west southwest, all the loose ice accumulated off the coast during the winter is driven west and south. [illegible] northern point, or the territory of Enderby and Kemp Lands is kept swept partly clear of pack ice in the winter and is almost clear of it in summer.

As a result, only a narrow shelf of broken pack ice remains clinging to the land as it streams west under the influence of the prevailing westerly coastal current. The remnant of the pack ice is kept pressed against the coast by the great ocean swell from the region to the north, a region of continuous westerly winds, which are given full scope as they are unhampered by the outlying pack.

BERGS CHECK WIND

Evidently the same state of affairs prevailed more than a hundred years ago, when Kemp and Biscoe approached in open water within a few miles of land.

Clearly, the action of the wind and the swell along the coast is hampered by the existence of an endless row of icebergs, grounded in from 100 to 130 fathoms, on the submarine banks of the continental shelf.

Further East, in the region between MacRobertson Land and Gaussberg, is an area of pack congestion, where there exists an extraordinary heavy and extensive pack. The pack here is quite of a different order to that of the Ross Sea or the region South of Australia.

It is heavy pressure ice, recalling the most striking developments of such a nature met with in Weddell Sea.

Other physical observations apart from several determinations of magnetic dip and total force have [illegible] to atmospheric radiation and transparency of atmosphere.

[illegible] were [illegible] by [illegible] instruments [illegible] meter [illegible] investigation of [illegible] Enderby Land [illegible].

Heavy Snow Covers Northern France

Paris, Feb. 7 (AP).—The heaviest snow of the winter blanketed Paris and northern France today. It was accompanied by freezing weather which [illegible] spreading over [illegible] Europe [illegible] endangering [illegible] trees [illegible] and flowers [illegible] budded prematurely during [illegible] of [illegible].

Hunting 45 Million Buried by Former Chinese Prince

Peiping, Feb. 7 (INS)—A treasure hunt almost without equal in modern times was being pushed with feverish speed today, as the Chinese Nationalist authorities strove to uncover 45,000,000 Chinese dollars believed to have been buried by the former Imperial Prince Kung years ago.

News of the supposed treasure was given to the authorities by a Chinese slave formerly attached to the retinue of the Imperial prince. He told government officials that the money was hidden by his royal master when the British and French armies destroyed the summer palace during a Chinese uprising.

Antique a Day

No. 17

work of Robert Crosman, dating from about 1722. He styled himself the drum-maker of New England and his drums were [illegible] used by Washington's troops.

Mr. [illegible] who is an expert on the subject of early American painted furniture, is searching for one of Crosman's drums in its original condition. All those unearthed to date were found to have been repainted for the troops, and he is anxious to find one original painting on [illegible] that a similarity of [illegible] can be established in the decoration of drums and furniture by the craftsman.

In connection with the Massachusetts Tercentenary Year, the Boston Evening American will publish from day to day interesting specimens of authentic antiques. Readers possessing genuine antiques, particularly articles of Colonial or early American origin or of historic association, are invited to forward photographs and records for publication. In case no photograph is available the American will send one of its staff cameramen to photograph your antique if you live in Greater Boston. Material should be addressed to "Antique Editor, 5 Winthrop sq., Boston."

YORK CO. HIT BY STOCK SLUMP

Saco, Me., Feb. 7 (AP)—The stock market slump last fall, which gave company business a setback at a time when the outlook for new business seemed good, was said to be partly responsible for the deficit of $313,195.71 in 1929 reported by the board of directors of the York Manufacturing Company at a special meeting of stockholders here today.

The deficit compares with $611,[illegible]41 in 1928 and an average of $665,[illegible]000 for the three years preceding.

The company was reorganized a year ago after curtailing operations over a period and a final closing down. Under the reorganization the concern turned to the manufacture of gray goods.

The report showed that depreciation charges amounted to $60,000 and municipal taxes $90,997.50, of which $42,187.60 have been paid.

"Silence Is Golden" is truly spoken of Classified Want Ads—no noise, but they make a lot of stir—called Results.

PLAN TO SHIFT TAX BURDEN

Concord, N. H., Feb. 7—Finished products of manufacture, and standing timber would be exempted from taxes under the proposal for tax equalization made today by the State Recess Tax Commission.

The commission's proposal will be submitted to the Legislature for consideration at a special session opening February 18.

Instead of the taxes on finished manufactures and standing timber funds would be derived through from taxing franchises of gas and electric utilities and from taxes on personal and corporate incomes.

In its proposal, the commission recommends that aproximately $1,500,000 of the annual tax burden be shifted from the overtaxed communities and interests to the proportionately undertaxed trade centers and interests.

It was estimated today that revenue loss from exemption of manufactured goods will aproximate $275,000 a year.

Citizens Open Drive on Chicago Crime

Chicago, Feb. 7 (AP)—New steps were under way today to correct crime conditions, which Col. Robert Isham Randolph of the Association of Commerce called "rotten and intolerable," and which State's Atty. John A. Swanson admitted were "worse than that."

"Present conditions cannot be permitted to continue," Col. Randolph said. "The time for investigations and recommendations is past. Something definite must be done."

In the investigation of seven slayings and two gun attacks of the last eight days, two men under arrest, Jerry Cotter and George Campion, have been charged with slaying William Healy, who named them as his assailants but later refused to identify them.

"Machine Gun" Jack McGurn of the "Capone mob" and his pal Tony Accardo were released as suspects in the slaying of Julius Rosenheim, extortionist and informer. An examination by a small arms expert revealed that Rosenheim was killed by bullets from a different type weapon than carried by either McGurn or Accardo.

Priest for 50 Years

Whitman, Feb. 7—The Rev. James F. Hamilton, pastor of the Church of the Holy Ghost here for 33 years, will celebrate the 50th anniversary of his ordination to the priesthood on Monday.

King Prepares to Return to London

London, Feb. 7 (AP)—King George is preparing to take up his residence in London again shortly, it was announced at Buckingham Palace that he and Queen Mary would return there from Sandringham about February 15 for an indefinite period.

A number of state and private engagements already have been arranged for them for their stay. It is expected the King will transact a great deal of state and official business.

How a Girl Helped Her Affianced in His Business

READ THIS FIRST

Dulcy Parker's efforts to help people usually resulted in trouble, so Gordon Smith, her fiance, feared the worst when she insisted on having a week end party for Forbes, a financier with whom he was trying to do business, and Mrs. Forbes and their daughter, Angela. Dulcy also invited a new acquaintance, Schuyler Van Dyke, and a scenario writer, Vincent Leach. Her butler was an ex-convict, Perkins. And Angela Forbes appeared wearing real pearls.

From Marion Davies' forthcoming all-starring picture by Wanda Tuchok and Edwin Justus Mayer, based on the play, "Dulcy," by Marc Connelly and George Kaufman.

CHAPTER 5

"WHAT an odd-looking butler," Mrs. Forbes whispered as she started up the stairs after Perkins. "I don't recall ever seeing anyone like him."

"Oh, Perkins," and Dulcy laughed, a little self-consciously.

People were so odd about Perkins, she thought. They didn't seem to have any sympathy for a poor man who would have spent years in jail if Dulcy hadn't gone to see the judge and induced him to put Perkins on probation and let him work for her.

Just as Dulcy started up the stairs, she caught sight of the beads which Angela was wearing.

"My, what a pretty necklace," she exclaimed, her eyes sparkling with enthusiasm. "It's new, isn't it? Does your father manufacture those pearls?"

A moment later her voice rose even higher in amazement.

"Real pearls! You don't mean to tell me that your father gave you real pearls! They must be worth a fortune. I always say that nobody knows your pearls are real nowadays until they are stolen and it gets into the newspaper."

Even if Perkins, plodding slowly up the stairs with the heavy bags, hadn't heard her the first time, he couldn't possibly have missed her as her voice rose on those last sentences. He shuddered, but he couldn't resist the temptation just to turn around and look as he reached the landing. He set down the bags, when he was out of sight, as though they were afflicted with sudden itching. Then, as though they struggling to brace himself for a difficult task, he went on.

"Angela," she said in an excited whisper. "Vincent Leach is here!"

She was somewhat surprised by the excitement with which Angela received that news, and the reply was not just what she had expected.

"Does father know?" Angela demanded anxiously. "Has he seen him? How long is he going to stay?"

"Goose!" Dulcy pressed her arm affectionately. "He came down for the week end. And he didn't come to see your father!"

"But father ——" Angela protested. "He's awfully funny about some people."

"Oh well," laughed Dulcy, "just leave it to me. I'm going to fix everything for you."

She ran up the stairs. Angela lingered, worried.

Her father had been distinctly cross when he found out that she had had tea with Vincent Leach just the other day. Father was just a business man, and he didn't understand artists, or romance at all. Angela loved romance.

"Hullo, Angela."

Her answer was noticeably in enthusiasm.

"We haven't seen each other since——"

"Since you gave me the air. And now that you've brought that up," he went on, earnestly, "I never did

Butterfly Raised in Newton Home

A sign of spring is fluttering about the house of George Graf, Elliott st., Newton Upper Falls.

Mrs. Graf and Norman, a 5-year-old boy, found a green caterpillar among the carrots in the garden last fall and picked it up.

Yesterday the caterpillar that had disappeared into a cocoon blossomed into a butterfly. It is black with little blue dots on it and gold—"something like a peacock"—said Mrs. Graf in describing it. "We keep it in the front room and I have put it on a cabbage leaf sprinkled with sugar and water. It flies about and occasionally takes a drink."

Cardinal Calls for Names of Converts

Cardinal O'Connell has notified all parish priests to send in the names of adult converts at least a month before Pentecost and to provide each with a signed card of identification, in preparation for confirmation, which will take place in the late spring.

4 CHILDREN RESCUED IN REVERE

Father Tosses Two From a Window of the Burning Home Into Snow Bank

Domenico Russo, 34, and two of his sons were burned and his wife overcome by smoke, when fire destroyed their bungalow home at 353 Reservoir st., Revere, early today.

Russo saved the entire family, including two other boys, making three trips into the burning building, and being forced to throw James, eleven, and Frank, six, into a snowbank.

James, Frank and their father were taken to the Massachusetts General Hospital, while Mrs. Russo and two other boys, Joseph, ten, and Robert, three, were treated for smoke inhalation by a physician.

RESCUED BY FATHER

Partially awakened by a crackling sound, Russo discovered his bedroom was afire and promptly leaped through a window. Then realizing his family had not been aroused, he climbed back through the window into the burning bedroom.

Russo first seized Joseph and Robert and ran with them through the smoke-filled hallway to the street. Despite burns on the head and face the heroic father again entered the house, where he found James and Frank partially overcome in their bedroom and suffering from burns.

The stairway was blocked by flames by this time, so Russo carried the boys into his own bedroom. Suffering from burns, his vision obscured by smoke, Russo threw the boys, one after the other, through a window into a snow bank and then leaped out himself.

In making the jump he was cut about the head and face, but although bleeding badly he again forced his way into the house and found his wife Josephine, 34, unconscious in a bedroom.

Lifting her in his arms Russo staggered through the smoke to the rear of the house and, forcing his way through the flames, reached safety.

Neighbors in the meantime, had summoned the fire department and, on arrival of the apparatus the ambulance was called. The mother and two sons were cared for by neighbors, while Russo, Frank and James were removed to the hospital.

Fire Causes $2500 Loss to Chelsea Buildings

Fire of undetermined origin early today caused damage estimated at $2500 to two buildings in Fourth st., Chelsea, in the heart of a thickly settled residential and business district.

Sergt. Edward Forbes discovered a blaze in the one-story wooden building at 152 Fourth st., occupied by the City Auto Parts Co. He turned in an alarm and on the arrival of the apparatus a second was sounded. Damage to the building was $2000.

The flames spread to the two-story wooden building next door, occupied by the Chelsea Live Poultry Co., causing damage of $500.

Native Arts of Greenland on Exhibition at Harvard Museum

Among the objects brought back from Greenland by Martin Luther, anthropologist of the Peabody Museum at Harvard, are a number of paintings by natives, who have received no training but who display a remarkable talent for color and a primitive beauty of design. Madeline Browne, secretary to Dr. Reynolds, museum director, is shown displaying a charming example of the native art.

The down of the Arctic eider duck is used by the natives of Greenland to make fur coats. Mrs. James E. Elworth, librarian at the Peabody Museum at Harvard, is displaying a scarf made from the breast feathers. This and other interesting objects were collected during a visit to Greenland by Martin Luther, museum anthropologist.

WORK BEGUN ON ART SCHOOL

The $600,000 Massachusetts School of Art, under construction at Longwood and Brookline avenues, is expected to be ready for occupancy in September.

The new building will house approximately 700 pupils, about double the number that can now be accommodated at the present school at Exeter and Newbury sts. When the new school is finished the valuable site at Newbury and Exeter sts. will be sold.

Before purchasing the land at Longwood and Brookline avenues for $100,000 the State sold a site that had been previously acquired in the vicinity of Commonwealth ave. and Washington st., Brighton, for $306,000. When the sale of the present school has been completed the money received together with that accruing from the old Commonwealth ave. site, is expected to practically defray the expenses of the new school.

Stickel Heads List for Deputy Chief

District Fire Chief Louis C. Stickel of district 8, Roxbury Crossing, heads this year's civil service list for appointment as deputy chief of the Boston fire department, according to announcement by the Civil Service Commission today. Stickel lives at 126 Neponset ave.

The standing of the others on the list follows: John F. Good, Daniel Martell, John J. Kenney, John F. McDonough, Edward G. Chamberlain, Nepeen Bouthier, John F. Watson, James Mahoney, Dennis G. Coughlin. All are district chiefs. There are no vacancies for deputy chief.

SAFETY AWARD GOES TO A. & P.

The Massachusetts Safety Council has awarded 150 personal certificates to Vice-President L. W. Thompson of the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co. for distribution to truck drivers who had gone through the month of December without an accident.

A certificate was also awarded to the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co. as being the fleet operator having the finest record for safety during the past three months.

These certificates are awarded by the Massachusetts Safety Council every three months to those drivers and to that organization having the lowest accident record during the period.

Trawler Arrives With Injured Man

The vessel called for coast guard aid Monday when Edward Backland of Gates st., South Boston, suffered leg injuries. For two days patrol boats and destroyers sought her. Capt. George Lampole said the Mariner left the position given the coast guard and resumed fishing when it was found Backland's injuries were not serious.

Ballroom Aide to Be Given Benefit

"Goldie," popular attendant at the Strand Ballroom in Huntington ave., who is ill, is to be given a benefit at the ballroom tonight.

Prof. Farley is coming from Taunton with his troupe of dancers, who will do their bit to make the affair a success. The gross receipts will be given to Goldie.

Mummies of Reindeer Age for Harvard

When an American anthropologist visits Greenland to study the habits and customs of the people as did Martin Luther, a research assistant in the Peabody Museum at Harvard, he must not overlook the importance of asking such questions as "Do you wash your dishes?"

The Greenlanders are largely a race of Eskimos and such simple questions have a vital bearing on the life and health of these primitive people.

The most important part of Luther's collection made on the island is a group of 20 mummies, believed to be more than 300 years old because their bodies were found in a hidden cave dressed in reindeer fur clothing and these animals are known to have been extinct in Greenland that long.

It is most unusual for bodies to be naturally preserved in such a cold, wet climate. The cave was closed and prowling beats unable to get at them so that they have been unmolested for three centuries.

Because the native population of Greenland was in danger of extermination some years ago through the spreading of European diseases the country is practically closed to strangers. The use of foreign and even of domestic money is prohibited here, and the prospective visitor has to deposit sufficient funds in Denmark to cover his expenses during his stay.

Luther, however, managed to enter the country by making such a staunch friend of a Norwegian sea captain who makes a couple of trips each year to the island, that he refused to remove a pair of stranded aviators from the island until the authorities had given his passenger permission to land.

The full-blooded Eskimos were found to be in excellent physical condition. They were 100 per cent perfect in color vision tests, their teeth were 95 per cent perfect and their lung capacity was greatly superior to that of the white races.

"These Eskimos are very intelligent people and in some respects gifted," says Luther. "The most astounding result of the expedition is the collection of water color drawings made by educated or partly educated, but untaught Eskimos. Many of them are real masterpieces.

"The Eskimo has a color sense, a grasp of composition and perspective and mastery of line which are truly remarkable. These drawings, which will soon be on exhibition in the Peabody Museum, have a certain primitive sincerity, coupled with an ultra-modern use of color, which makes them charming."

Getting his mummies out of the country proved to be one of Luther's hardest tasks. He had chartered a boat to take him down the coast, but everyone in that country who wants to ride climbs aboard uninvited. The mummies had to travel on deck.

During the trip a terrific storm arose and the explorer was unable to keep the wave-drenched Eskimos from tramping on the mummies. They seemed to have no respect for the bones of their ancestors.

Finally in desperation Luther determined to save at least one dessicated patriarch, so he took it into his tiny cabin with him, dislodging a more animated Greenlander to make room for his prize. When these mummies finally arrived here they were found to be in excellent preservation in spite of their drenching.

COUPE HIT TREE THREE HURT

Two men and a boy were seriously injured today when the coupe in which they were riding skidded on a steep grade on the Fellsway, Medford, and crashed into a tree. The names of all are on the danger list at Malden hospital.

Injured:

Paul A. Reichell, 35, of 12 Ellsworth st., Somerville.

Paul A. Reichell, Jr., 4, same address.

Bernard F. Dawley, 31 Lynwood st., Somerville.

Reichell, who was the driver, according to police, has a fractured skull, broken right arm and severe cuts and bruises. His son has a probable fracture of the skull together with lacerations of the face.

Dawley has several scalp wounds and a possible fracture of the skull.

The automobile had just crossed the railroad bridge near Myrtle st., when it skidded sideways off the road. The car was practically demolished by the impact.

Burglar Foiled by Return of Couple

The unexpected return of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Giduz to their apartment in Massachusetts ave., Cambridge, upset the plans of a negro to rob the home. The burglar escaped through a window while Mrs. Giduz stood in the doorway screaming.

She told police that as soon as she stepped from her motor car she noticed lights burning in the apartment. Her husband was already on his way to drive the machine into the garage in the rear of the apartment house.

On opening the bedroom door she saw the negro ransacking the bureau drawer. He saw her and leaped out of an open window.

Mrs. Sarah A. Tappan Is Dead in Revere

After a long illness, Mrs. Sarah A. Tappan, for 47 years a resident of Revere, died today at her home, 152 Bennington st., that city. She was 73 years of age. She is survived by a son, William E. Tappan, captain of Revere police; a daughter, Louise M. Tappan, and an adopted son, Edward.

The funeral will be held Monday morning from the home of Capt. Tappan at 3 Everard ave., with services at Our Lady of Lourdes Church.

Wants to Know When It Snowed; There's a Burning Reason

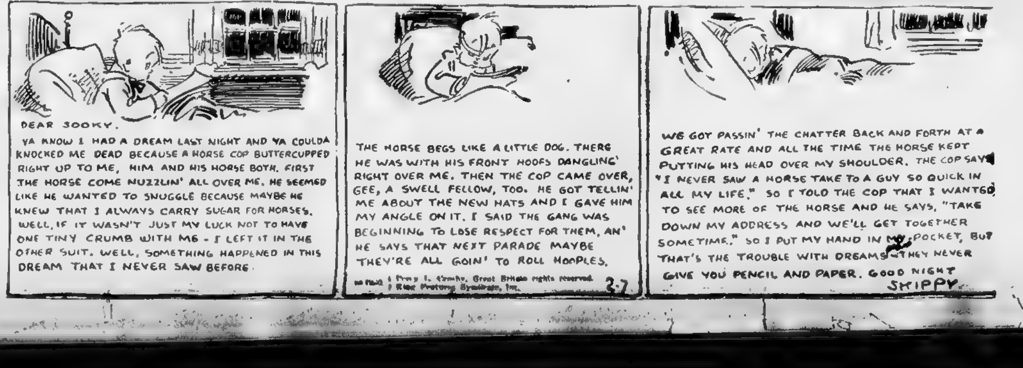
An irate citizen called the Maritime Association of the Chamber of Commerce today and wanted to know the exact hours of the recent snowfall.

Joseph A. Mutrie, who handled the call, tried to accommodate the man even though he does specialize in ships and not weather.

It appears the citizen ordered a carload of fuel from a local concern and it was delivered with a coating of snow aboard.

Between the time he ordered it and the delivery hour no snow had fallen, it seems. The question is, "Was stale fuel delivered to the irate citizen?"

SKIPPY — A Full Report — By Percy Crosby



DEAR SOOKY.
YA KNOW I HAD A DREAM LAST NIGHT AND YA COULDA KNOCKED ME DEAD BECAUSE A HORSE COP BUTTERCUPPED RIGHT UP TO ME, HIM AND HIS HORSE BOTH. FIRST THE HORSE COME NUZZLIN' ALL OVER ME. HE SEEMED LIKE HE WANTED TO SNUGGLE BECAUSE MAYBE HE KNEW THAT I ALWAYS CARRY SUGAR FOR HORSES. WELL, IF IT WASN'T JUST MY LUCK NOT TO HAVE ONE TINY CRUMB WITH ME - I LEFT IT IN THE OTHER SUIT. WELL, SOMETHING HAPPENED IN THIS DREAM THAT I NEVER SAW BEFORE.
THE HORSE BEGS LIKE A LITTLE DOG. THERE HE WAS WITH HIS FRONT HOOFS DANGLING RIGHT OVER ME. THEN THE COP CAME OVER, GEE, A SWELL FELLOW, TOO. HE GOT TELLIN' ME ABOUT THE NEW HATS AND I GAVE HIM MY ANGLE ON IT. I SAID THE GANG WAS BEGINNING TO LOSE RESPECT FOR THEM, AN' HE SAYS THAT NEXT PARADE MAYBE THEY'RE ALL GOIN' TO ROLL HOOPLES.
WE GOT PASSIN' THE CHATTER BACK AND FORTH AT A GREAT RATE AND ALL THE TIME THE HORSE KEPT PUTTING HIS HEAD OVER MY SHOULDER. THE COP SAYS "I NEVER SAW A HORSE TAKE TO A GUY SO QUICK IN ALL MY LIFE." SO I TOLD THE COP THAT I WANTED TO SEE MORE OF THE HORSE AND HE SAYS, "TAKE DOWN MY ADDRESS AND WE'LL GET TOGETHER SOMETIME." SO I PUT MY HAND IN MY POCKET, BUT THAT'S THE TROUBLE WITH DREAMS—THEY NEVER GIVE YOU PENCIL AND PAPER. GOOD NIGHT

Thus did Mrs. Katherine E. Robinson, 50-year-old widow of Harry E. Robinson, explain her romance with Norman Chase, 22-year-old son of Selectman Edward T. Chase of West Yarmouth.

Announcement that the couple plan to wed in two weeks was made by Mrs. Robinson to a gathering of friends in her Commonwealth ave. home, and they were not surprised that the friendship between the two was to culminate in a love match.

It was a common love of horses and outdoor sports that first brought Mrs. Robinson and Chase together.

BURKE HELD IN $5000 IN 'PEN' CASE

Former Harvard Student's Case Is Continued a Week for Trial

Charged with extortion in two [illegible] Burke, 25, former Harvard student, was arraigned in Municipal [illegible] today in connection with the poison pen plot against the family of [illegible] McKay Frost, socially prominent Boston lawyer.

As the court had no jurisdiction, [illegible] plea and Judge [illegible] continued the case until [illegible] with bonds of $5000.

The defendant was represented by Attorney [illegible] E. Chamberlain, who asked for moderate bail, and [illegible] the police agreed on [illegible]

In the second count it was charged that the good name of Miss Mary Emerson Frost, debutante daughter of Attorney and Mrs. Frost, would be ruined unless her mother paid $5000.

DECLINES TO TALK

Burke was arrested at home on Beacon st., Brookline.

The plot was negotiated by means of two anonymous letters, two telegrams and a telephone message.

Sergeant Walter French of the Back Bay station with a Brookline police officer, entered the Burke home on Beacon st. and took Burke to Brookline station to be booked, and then, with Manager Breach of the Burns Detective Agency, took Burke to the Back Bay police station.

Burke declined to talk when the officers attempted to question him at the Back Bay station. The only statement he would make to the officers was: "This is just perfectly nonsense."

Burke, [illegible] connected socially, himself was questioned by police at the Back Bay station Tuesday [illegible] again on Wednesday [illegible]

He denied any knowledge of the affair and insisted he had never heard of the Frost family until he read about the blackmail attempt in the newspapers, although the Frosts are very highly placed socially.

SEVERAL IN PLOT

Several persons are believed to have been connected in the attempt to extort from the Frost family through threats of social injury and death, and investigators suspect that some of the conspirators were also concerned in the "picture" extortion plots against a number of Boston society debutantes during the past five years.

Police claim that Burke has been identified by a telegraph operator at the Copley-Plaza Hotel as the young man who sent a telegram about 8:25 Saturday evening, January 25, to the Frost home, and signed the message "X."

The telegram was printed with a lead pencil and read, "Mrs. Donald Frost, 18 Exeter st., Boston. Last chance tonight between 8 and 9. Newspapers are ready for story. Act quick."

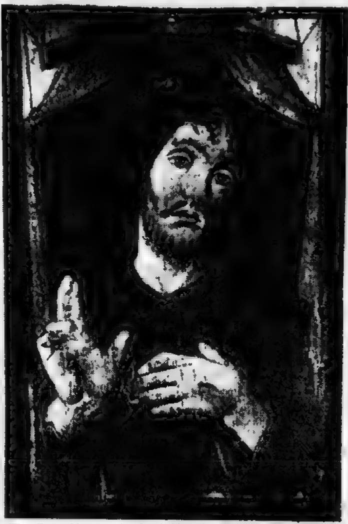
House Rally for Flint in Milton

An enthusiastic house rally in the interest of Laurence B. Flint, candidate for selectman at next month's election in Milton, was held in the home of William B. Warner, 18 Pine Grove st., in the East Milton section.

Mr. Flint, who has held several national and international posts, outlined the platform upon which he intends to stand in the forthcoming contest and hearty support was pledged him by the large gathering of men and women voters present. The meeting was presided over by Thomas Forbes.

Treasure in Fogg Museum



The Fogg Museum in Cambridge has acquired one of the world's great paintings in this picture of "The Savior," by Botticelli, the Florentine master. It was discovered in the art collection of Prince Massimo of Rome after having been lost for centuries.

Botticelli Painting in Cambridge Museum

Fogg Art Museum officials today confirmed a report that the museum has in its possession an original Botticelli rediscovered a year ago in the collection of an Italian prince after having been lost for centuries.

The painting was recently placed on display and is open to public inspection. A comprehensive study of the work of the great Florentine artist is soon to be published by Harvard authorities.

A New York firm obtained the painting in Rome, making the total of the artist's productions in America nearly a dozen.

The picture just acquired by the Fogg Museum portrays the thorn-crowned Christ with His right hand raised in a gesture of blessing and His left indicating the wound in His side. The half-length figure is portrayed under a canopy, the curtains of which are drawn to the sides by cords. The painting, which is on line, measures 22¼ by 13¼ inches.

The work is conceived with the tenderness and poignancy characteristic of the artist's late manner when influenced by Savonarola. The painting is regarded here as an important addition to the works by Botticelli already in this country. It is the second work by the great Florentine artist obtained by the Fogg Museum.

The Metropolitan Museum in New York also owns two paintings by Botticelli, and the Detroit Museum one. Jules S. Bache and Clarence Mackay are among the few private collectors in this country owning examples of the artist's work.

Medford's Oldest Policeman Dead

Charles A. Watson, senior Medford policeman in age and point of service, died today of heart trouble at his home, 244 Riverside ave., at the age of 73. He had been ill since November.

Forty-nine years ago, at the age of 24, he went to Medford under contract as street lamp lighter. When electric street lights were introduced in 1891 he was appointed to the police force, and had since been patrolman and desk officer. He leaves a wife, one son and four daughters.

JUDGE LOGAN AT HEAD OF TROY COMMITTEE

Noted Boston Singers to Appear on Legion Post's Benefit Program

Judge Edward L. Logan of the South Boston Municipal Court today accepted the honorary chairmanship of the committee arranging the Troy fund benefit program to be held February 11 at post headquarters by the Perkins Legion Post, South Boston.

The post is very active in advertising the cards, vaudeville and dancing planned for Tuesday night. Posters have been placed on cars, and signs are up in many stores. All radio stations are calling attention to the event.

Some noted Boston singers are expected to appear on the program. A special feature will be the awarding of a modern radio set to some person to be chosen from the crowd attending.

3000 TICKETS ON SALE

At noon today a total of 3000 tickets were placed on sale in all wards of Boston by Senator Joseph J. Mulhern's committee for the monster bridge and whist party scheduled for Monday night at Elks Hotel.

A committee of 50 citizens is at work and thus far has disposed of about 600 tickets.

Some excellent bridge prizes are being secured through the co-operation of local merchants.

Ernie Stevens, trainer of boxers, is adding to his program for February 21 at Columbus Hall, Maverick sq. He has lined up three prominent coast guard boxers.

GUARDSMEN TO BOX

The guardsmen to appear on the boxing program of at least half a dozen bouts, are: Walter Allen, Joe Wiseman, welter champ, and Battling Skee, heavy champ of Base 5.

[illegible] Taylor of New London base, welter champ of the New England coast guardsmen, probably will appear against a worthy rival.

A check for $15 was received today by Joseph L. McNamara of the South Boston branch of the Federal National Bank, from Mrs. Mary Princiotta of 140 C st., South Boston.

"It's a worthy cause, and I'm glad to help," she wrote to the treasurer.

Any COLD

That cold may lead to something serious, if neglected. The time to do something for it is now. Don't wait until it develops into bronchitis. Take two or three tablets of Bayer Aspirin as soon as you feel a cold coming on. Or as soon as possible after it starts. Bayer Aspirin will head off or relieve the aching and feverish feeling—will stop the headache. And if your throat is affected, dissolve two or three tablets in a quarter-glassful of warm water, and gargle. This quickly soothes a sore throat and reduces inflammation and infection. Read proven directions for neuralgia, for rheumatism and other aches and pains. Genuine Bayer Aspirin is harmless to the heart.

NILAND ATTACKS HARVARD FOR DISCHARGING SCRUBWOMEN

ASKS REPEAL OF ITS TAX EXEMPTION

Shattuck Reviews and Defends Action of the University at Widener Library

Denouncing Harvard authorities for the discharge of scrubwomen shortly before Christmas, former Representative Thomas J. Niland of East Boston today urged the House rules committee to admit his bill to repeal tax exemptions on real and personal estate of the college.

Opposing the bill, Charles Coolidge, Jr., for the president and fellows of Harvard, characterized the measure as a "reprisal," not justified by the facts.

Niland, after scoring the "cruel" action of the college authorities, referred to a debate he had with former Speaker B. Loring Young in the House in 1919 when Niland was seeking to raise the wages of scrubwomen.

QUOTES LORING YOUNG.

He quoted Young as saying that if the wages of the women were raised men would be put in their place.

"Harvard [illegible] learning, and [illegible] land. Has it been come [illegible] der as a place [illegible] Mr. Y[illegible] threat into execution?"

He then read various editorials, articles from magazines and a speech from the Congressional Record made by Sen. Couzens denouncing the action of the college.

Coolidge, for the college, said that if the bill was admitted and passed it would be clearly unconstitutional and [illegible] measure entirely unjustified by the facts.

REVIEWED BY SHATTUCK.

Rep. Henry L. Shattuck, [illegible] of the college, said he had made an investigation of the replacement in the Widener library and gave what he said he believed was an accurate statement of the facts:

"At all times since 1921, when the Minimum Wage Commission established a minimum wage of 37 cents an hour for office and other building cleaners, Harvard has been paying these women at less than that amount," he said.

"Payment was made at the rate of 35 cents per hour for the full period including time taken out for rest. In the case of those with the longest day (6 to 11) and taking only a 20-minute rest period this is equivalent to 37.5 cents per hour of work, and of course is a higher rate for those with the shorter working day.

VACATION WITH PAY.

"These women were also allowed one week's vacation with pay. For some reason which I do not understand the commission ruled that this fact was immaterial in determining whether or not the minimum wage was being paid.

"I am informed that the replacement of these 21 women by seven men will result in an annual saving of about $2000. The men are on full time.

"Harvard has a large invested capital, most of this is restricted by the terms of gift to special purposes. At all times the operating expenses [illegible] are larger than the [illegible]. In the case of the library funds given for maintenance are far less than its operating expenses. In 1929 more than one fifth of the unrestricted university income, after administrative expenses, was used to pay the deficit of the library."

Prize Winner

"Agnes was delicate and fretful," says Mrs. J. Hayes, 8 Isabella st., Boston. "She was sallow and bilious; didn't have any appetite; couldn't digest her food.

"California Fig Syrup has changed all that. It regulated her bowels quickly; improved her appetite and digestion. She has improved right along until friends say she's a regular prize-winner for health."

Mothers by thousands praise California Fig Syrup. Physicians endorse it. Its rich, fruity flavor appeals to children. Its pure vegetable goodness is safe for any child. The prompt relief it brings bilious, headachy, constipated children lasts; because it helps tone and strengthen bowels and stomach. Next time bad breath, coated tongue or feverishness warn of constipation, try it with your child and see how it helps!

When buying, look for the name California! That marks the genuine, famous for 50 years.

BOSTON BEGINS TO WARM UP

While northern New England was in the grip of [illegible] weather of the season [illegible] Boston was warming up.

An unofficial temperature of 36 below zero was reported at Sherman, Me. The lowest official temperature in the country was 24 below at Greenville, Me. Bangor experienced its coldest of the season, 20 below at 3 a. m. It was 16 below there at 6 a. m.

In Boston the [illegible] rose 23 degrees from 2 above at [illegible] yesterday to 25 above at 11 a. m. today. Weather bureau officials said they expected the maximum in Boston today would be in the 30's.

Today was the first time this season that a New England community was the coldest place in the United States. Low temperatures were reported from several New England cities and towns.

Among them were Northfield, Vt., and Eastport, Me., 6 below; Portland, Me., 2 below. Despite the comparatively "warm" weather in Boston the official figure for Concord, Mass., a few miles distant, was 7 below. Lexington reported the same figure.

The forecast for Boston and vicinity: Cloudy and warmer, preceded by light snow tonight. Saturday partly cloudy and slightly warmer; moderate south to west winds. The minimum temperature tonight will be near 22.

SIMS SEES HUB SAFE IN WAR

Boston or any other Atlantic port need never fear an attack by foreign navies. Submarines and airplanes will take care of them.

This prediction was made today by Admiral William S. Sims, retired, to a group of Harvard students taking a course in R. O. T. C. naval science.

Admiral Sims, who is spending the winter in Boston, spoke for an hour to the class in the old Fogg museum. He told of ancient naval ships as contrasted with modern types, and discussed future warfare on the seas.

In his opinion there will never be any more organized naval expeditions against foreign countries. He said that the submarine, "most marvelous sea weapon ever invented," would, with the aid of airplanes, demolish any invading fleet.

"Instead," he continued, "the next war will see attacks on the most vulnerable points, that of a nation's shipping."

Present European fleets with their airplane carriers could bring over only a few hundred airships to fight the thousands which could quickly be recruited in the United States, he commented.

"Think of planes carrying 169 people," he added, calling attention to the huge plane recently perfected in Germany.

"What chance would a battleship have against the bombs which such an airplane could shower down?" he asked.

Untruthful Newton Officer Suspended

For alleged untruthfulness to his superior officers, Patrolman John E. Greene was today suspended for four months without pay from the Newton police department.

The recommendation was made by Chief Bernard F. Burke and approved by Mayor Sinclair Weeks. Greene is the fourth policeman to be severely punished in the drive for [illegible] which began when Mayor Weeks took office. Two others were suspended for being [illegible] and one was given 240 hours punishment duty for neglect of duty.

CRASH BOAT FOULS ANCHOR

Adding to her troubles after [illegible] with the trawler M[illegible], the British schooner Mina Nadine was held on Bird Island flats today with her anchor caught until released by tugs.

The three-masted lumberman ending a trip from Nova Scotia fouled her anchor chain in the mass of headgear strewn on her deck after the accident. She cast anchor while waiting a berth at the Downes Lumber Co. wharf in South Bay. Today the tug Sadie Ross released the mud hook and towed her to her unloading berth.

Mother Finds Baby Lifeless in Crib

The body of Joseph B. Price, 6 months of age, was found in his crib at the home of his widowed mother, Mrs. Marietta Price, 23 of Pearl st., Charlestown, today. Physicians summoned by neighbors found no fuel and no food in the house.

Mrs. Price said she heard him [illegible] at 9 [illegible] but later found him lifeless when she went to the crib. Her husband died a short time ago.

STAGE PLAY DUPLICATE IN FILM

The Cast

Rajah of Rukh ...	George Arliss

Dr. Traherne	Ralph Forbes
Major Crespin	H. B. Warner
Watkins	Ivan Simpson
Lieut. Carew	Reggy Sheffield
An Ayah	Betty Boyd
High Priest	David Tearle
Temple Priest	Nigel de Brulier

By HARLEIGH SCHULTZ

ALONG comes "The Green Goddess," an old screen friend, but now for the first time throated by the microphone. Its advent is but natural, inasmuch as George Arliss in "Disraeli" marked the talkie high tide for 1929. Forecasters who feared that sterling product was too high above the heads of movie audiences to be successful, saw the crowds in the lobbies. So now a second time, Mr. Arliss triumphed in photoplay; chiefly because of him, "The Green Goddess" is a film none should miss.

SUCH a master of his art is Mr. Arliss that even clever players seem dwarfed by contrast. To see him in anything is to wish to see him again. Therefore, it is easy to understand why his playing the Rajah role in the [illegible] was his [illegible] performance of [illegible]. His [illegible] portrayal [illegible] his skill is supreme. His every word is perfectly enunciated, his every line counts. If he is subtle, he also makes his meaning crystal clear. So the humor of his speech never misses the bullseye. It is his work that makes "The Green Goddess" an outstanding picture.

George Arliss

WE wonder why we do not give deeper sympathy to the distressed trio in this Himalayan fastness. Is it because of the consummate art of Arliss? Is it that the supposedly central figures, emotionally, are lackluster? Or, that they are merely overshadowed by sheer power of genius? The story is by no means the worst of melodramas, it has a number of good points. It is never, at any point, the splendid drama that "Disraeli" was, but it is still a story in its class. Yet Arliss, an Atlantean in stature, bearing the world of this play aloft, and he himself doesn't need all. Arliss is not that kind of a [illegible].

NEVERTHELESS good word must be said for the excellent H. B. Warner, and for the clever Ivan Simpson, as Watkins, and next to the star the histrionic highlight of the show. The best that can be said of Alice Joyce is that from several angles she photographs grandly. Her acting, like that of Ralph Forbes, is seldom convincing. The direction by Alfred E. Green is only fair; the photography is generally superb. But we have Mr. Arliss; he makes "The Green Goddess" a truly great picture, to be seen by all means by all who love their film fare properly served up. If we didn't have a desire to see the great actor again in this same photoplay we would think there was something wrong with our judgment. There is none like Allah—as with Arliss. The only one that could step to his pace on screen was Jeanne Eagels and her shadow also gone glimmering down the [illegible] of things that were.

DOTTY REVIER KNOWS HER STYLES

DOROTHY REVIER is one of the most attractive of present day screen stars. Her clothes and the way she wears them are factors in her success. Miss Revier is quite an authority on women's wearing apparel. She says:

"I am worried over the possibility of the short skirt going out of fashion and long and longer skirts coming back everywhere. To me the short skirt is everything to be desired, and the long ones are anything else but. I think they are much more to be desired, if not carried to extremes.

"Every woman concedes that the present day short skirt is more comfortable, easier to handle and while some of them are not less expensive, nevertheless they are easier fitted and take less time to make."

If one wishes to see how Dorothy Revier looks in the latest Paris creations she plays the leading feminine role in the Columbia picture "Murder on the Roof," which opens at the Park tomorrow. She says further,

"I have just received word from my costumer in Paris and he says the French fashion dictators have been forced to surrender to the passive resistance of the American woman and the short skirt will remain, at least for another season."

"Big Jewel Case"

"The Big Jewel Case" will feature Fred Kelsey and Anita Garvin. Bruce Lambert is making the film for Educational Mermaid Comedies.

"Sweet Mamma"

Pretty Polly

POLLY WALKER

Polly doesn't want a cracker, she's got one. It's Jack Oakie, a wise-cracker in her screened stage hit "Hit the Deck," to stay at the New B. F. Keith's for a second week.

Maynard to Start

Ken Maynard is preparing to start work on "Songs of the Saddle" for Universal. Kenneth C. Beaton and Norman Sper did the dialogue and story. Harry C. Brown will direct.

"On the Level"

DOUBLE FILM PROGRAM FOR 3 HOUSES

A DOUBLE feature program of first run films will be offered by the Modern and Beacon and the Egyptian for the premieres of the Tiffany productions "Peacock Alley" and "Painted Faces" opening tomorrow. These two pictures may be seen at any one of the three theaters at popular prices as contrasted with the $2 top in other large cities.

For star "Peacock Alley" has that old favorite of the silent screen, Mae Murray. The star of "Painted Faces" is one of the best comedians in Hollywood, Joe E. Brown, and who reveals himself an actor of high rank.

In "Painted Faces" Joe E. Brown comes into his own. This is his star picture, made so by himself. The tale is a gripping one; through its jury room and circus sequences, it holds one tense. Mr. Brown has able support in Dorothy Gulliver, Helen Foster, Alma Bennett, Barton Hepburn, Mabelle Julienne Scott, Purnell Pratt, Lester Cole, and Sojin.

O'BRIEN IS PICKED FOR MILE TEAM

GUARINO PASQUANTONIO, Boston College's sprinting ace, will not be with the Boston College relay men when they leave for the Millrose A. C. games tonight and may not carry the Maroon and Gold banners again during the indoor track season.

The stocky sophomore is suffering with an injured ankle.

The injury is an aggravation of the old ailment and is more than likely to rob Ryder of Pasquantonio's services until the outdoor season arrives.

Tom O'Brien, who was battling Pasquantonio for the fourth position on the one-mile varsity team, was given the post. The other three selections, about whom Ryder had little doubt, are Joe McCabe, Bob Sullivan and Capt. Bill M[illegible].

Meagher, Daley, Moynihan and O'Brien [illegible] to keep [illegible] long distance [illegible] competition [illegible].

Harvard Sophomore Stars to Run in Millrose Games

Among the Harvard tracemen Coach Farrell will take to the Millrose games tomorrow night at Fred Record of Brookline, who will be one of Harvard's quartet of mile relay men, Pen Hallowell, who will meet some of the country's finest in the 1000, and Jack Hawes, who will compete in the sprints.

Record was originally a hurdler when he came to Harvard, and still works out daily with Coach Jaakko Mikkola. He is a fast quarter-miler as well, however, and Coach Ed. Farrell considers him an important cog in the mile quartet.

Pen Hallowell has found his stride and is almost a sure place winner tomorrow night in New York. Daily workouts on the board since the Charles have improved the sophomore distance runner immensely. He is now far better than he was in the K. of C. meet.

Jack Hawes is the third of the young triumvirate to represent Harvard at New York. Jack will enter the sprints, and in Farrell's opinion should be a point winner in his field. Hawes had no difficulty winning the 100 against the Elis a year ago, but he will be facing tougher competition at the Millrose games.

Record Crowd Will Attend Millrose Games

New York, Feb. 7 (AP)—The first of the indoor track and field season's half dozen big spectacles will draw close to 18,000 fans to Madison Square Garden tomorrow night for the annual Millrose A. A. games.

Some of the country's finest athletes come East for the games, including Jack Elder of Notre Dame, [illegible] Leland of Texas Christian; Howard Kriss, former Ohio State star, now running for the Cleveland A. C.; Bert Nelson, Butler University's renowned high jumper, Bob King, formerly of Stanford and Olympic high jump champion; Orval Martin of Purdue and Fred Sturdy of the Los Angeles A. C., former Yale pole vaulter.

[illegible] flavor has been added to the meet with the entry of Mr. Paul [illegible] of Switzerland; Stanislaus [illegible] of Poland and a number of Canadians, notably Leigh Miller and Johnny Fitzpatrick of the [illegible] Olympic Club.

Elder, Leland and Kriss will compete in the sprints along with Milton Fitzpatrick, Chet Bowman of the Newark A. C., and Jimmy Daley of Holy Cross.

The field in the Millrose "600" has been restricted to Pete Bowen, national and international quarter mile title-holder, Bernie McCafferty, great Holy Cross runner, Phil Edwards of New York University and [illegible] Roll of the Newark A. C.

There will be many college relays as well as some United States-Canada competition in the girls' 50-yard sprint and high jump and the men's half-mile relay and two-mile walk.

MR. BOSTON

by JACK CONWAY

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 7. I found Mr. Boston shooting a game of golf over one of the numerous miniature courses here.

"This is a great racket," piped the veteran as he made a hole in one at the eighteenth hole and won the right to play around again without charge. A combination of putting and billiards. I'm going to send up this hole in one attested card to Nick Flatley so that he will start brushing up on his game."

Jack Conway

"Lucky," said George Kidd Lee.

"You said it," chirped Johnny Buckley.

"I suppose it was also luck when I also scored that hole in one back at the eighth hole."

"Yeah, lucky," declared the gang in unison.

"Anyhow this is a great racket," went on Mr. Boston. "It keeps the boys out of the poolrooms at night. The big lights make the course as bright as day.

"ALL of the courses have eighteen holes. And they are real sports. One uses a putter at all times. A good putter can score around 45 on the difficult courses. They have some of the holes planned out so that it is impossible to get a hole in one on them.

"There are 12 to 15 of these courses at Miami Beach. They all do a good business. They draw better at night than during the day. The golfers hit the links during the day and try out the miniature courses at night.

"THEY also have numerous spots here where you can shoot a pail of golf balls for [illegible] cents. It is great fun for the beginners and the boys and girls who are trying to correct a slice or a hook.

"All of the golf courses here are crowded each day. One has to wait an hour to an hour and a half to get started unless he gets up with the birds. Anybody who says that golf is not one of the most popular forms of exercise in the world has never visited Miami Beach."

"JACK SHARKEY and Phil Scott were to drop in at office of the Miami City Boxing Commission today and receive their licenses for their 15-round bout here on February 27. The Garden was also to receive its license to promote the show.

"With the big fight less than three weeks off, the ballyhoo is on in earnest.

"PRIMO CARNERA has pulled out of the show which was planned for the Miami Beach Kennel Club on February 21, a week before the Garden's affair. This practically ruins the attraction.

Young Stribling is carded to meet Jack Renault in another bout at the Kennel Club's show but Carnera was the one relied upon to draw the money. Billy Duffy, Carnera's American manager, did not care to interfere with the Garden's big show in any way."

Eight Giants Are Still Unsigned

New York, Feb. 7 (INS)—With eight players unsigned, the New York Giants were preparing today for their departure for spring training at San Antonio, Tex., on February 15.

The eight holdouts are Billy Terry, Travis Jackson, Fred Lindstrom, Melvin Ott, Fred Leach, Bob O'Farrell, Bill Walker and Jack Scott, practically the backbone of the team.

All, however, were expected to come to terms within the next few days, excepting possibly Terry, who is called a "determined holdout."

60 Cities in De Molay Bowling Tourney

Kansas City, Feb. 7 (INS). More than 60 cities in 30 states and Canada will be represented in the telegraphic bowling tournament to be held tomorrow by chapters of the Order of De Molay.

The final scores of the games will be telegraphed to the organization's main offices here and prizes awarded the four winning teams. Thirty frames will be rolled and the contestants will be Demolays, all under 21 years old.

CARNERA IS K. O. VICTOR IN 2 ROUNDS

NEW YORK, Feb. 7 (AP). There are no figures to prove it, but the suspicion grows that Primo Carnera, Venetian carpenter, will be the highest paid athlete in the United States within almost as short a time as it takes to tell it.

The giant Italian heavyweight knocked out Cowboy Billy Owens, Cherokee Indian from Guthrie, Okla., in exactly 3 minutes 25 seconds of fighting at Newark last night and boosted his total earnings in America to somewhere between $40,000 and $45,000.

Carnera has made three ring appearances since he came to this country and knocked out three men in total ring time of 5 minutes 22 seconds.

That makes his earnings average approximately $8000 for every minute he spent in the ring. If he can finish off his next few opponents in as short order and possibly at slightly larger purses, Carnera's average will increase by leaps and bounds.

Owens made a better showing than either of Carnera's previous opponents, although that may have been because the Italian was inclined to clown his way through the first round. The Italian knocked out Big Boy Peterson in 1 minute 10 seconds of fighting in his first match here and K. O'd Elzear Rioux of Canada in 47 seconds at Chicago last Friday night.

Owens lasted 3 minutes 25 seconds.

Eight thousand persons jammed their way into the Newark Armory and watched Carnera abandon his usual formula of getting his man as quickly as possible.

The ambling Alp moved about the ring with great speed, boxing with Owens, wrestling his man around in the clinches when he wasn't blocking scientifically all the punches the red man aimed at him.

Toward the end of the round Carnera sent home several hard punches to the head and body, but Owens took them without flinching.

As the second round opened Primo landed both hands heavily to the Indian's head. Owens' knees buckled and he went down on his shoulders as a heavy right caught him on the chin. The count of 10 found Owens writhing on the floor and Carnera a victor in his third straight match. Carnera weighed 276, Owens, 220.

SCHOOL SIXES PLAY TONIGHT

Melrose high will play Newton high and Arlington high will play Stoneham in the first double-header of the round-robin series to determine the championship of the Greater Boston Interscholastic League in the Arena at 8:15 tonight.

As the series opens, Melrose is a slight favorite with Newton and Arlington both conceded good chances and Stoneham regarded as the dark horse.

The latter team did not qualify for the round-robin until Monday when it defeated Rindge for the fourth playoff position in a bitter 1 to 0 game on the Arena surface.

All four teams come into the final stretch with full strength available. Coach Harold Poole of Melrose will start his high-powered forward line combination of Keough, Russell and Allmon.

GOOD LITTLE MEN AT GARDEN

Sammy Fuller Benny Bass

Sammy Fuller of the North End has big chance tonight when he faces Benny Bass, junior lightweight champion, in the feature 10-round bout at the Boston Garden.

Passing the Puck

By BILL GRIMES

Judging from the way Tiny Thompson, Dutch Gainor, Johnny Loucks and Rex Mackey have been strutting around for a couple of days, one might think that they had received extra bonuses. But such is not the case. They are putting on the dog because Don McFayden, another product of good old Calgary, was mainly responsible for Marquette's victory over Harvard.

Contrary to the announcement that he has drawn suspension for his fight with Everett McGowan of the Springfield Indians, Norm Shay played against the Rhode Island Reds. He was responsible for one goal and passed for another.

The Philadelphia fans have petitioned Pres. James E. Dooley not to send Red McKenzie to officiate any more in games in the Quaker City. Conditions are developing into a fine state of affairs, when Providence does not want Bill Shaver, Bill Stewart is persona non grata in Boston, and McKenzie is barred in Philly.

Jakey Forbes of New Haven has the Indian sign on the Rhode Island Reds. The Providence outfit loses confidence when they are stacked against the Eagles goalie. Now that Manager Sprague Cleghorn has been convinced of this condition watch the Reds in the next New Haven game.

Although the Bruins are not scheduled to play until next Tuesday, they are working out under the watchful eye of Mickie MacKay every morning at the Garden. With little or no chance of being dislodged from first place the Bruins are going to coast along for the next two or three weeks, when they will start their final drive for the Stanley Cup series.

Shore, Goodfellow and Hughes Fined

Newton Center Girl in Quarter Finals

Hamilton, Bermuda, Feb. 7 (AP)—The Bermuda women's golf championship today narrowed to four participants as two rounds were played in the competition. The survivors are Mrs. F. G. Barker, Cleveland; Miss Elinor La Bonte, Newton Center, Mass.; Mrs. Andrew Kay, Toronto, and Mrs. Edward Stevens, New York.

Hallowell Captain of Harvard 2nds

Hallowell was a member of the freshman hockey team two years ago and of the second varsity last year. [illegible] also rowed on the jayvee Crim[illegible] crew last year.

Jack Conway Picks Fuller to Win Over Bass

Miami Beach, Fla., Feb. 7. "Who will win the Fuller-Bass bout at the Boston Garden tonight?" Jack Conway was asked today.

"Bass is world's junior lightweight champion and will probably enter the ring a red hot favorite," replied Conway. "I'm going to string along with the short ender in this bout. I have been tipped that Fuller is in fine condition and punching very well. I look for him to carry the fight to the champion and if he does he should win. I'm riding with Sammy tonight."

HUB SAILOR TRAINS HARD FOR SCOTT

By JACK SHARKEY

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 7. — Max Schmeling's decision to return to the United States to meet me in a bout for the heavyweight championship of the world at New York city in June was pleasing news to me.

I have always wanted to battle the so-called German Dempsey. Madison Square Garden Corporation originally named Schmeling as my opponent for a bout it planned to stage at Detroit last September.

William F. Carey, president of the Garden, intended to go ahead with plans for a tussle between Schmeling and myself at Detroit despite the fact he had been notified by the New York Boxing Commission that the license of his organization would be suspended if he put on the bout.

For some reason Schmeling and his managers decided not to go through with that match with me at Detroit.

DESPITE my desire to have battled the German at the time it was for the best interest of boxing that the contest did not take place last year. Such a bout would have brought about a clash between the New York Garden and the New York commission, which would have injured the ring game.

I have always had the greatest respect for the rulings of the New York Commission. I have felt that the decisions of Commissioners Farley, Muldoon and Brower were always made in good faith and with a desire to place the boxing game on an equal standing with baseball and football.

I have accepted the full program of Commissioner Muldoon, which calls for me to battle Scott, the winner to clash with Schmeling. It is my firm belief that I shall be the one to leave the ring at Miami City the victor.

THIS statement is made with due respect to the ability of Scott. The British champion has been very active during his ring career. He has battled all comers much like myself. He is now one of the two men blocking my advance to the heavyweight championship. I feel I shall eliminate him in our contest on Feb. 27 and then conquer Schmeling.

I have a pretty fair idea of how Herr Max boxes as I saw him the night he licked Paulino so decisively at the Milk Fund Show in New York last June.

At the time I expected to meet the winner of the Schmeling-Paulino bout. The German was so far out front at the end of the 11th round that there was not any question that Schmeling would win. His fine left hand attack had beaten Paulino down. At close quarters Schmeling pumped right hand socks to his rival's body.

When the gong sounded for the end of the 11th frame Paulino was badly marked up around the face. His superb courage was all that enabled him to keep carrying on.

"I'M starting for home right now," I told Johnny Buckley at this point in the bout. "Schmeling cannot lose. I'm returning to Boston by auto and will get up into the White Mountains as quickly as possible. I want to get into the best possible shape for this fellow Schmeling."

Tommy Loughran happened to be the boxer in the other corner when I next stepped into action. If Schmeling had been in Loughran's place, I am confident I would have knocked out the German just as quickly as I did Loughran.

I considered Loughran a much more dangerous obstacle in my drive for the title than I did Schmeling. I felt that the Philadelphian's brilliant ability as a boxer would make him a difficult man to beat.

AT that Tommy is still an outstanding hea[illegible] Tex and get some of [illegible] contenders to mingle with [illegible]. With the exception of Scott and Schmeling, I feel Loughran can still lick any big man in the world.

With Scott eliminated my bout with Schmeling will be staged for the famous New York Milk Fund sponsored annually by Mrs. William Randolph Hearst. This is one of the finest charities in the world and it is proper that boxing should give it substantial assistance each year.

I signed with Madison Sq. Garden Corporation for the Schmeling match on condition that it stage the show for the milk fund.

William F. Carey, president of the Garden, readily agreed to this condition. He informed Johnny Buckley, my manager, that he was anxious to promote the biggest show in sight for the milk fund next June.

AFTER connecting with a solid right hand belt to Scott's chin and I will'—I'm sure to face Schmeling in the outstanding match of the year.

Meanwhile I am devoting all of my time to getting into condition for my crack at Scott on the 27th. I shall have to be at my best to defeat the British champion who has had a wealth of experience in important bouts and who is just as determined as myself to get the heavyweight title.

CUTBILL TO RUN IN B. A. A. SPECIAL

HAROLD CUTBILL, who established the present world's indoor record for the 1000-yard run of two minutes, 12 seconds at Buffalo in March, 1922, will be a starter in the "Special 1000" at the 41st Annual Indoor Games and Intercollegiate Relay Carnival of the B. A. A. at the Boston Arena on Saturday evening, February 15.

Cutbill was suspended in 1922, and was not reinstated until 1928. In spite of his six-year lay-off he is capable of turning in a 1000 in better than 2.15 which is only a few seconds away from the world's record he made back in 1922.

He has won several starts in the various meets held in New York during the present indoor season, and at the K. C. games held in Boston recently he stayed back too long, and with his tremendous kick showed a wonderful burst of speed to come in in third position only a few feet behind Phil Edwards, who was beaten on the last lap by the unexpected 'kick' of Russell Chapman of Bates, the present New England intercollegiate half-mile champion.

Chairman Hart announced that every effort was being made to secure the entries of both Edwards and Chapman for this special 1000, and if he is successful we will probably see one of the greatest races over this distance ever staged in Boston.

GIRL SKATER BREAKS LEG

Miss May Ritchie of the Olympic Skating Club of Boston in rounding into the last turn in the indoor speed title race at the Legion ice carnival at Boston Garden, crashed into the boards and was carried to the Relief Hospital with a broken leg.

Miss Ritchie had finished second in the 220-yard race previously, and was apparently on her way to success in the 440-yard contest.

Miss Helen Cosker, New England outdoor champion, was the winner of this race in the fast time of 1m 48 2-5s. Helen Maloney was second and Molly Thomas third.

In the preceding race, Grace Wolfe of the Olympic Skating Club came through with flying colors, a step ahead of May Ritchie and Molly Thorne of the same organization. The time was 31 seconds for the distance of 220 yards.

In the closing event for women, the New England indoor speed skating championship over the 880-yard route, Miss Kosker was clocked in 3m 08s to win. Grace Wolfe was second and Helen Maloney third.

The first runner, the men's invitation speed race, was a triumph for Walter Thorne of Brookline, who nudged out Joseph Fox of Boston and Cecil Dingee of Dorchester for first place. The time here was 52 seconds.

Miss Maribel Vinson of Winchester, who has won a high place in the fancy skating sun throughout the country and made a bid for international honors in New York recently was one of the solo performers. Norval Baptie and Gladys Lamb of the Iceland, New York, also favored with their thrilling exhibition, which although well known to real fans of ice skating in this section, never fails to delight. Miss Lamb also contributed a number with Betty Chase of New York.

Spencer-Debaets Open Chicago Race

Chicago, Feb. 7 (AP).—Freddie Spencer, Newark, N. J., and Gerard Debaets of Belgium, six-day bike race stars, will meet tonight in a one-mile match race at the Chicago Stadium, in the program of special events preceding Chicago's 23rd six-day grind, which starts Sunday night.

EXAMS WRECK B.U. TRACK TEAM

The placing on probation of six Boston University trackmen as a result of their failure to pass the recent mid-year examinations leaves Coach Freddie Burns a difficult task to perform in rebuilding both varsity and freshman teams.

Those lost for the rest of the year are Ted Adams, Ronald Harmon, Dwight Stacey and Cy Perkins of the varsity, and Mike Lopatkiewitz and Joe Vitr of the freshmen.

The loss of Adams from the varsity is the severest blow of all, as this boy was counted on for a pair of first places in the hurdles and shot put in the Brown meet, Feb. 21. He is also capable of broad jumping close to 22 feet and was counted on as a heavy point scorer this spring on the cinders.

Ron Harmon, leadoff man on the relay team and one of Burns' reliables in the quarter-mile run, is another sure point winner who will be sorely missed.

Stacey and Perkins, in the mile run and shot put respectively, are another pair of veteran performers who could be used to advantage in dual meets both this winter and next spring.

Golfer Tees Off, Kills a Rabbit

St. Petersburg, Fla., Feb. 7. — Driving off the ninth tee at the Jungle Country Club here yesterday, J. R. Popham of Montreal, Can., hit and killed a rabbit. His low tee shot struck the bunny which was darting across the fairway.

Stop Thinning Hair at these points to Prevent Baldness

NATURE is calling for help when your hair begins to thin at the (1) temples, (2) frontal, or (3) crown. Thinning hair at these points, or dandruff-infected, itchy scalp should warn you that your scalp needs immediate attention to prevent further hair loss. Heed these positive warnings and have the Thomas' correct the scalp disorder that is causing your abnormal hair loss.

Thomas' scalp treatment ends dandruff, stops falling hair, and grows hair—not by old-fashioned hit or miss methods—but by the skilled use of modern therapeutic agents. The treatment is scientifically sound in that it supplies the functioning stimuli of which the scalp has been deprived through modern living conditions.

The Thomas' will not accept you for treatment unless they feel reasonably sure that you will obtain satisfactory results. Call at the nearest Thomas office today, where a skilled trichologist will gladly examine your hair and scalp without charge and frankly tell you what Thomas' treatment can do to help you retain or regain your hair. Remember—the examination is free.

Albina Osipowich Defends Title at Meet Tonight

SWIM STAR WILL FACE FAST FIELD

ALBINA OSIPOWICH of Worcester, national 100-yard freestyle champion and record holder, will make her first appearance in a local pool this year, at the fifth annual swimming meet conducted under the auspices of the Women's Swimming Association at the Brookline public baths tonight.

The Worcester miss will defend her New England title in the 100-yard free style event, the feature race of a seven-event program.

Miss Osipowich is now a student at Pembroke College in Providence. She will be a heavy favorite to lead the field home tonight.

Mildred Twomey of the Boston Swimming Association, who came within an eighth of a second of Miss Osipowich's record a month ago, stands a chance of beating the Worcester star. The Boston girl in the short space of one year has come to the front by leaps and bounds.

If she shows any of the form she displayed in her last appearance here the national champion is in for a busy evening.

CHAMPS IN 220-YARD RACE

The 220-yard open free style competition also has drawn a number of past and present champions. Millicent Cramp of Whitinsville, 440-yard title-holder last season, heads the list of favorites. Barbara Greenwood, also of Whitinsville, Helen Delaney, 1928 champion, and Gussie Schnable, a new star, both of the Boston Swimming Association, are other strong entrants in this race.

In the 100-yard breaststroke handicap, Delma Carlstrom of Worcester, a champion of some years back, Dorothy McSheehy of the famous family of Whitinsville, Marion Stanford, Florence Hattersley, Mary Galvin, Helen Gould, Charlotte Field, Jane Copper and Ethel Lee of the Brookline Club and Margaret Lynch and Mary Doherty of the Boston Swimming Association are some of the stars in this event.

DIVING TITLE EVENT

The New England junior diving championship will be the final event on the card. Tella Morrison, sister of Esther, New England senior titleholder, will attempt to capture another championship for the family.

Another big feature on the program will be the relay race between Whitinsville, Worcester and Brookline. Anna Tully, Ruth Gagan, Delma Carlstrom and Albina Osipowich will represented the Worcester team.

Whitinsville will send Barbara Greenwood, Millicent Cramp, Claire Walker and Joan McSheehy and Esther Morrison, Ethel Lee, Betty Ritchie and Thelma Field will wear the colors of the Brookline club.

There are two events closed to members of the Brookline club. The 50-yard backstroke and 50-yard novice free style are the events listed.

Set Dates for British-German Cup Tilt

Berlin, Feb. 7 (AP)—The German Lawn Tennis Association announces that the first round contest between Great Britain and Germany in the European zone of Davis Cup competition will be played April 24, 25, 26 at a place to be decided on later.

GOOD GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON
"Golf's Greatest Teacher"

In its play on the average golf course, I would say that the new ball, which will be slightly larger and slightly lighter than the present one, will make your course about three strokes harder than it is now. In this general survey of it I contemplate the whole field of golf, through it might easily be that the new ball would take your individual course that many strokes easier for you. It depends on several factors of play which are going to be influenced by the ball. Your drives will not be as long, by about this margin: If you drive the present ball for 200 yards of carry, you will drive the new one about 195 yards. If you slice with the present ball, or have a tendency toward a fading carry, you will need to get that out of your system, because hooks and slices are going to be much bigger with the new ball. Naturally so, since there is more surface on it for the air pressure to get hold of. There are advantages and disadvantages in the new ball, and the principal advantage to you I would say is that it will make your entire play much bolder.

BUSY DAYS FOR SCHOOLBOY ATHLETES

Schoolboys of Greater Boston have plenty of action today and tomorrow. The Boston district school track finals at the East Armory, and the Andover-Exeter hockey game at the Arena, both affairs tomorrow afternoon, are the high lights of the program.

Methuen goes to Medford today to battle the Blue and White track team. Medford picked up a great deal of confidence by its win in the Northeastern school games last week, and will make competition interesting for the best of the school teams for the balance of this season.

Jim Bowdren, captain of the Medford team, is running better each day. Emilio De Benedictis, in the shot, has improved steadily.

Browne & Nichols trackmen race at the Noble & Greenough track this p. m. These teams are evenly matched and should stage a close meet.

A bunch of fine court games are on the school slate today. Lynn Classical plays on its old rival's floor when it meets Lynn English. The English attack is strong, and Tony Geniawicz is a whole defense in himself, so Classical is in for a stiff battle.

Newton plays on the Everett court this afternoon in a suburban league contest. Stoneham goes to Reading. Herant Adzigian is the big cog in the Stoneham attack and will keep the Reading boys on the jump.

That Medford Chelsea court game tomorrow evening at the Medford gym will be good. Lynn English and Salem both defeated Chelsea and Tony Lyons' Medford five downed both English and the Witch City group.

The Blue and White will be out for revenge on the Chelsea clan in this game. The M. I. T. play isn't far in the future, and both these teams have hopes of coming through in the schoolboy court tourney so the fight to show superiority at this stage of the season should be keen.

Hyde Park will be the favorite in the finals of the District meet tomorrow afternoon. Skip Sherlock's boys lead in the point total by a substantial margin, and there are 25 H. P. lads qualified for the windup part of the program today. East or South Boston may score heavily in the running events. They will need to if they are to make up those points of Hyde Park, gained in the field events.

Other good track meets on the list tomorrow are: Newton at Brookline, in the second of their dual meets; Brockton at Malden; Lynn Classical at Lynn English and Tabor Academy at Moses Brown.

One of the best ice games of the Boston school hockey game series is slated for tomorrow morning when the unbeaten Jamaica Plain six runs against Boston Latin.

HEXIMER HERE WITH INDIANS

Orville Heximer, the former Niagara Falls amateur, whom the Rangers are reported to have paid several thousand dollars to sign a professional contract, will come to Boston Garden tomorrow night with Springfield Indians, when the Redskins make their fourth appearance of the season here against the fast-traveling Tigers.

Heximer was sent to Springfield by the Rangers when they recalled Leo Quenneville and Sparky Vail to the New York standard two weeks ago. He is reported to be one of the most brilliant young forward prospects in hockey.

The Indians come to Boston with high hope of ending the Tiger winning streak which has reached three straight and has landed the Boston entry in a tie with Philadelphia Arrows for the third play-off position.

Indian Plans Round Trip of Channel

Dover, Eng., Feb. 7 (INS)—Many swimmers aspire to swim the English Channel, but Shafi Ahmad, champion Indian aquatic expert, proposes to swim it from England to France and back again. He leaves Madras for England in March.

Shafi Ahmad, who also aims at breaking the world's endurance record of 62 hours' continuous swimming recently established at Malta, is being financed by the Hyderabad government.

OXFORD CREW CAPTAIN RESIGNS

London, Feb. 7 (AP)—[illegible] which threatened to hamper Oxford's preparations for the annual boat race with Cambridge [illegible] the resignation of [illegible] Graham as president of the Oxford Boat Club.

The president of the club, similar to the captain of an American crew, is in absolute charge of the crew, its training and the appointment of coaches. J. Tinne was chosen as Graham's successor.

COACHES FAVORED TINNE.

The dispute began when the coaches, Dr. Mallam, May Wigg and A. S. Garton favored Tinne to replace Graham at the No. 7 oar in the Oxford boat.

The president insisted on retaining his seat in the boat and cited tradition to prove his right to it. Finding Graham unshakable, the coaches resigned in a body.

Graham then called a meeting of the captains of the college boats and after a discussion of the situation announced his resignation. Tinne, brother of the famous Oxford Blue of 1912, was immediately chosen as his successor.

It was generally expected that Tinne would reappoint the [illegible] thority to appoint a new staff.

The Oxford-Cambridge race will be rowed April 12 with Oxford attempting to break a string of six consecutive Cambridge victories.

GREAT HONOR

He has full command on all rowing matters at the university. Neither coaches nor faculty has control over him. Coaches are always "old blues" who are invited by the president to assist in the training without fee. The president has the right to withdraw such invitations at any time.

Cuyler Signs With Cubs for Two Years

Chicago, Feb. 7 (AP)—Hazen "Kiki" Cuyler, rightfielder of the National League champion Chicago Cubs, has had his new contract revised to read "two years" instead of "one year."

Cuyler, in Chicago with his Pontiac, Mich., semi-professional basketball team, had agreed to terms offered by President William L. Veeck, but wanted a two-year term—and got it yesterday.

CARRY YOURSELF AS A PRINCESS, SAYS JERITZA

Beauty Tells of Exercises to Help You to Poise

By MARIA JERITZA

"WHAT A beautiful princess!"

This was the general comment when photographs of a certain lovely royal bride adorned the first pages of the newspapers not long ago. The regal grace of the royal lady was apparent at a glance. And when analyzed the secret of poise and royal charm lay largely in the way she carried herself, with lithe, erect spine and head held high.

Maria Jeritza

Recently a certain lady in New York claimed royal connections and although her claim was not entirely established the fact that she held her spine and neck erect and tall when she stood and when she walked made an impression in favor of her claim. Royalty are taught from infancy that the secret of buoyant, regal grace is holding the back straight. Of course, the back is never perfectly straight. It naturally bends at the waist. But by holding it as straight as you can, with your abdominal walls forced back and your neck as erect as your spine, you will achieve the normal physical poise of health and beauty. You will feel lifted out of your body, and that light poise is the secret of grace. Likewise this correct posture counts for a slender silhouette with the fashionable small waist.

Here are exercises that should help to keep the muscles of your spine limber and strong, so that they will easily hold themselves erect. But exercises must be practiced faithfully every day to make them effective.

Stand about three feet in front of a chair, then with your arms on the sides of a chair bend your elbows until you touch the chair with your abdomen and return to position. Repeat this exercise 10 times. You will find it is excellent for your abdomen and spine, bringing the muscles of your upper back and shoulders as well as those of your lower back into play.

Work in a school of classic ballet dancing or in a gymnasium under a skillful director is splendid for normal development and beauty of the back, if taken seriously. But 10 minutes of vigorous exercise each morning, followed by a quick shower, will do more for your health and beauty and the straight grace of your spine than a dancing class or gymnasium tended spasmodically.

Make your 10 minutes of morning exercise and quick daily bath a regular part of your beauty regime.

'WILL YOU WALK INTO MY PARLOR?'

DRAWN BY Nell Brinkley

UNGALLANT to liken a lady, a pretty lady, to a spider! A golden lady, brown-eyed with the brown of a butterfly wing, gold with the gold of Viking hair and helmets; dainty with the daintiness of a baby kitten; happy with the happiness of child hours, elegant with the immaculate elegancy of the lily; beautiful with the beauty of the dancer, the swimmer, the worker, the player, the idler, the woman and the child—that makes the woman around us; so many of her. Call that a spider! But yes, in many ways—curious and picturesque ways. See here:

"The spider's touch, how exquisitely fine!

Mr. Pope wrote that in his "Essay on Man." And we set it underneath the picture of a clever and pretty girl to show in how little—but ah! how much—she is like Mons or Mlle Spider. It's in praise of her touch, you see. How exquisitely fine—feels at each thread to feel the silver strength. And lives along the line. That last is not so nice. The real spider lives upon snared, helpless captives that children in pity toil to release, forgetting that "spiders must live" and know no other way to do so. But the girl behind the silver web of her fine weaving lives delicately upon Cupid, captures him just for his presence. She is no cannibal. And who's sorry for Cupid, anyhow, he's a spinner himself, spinner of artful webs dewed with the fires of the rainbow! And when he in turn gets caught, wing-tangled, toe-bound, nose-netted, bundled up and delivered bodily to a lady by the power of her charms and the subtlety of her weaving, there's a bit of cheering done!

Woman has been compared to all the world of beast and birds. She has been called pussy-cat, both in fun and bitterness. She has been called another more dead member of the cat family, but known for grace, the leopard. She has been likened to the peacock for vanity and the dove for meekness, the wren for neatness and the nightingale for a voice of beauty. The big-eye gazelle, the wildcat, the bird of paradise, the tiny gray mouse, the spaniel—all have taken each their turn describing woman for you; painting her color, her disposition, her manner, her brain, her fidelity or lack of it, her menace, her winsomeness, her ferocity, her affection, her grace, her splendor, her timidity, her loyalty.

And now we're calling her a spider! But only in a harmless manner of speaking, don't you see. Just because she is the magic hand at spinning jeweled webs and catching something in them!

Dad, Write to Son

By CONSTANCE CAMERON

THE [illegible] in [illegible] room [illegible] at college [illegible] himself on the bed in a [illegible]. "Hey, [illegible] fellows, I got a letter from my Dad and I want to read it."

Constance Cameron

Now the lad was used to reading letters [illegible] fairly unconscious of the talk and laughter about him. He could "cram" for an examination with several boys making merry in his room [illegible] with a reply to a [illegible] thought he hadn't a [illegible] card.

[illegible] was a bit of swagger, a bit of pride in his command. He [illegible] read to [illegible] know he had a letter from "Dad." He was proud of the fact that busy Dad took time to write him. And [illegible] he might be, when we learn how few "Dads" write to their sons at college.

Work overtime, they will. Deny themselves things they want in order to have on hand the necessary funds to put "Son" through school, but there is often ends. Never by a word or a few scribbled lines do they keep up a contact, a friendly interest in the boy who is trying to adjust himself to a new world and sometimes finding the adjustment very hard. Their letters arrive when Son has done something which needs a reprimand, or after he has asked for more spending money—either with the money enclosed or a sharp order to cut down on the spending.

Mother writes often, of course, and she always ends with "love from us both," or "Dad sends love," but somehow that sort of smacks a circular letter.

You don't know, unless you've seen college men get letters from home, just how much a line from Dad means.

Write the boy today and a week from today and keep it up during the year. Don't preach. Be friends with him. It's the biggest thing you can do for the boy away from home. He likes Mother's letters, but he's proud as Punch when Dad writes him.

Listen, World!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

WANT to cut out bad habits this year?

Want to put your life on a more efficient, honest basis?

Elsie Robinson

THEN, PERHAPS, YOU'D BETTER START BY ELIMINATING SOME OF YOUR "FRIENDS."

Friends . . . that fine old word has become pretty cheap nowadays. We're afraid of loneliness. We dislike exclusiveness. We want to be popular . . . have a gang around . . . be called good fellows—

And, if we've the time and money to spend, it isn't hard. It isn't even necessary to spend much money. People are only too glad to flock around if we'll listen to them and play with them and make over them. With the result that we speedily accumulate a long list of miscellaneous bipeds who use us for a parking station and refer to us as Dear Old Bill or Darling Sally.

Well, that's fine . . . if you've nothing better to do with your life than use it as a parking station. But if you really have ambition and attach some value to your performance it's not so good.

FOR EACH ONE OF THOSE FRIENDS REPRESENTS A DEFINITE INVESTMENT OF TIME, ENERGY, SYMPATHY AND THOUGHT. TO EACH ONE OF THEM YOU GIVE A PIECE OF YOUR LIFE. FOR EACH ONE OF THEM YOU PLACE A PLASTER ON YOUR FUTURE.

IS HE OR SHE WORTH IT?

Stop and think.

You have a certain amount to spend this year . . . a certain amount of time, strength, thought and feeling. These assets are your REAL TREASURE. Money has little value in comparison with them. With these assets you can acquire happiness and power, wisdom and peace. But remember:

THESE QUALITIES ARE LIKE ANY OTHER NEGOTIABLE ASSET. If you waste them, they're gone. If you spend them on worthless objects, you won't have them for the better bargains.

ARE YOUR FRIENDS WORTH WHAT THEY'RE COSTING YOU?

WHAT DO THEY REALLY NET YOU AT THE END OF THE YEAR?

Have they made you a wiser, finer human being?

Have they given you an opportunity for noble service?

Have they started you on a great adventure, stimulated you to brave rebellions?

Have they quickened your mind, mellowed your heart and stiffened your spine?

OR HAVE THEY JUST HELPED YOU KILL TIME?

Have they spent your life and given you nothing in return?

WILL YOUR FRIENDSHIPS SHOW A PROFIT AT THE DAWN OF 1931, OR WILL THEY LEAVE YOU IN THE RED?

On Nature's Own Cures

By LOUIS E. BISCH, M. D., Ph. D.
Famous Authority on Health and Psychology

IT is convenient to think of all injuries and diseases as kinds of inflammation.

Furthermore, this is essentially true. When tissues are injured, whether through a blow, a cut, the invasion of germs, or through tumor growth, a certain amount of irritation constitutes what we know as inflammation.

Dr. L. E. Bisch

We should not, however, think of inflammation, no matter what its variety may be or where it is located, as a destructive process merely.

Tissues are inflamed because nature is trying to repair the damage done to the tissues involved.

Indeed, were it not for inflamatory processes, injuries and disease would not be restricted to areas as they are. On the contrary, they would spread and spread until the entire body would be involved with death, of course, as the inevitable result.

In all inflammation there is heat, redness, swelling, pain and lastly some impairment of the part that is involved.

Heat is always present when any tissue is injured or diseased. This is true whether the inflammation is on the surface and visible to the naked eye or whether it is located somewhere within the body and hidden.

The reason for the increased heat is that in all injured tissue nature immediately causes an increased amount of blood to flow throw it. If the injury or disease is severe the temperature of the body may be raised. This is the familiar phenomenon of fever.

The redness in all inflammation is caused also by the increased blood flow. At first this is usually a brighter red than later on. This is because the blood may remain in the part for a long time and thus lose some of its redness because it has lost some of its oxygen which has been used in helping to combat the disability.

Swelling is brought about by the increased blood flow, but also by the fact that the tissues become distended with serum which does not flow out readily. Inflammatory products—caused by the white corpuscles of the body in their attemp to kill off the germs and poisons by actual ingestion—also distend the part.

The pain in inflammation varies according to the injury. In inflamed bone it is aching or boring in character. When it is mucous membrane, like the lining of the mouth, the pain is burning or scalding. Other types of pain have been described as stabbing, lacerating, throbbing, sickening, etc.

The way the blood, the tissues and the body as a whole react in inflammation is a fascinating study.

Anyone would profit and be highly diverted as well were he to read up on the subject in some popular treatise.

Lovejoy -:- Serial by Beatrice Burton

CHAPTER 23

THAT last thrust went home. . . .

For the baby had become the pride of Tom's life during the last couple of months. He would make funny eager little noises when he heard Tom's voice, and he would hold out his small fat hands and beg Tom in his baby way, to take him whenever he came near him.

"Yes, I suppose we ought to have our own furniture," Tom agreed, "instead of buying this stuff that's in this house."

"Of course we ought to!" Sudden relief shone in Lovejoy's lovely flushed face. "You've always told me about the haircloth sofas and the big old armchairs in your mother's house—and I want little Tom to grow up and remember his mother's things in just that same way. Tom, we've just got to have a home of our own!"

Tom turned to look into the backyard where his plants were beginning to come up in neat little pale-green rows.

The sunset wind stirred the new leaves on the oak tree, and a bird was singing somewhere out in the lemon-colored afterglow.

"I'd have liked to buy this house, just the same," said Tom. If a grown man can be wistful, he was wistful then.

"It's one fine dump!" Lovejoy contradicted him.

"Tom says I can buy all the furniture I want!" she told Aline with triumph the next morning. "Well, that is, he didn't forbid me to get what I need for the new house. So I'm going to buy that wine-colored damask chair that I've been longing for."

The last Thursday in May was cold and wet and windy.

All day gray rain came down in sheets and the wind went howling around the house like a wild beast.

At 1 o'clock Aline came running through the backyard wrapped in a blue-gray cape. Her hair was plastered against her head by the rain when she came bursting into Hilda's warm, spotless kitchen.

She had two or three bundles wrapped in newspaper. She dumped them down upon the kitchen table and pushed Lovejoy into the dining room.

"How soon is Hilda going out?" she asked in an excited whisper.

Thursday was Hilda's half-holiday—the day when she went to the Scandinavian Club to play basketball, have supper and meet her friends from the "Old Country."

"She's not going out at all today," Lovejoy answered. "She told me this morning that she wouldn't think of leaving the house on a day like this. She's going to lie down in her room and rest though."

"Well, she'll have to change her mind, honey," she said. "You'll have to send her to the store or do something like that with her for an hour or so. Sam Oliver, an old beau of mine, is in town and he's coming here to pick me up and take me driving. I brought over some ginger ale and things so that I could give him a drink when he came."

Lovejoy stared at her helplessly.

How on earth could she get Hilda out of the house on a day like this? The rain was beating against the walls of the house like a shower of bird-shot, and the gutters were running rivers. And Hilda could be as immovable as a block of stone or a mule when she wanted to be.

"I couldn't ask Sam to my house," Aline explained, "because Al had a sore throat when he went downtown this morning and it would be just like him to come home early and find Sam there."

Lovejoy went into the kitchen.

"Hilda," she said, "will you do something for me? Will you go down to the new house and measure all the windows in it? I'm going downtown for curtain materials tomorrow."

Hilda shrugged her square shoulders.

"Listen—why can't I go tomorrow morning early?" she asked slowly. "If I go out today I like to go to Scandinavian Club. But it's so bad today. See, I think I'm going to lie down and rest. I measure the windows tomorrow morning—but not today. Too bad weather." She shook her flaxen head firmly.

Her blue eyes slewed around from Lovejoy's face to the three bottle-shaped packages on the table. She seemed to know what was in them and why Aline had brought them there.

A look that clearly said I know you want to get rid of me, but you're not going to flashed in and out of her face.

She picked up the alarm clock from the drainboard and went heavily into her bedroom, shutting the door behind her.

The Real Truth

By ELINOR GLYN

To continue with this subject of "exquisiteness," there is something so illusive and attractive about it.

Elinor Glyn

If a young man sees beautifully kept hands, sees freshness and daintiness in a girl's garments, he instinctively feels drawn to her as one is to a sweet flower. But, alas! how often has one seen a soiled ribbon strap slipping over the shoulder and emerging beyond a smart dress. Without analyzing why, one experiences repulsion.

It is all a matter of suggestion—the girl who suggests exquisite freshness is sure to attract, but she above all others cannot afford to let herself get careless in her appearance before either husband, lover or friend. She must keep up the impression of "exquisiteness" in her daily life, both at night and at day. Her voice cannot be coarse nor her choice of words vulgar. If she is really an "exquisite" person she must never destroy her own image.

Just use common sense, girls, and reverse the positions. If a young man charmed you by every attraction and refinement of dress and person, would you not experience revulsion if you discovered that it was only for appearance and that in reality, he was coarse and rather disgusting? Play the game according to its rules—if you want to win it.

Many Ways to Cook Salmon

SALMON seems a food particularly well fitted to parties since its color is pretty and its taste can always be depended upon to be tempting. Salmon fits into the color scheme of nearly any meal, and whether one serves it in individual ramekins or in large loaves or rolls it is always decorative and delicious to eat.

Martha Lee

Here are a couple of recipes which suggest the serving of salmon in individual ways, which will do for a lap or plate supper in individual dishes if enough of them are prepared.

SALMON RAMEKINS

Remove tendons and skin from one 15½-oz can of salmon and mix gently into 1½ cups white sauce. Slice 2 hard-cooked eggs and use them to line individual buttered molds. Pour salmon mixture into the middle. Cover with ¼ cup chopped salted peanuts and set in a pan of hot water. Bake until hot and the nuts are crisp. Serve right from the ramekins. Serves 6.

SALMON IN NOODLE NESTS

Boil and drain ½ pkg of egg noodles and add 3 tbsps melted butter. Line individual buttered molds with the noodles. Meanwhile, mix one 15½-oz can of salmon with 2 slightly beaten eggs, 2 tbsps. chopped sweet pickle, 2 tbsps. chopped onion, 1 tbsp. capers and season to taste with salt and pepper. Fill center of lined molds with this and cover top with noodles. Steam 1 hour. Serve with a cream sauce to which has been added some peas and some chopped hard cooked eggs. Serves 6.

Here is a most delicious and easily served salmon loaf which may be presented either hot or cold and is nice for any type of buffet supper. The recipe is given in quantity:

SALMON LOAF
(For 50)

Remove all bits of skin and bone from 13 large (1 lb.) cans of salmon and flake lightly. Add 26 slightly beaten eggs, 4½ tbsps. salt and 1½ tsps. pepper. Add 3½ qts. of breadcrumbs and 1 2-3 cups melted butter. Mix carefully so salmon does not become pastry. Put in buttered molds and steam 1 hour. Or it may be set in another pan of water and baked 1 hour at 400 degrees F. Serve either hot or cold with white, pea or parsley sauce. Garnish the mold with slices of cucumber and lemon and sprigs of parsley.

understand why you ditched me so abruptly, Angela."

"No, you wouldn't understand." She was frankly scornful. "You haven't an atom of romance in your soul."

"That's where you're wrong," he insisted. "I've any number of dreams stuffed in my head—but I'm scared to talk about them."

Angela sought to dismiss the whole affair with a wave of the hand, saying, "Well, it doesn't matter now, anyway. You see, I'm in love again."

That "again" was the only encouragement Bill had had in weeks. If he could only get her to talk about it, maybe he would get a hint of where he had failed.

"With a romantic chap?" he asked. "I mean a chap who talks about romance?"

It was not the moment to criticize Angela's hero. Bill realized that too late.

"Oh, what's the use of talking to you?" Angela was poised for flight up the stairs. "You can't understand that a woman wants someone to tell her how wonderful she is—whether she is or not—and sweep her off her feet and carry her away and—"

While she paused, wondering just what she did want, Bill made a suggestion.

"And live unhappily ever afterward?"

Angela was close to tears. Bill always seemed to get the best of her. She stamped her foot angrily and ran up the stairs, declaring: "Oh, I hate you!"

Bill was subdued for a minute. But after all, one quarrel didn't end everything. He had seen Dulcy and Gordon survive lots of them and afterward they always seemed more devoted than ever.

Angela felt more at peace with Dulcy. Dulcy understood romance. But Dulcy seemed to have other things on her mind. She had no more than shown Angela her room when she excused herself to join the men in the garden.

"I must go down and see that they are enjoying themselves," she called, as she hurried toward the stairs. "Besides, I want to talk to you father about something."

"Not about me!" Angela called after her, entreatingly, and Bill, in the hall below, hearing her, exclaimed, "Oh, kind heaven, not about me!" And Perkins, recalling the pearls, thought not about me! I hope."

Mrs. Beeckman's Etiquette

By MRS. BEECKMAN

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1. During my husband's life I had my visiting cards engraved with my husband's name, Walter A. F. Shall I have my cards engraved the same way, now that I am a widow, or shall I use my own name?

2. Also should my letters still be directed to Mrs. W. A. F. or Mrs. Hattie F.? I receive letters addressed both ways.

MRS. WALTER A. F.
Dedham.

YOUR visiting cards should be engraved in the same form in which they were engraved when your husband was living. That is, with his name prefixed with Mrs. That is the rule.

Of course it would be vastly better if you did not use the initial, using instead the name for which the initial stands, or, if you prefer, omitting the initial.

2. Your letters, all of them, should be addressed to the same form of name as that on your visiting card: Mrs. Walter F.

This question of the form of name is so personal, and so important, that you should at once determine on which form of name you prefer (and according to the rules, of course) and then let it be known that you have this distinct and well-founded preference. This will help to get most of your letters correctly addressed. The fact is that our letters should be addressed, just as our names should be pronounced, as we wish to have them pronounced.

Also, people who are careful of their social forms avoid, as much as possible, the use of the first name (the Christian name) in the formal name of a married woman, whether that woman is a wife, widow, or a divorcee. This is an excellent thing to remember.

The eighth year under the Quebec Liquor Commission was announced as the biggest in its history.

High Quebec officials assured us last summer that the commission was making every effort to encourage the use of light wines and beer in preference to the "hard stuff." We were also told that visitors preferred the "hard" drinks and Canadians the [illegible]. On the big ferry over the St Lawrence, coming from Levis to Quebec one automobile out of every five bore the Bay State registration plates. Despite all this talk of liquor, we met no one with more than mild curiosity concerning it.

A well-known Boston broker tells me he handed over more than a dozen quarts at the border. The car had been stocked by members of his party. He never touches intoxicating liquor himself, and the surrender at the frontier was carried out as a joke. Some wouldn't see the point.

The death of C. F. (Bud) Clement, announced over the tickers late yesterday, came as a shock to his many friends in this city, most of whom were unaware the well known stock operator had been ill. Mr Clement was associated with numerous issues recently prominent on the Boston Stock Exchange.

Rumors again occupy the speculative lime[illegible] Houston Oil, once a spectacular performer, is lively and the story is circulated that William Danforth, big Boston stock buyer (and seller) [illegible] Houston Oil. The West Coast [illegible] which saw many new highs established [illegible] news of the rediscount rate cut heard that John J. Raskob, acting for himself and the du Ponts, was expected to buy heavily into Warner Bros stock. The Raskob group is said already to have made large purchases. Purpose of Raskob buying of Warner is believed to be to relieve Warners from their present banking affiliation. Opinion is that should duPonts take Warner away from present banking control it will virtually leave the Warner organization with the Morgan side of the New York banking line up.

Mr. Raskob is looked upon as one of the Morgan group through his association with General Motors and others of the Morgan holdings. Should [illegible] acquisition [illegible] Morgan house another picture con[illegible] it now practically [illegible] RKO through Radio.

For the last three years, a geological survey has been in progress in the Michigan copper district in the area from Calumet on the north to Painesdale on the south for a width of several miles. It is planned to complete the work in this area during the coming field season. The survey is under the direction of Frank Pardee of the Michigan Geological Survey, and the field work is in charge of Prof Wyllis Seaman of the Michigan College of Mining and Technology at Houghton.

The purpose is a detailed mapping of the lava flows by means of the magnetic attractions some of them exert on the dip needle. Since the magnetic attraction makes itself felt through the glacial drift and soil which usually obscures the rocks, in many cases it is possible to trace a given flow long distances. Some of the Ophite flows have been traced almost continuously for many miles.

AMERICAN SEATING CO.

American Seating Co. for 1929 reports net income of $484,146 after charges, depreciation and federal taxes, equal to $2.38 a share on the 203,000 no-par shares, against $628,237, or $2.90 a share, in 1928. Gross sales were $7,887,980, against $8,754,558.

STOCKS HIGHER UNDER LEAD OF RAILS

By STANLEY W. PRENOSIL

New York, Feb 7 (AP)—After an early period of irregularity and dullness, the stock market bounded upward again today under the leadership of the railroad shares, at least a dozen of which moved into new high ground for the year.

Most of the early declines of 1 to 5 points had been cut in half, or wiped out, by early afternoon, when a long list of issues were selling 1 to nearly 15 points above yesterday's final quotations.

In view of the cut in the New York Federal Reserve rediscount rates yesterday, the early action of the market was disappointing to many traders, and one of the large commission houses sent out a message over its extensive wire system urging customers to take profits.

DULL ON DECLINE

The market turned dull on the decline after bear traders had made several futile attempts to unsettle the general list, with the result that it was quick to rally when strong buying support appeared.

While a series of favorable 1929 earnings reports and the inauguration of dividends on the new General Electric stock at the annual rate of $1.60, which is equivalent to $6.40 on the old stock which paid $4 with extras, had a cheerful effect on sentiment, chief stress was laid on the general lowering of credit conditions throughout the world and its expected stimulus to world trade.

A further break in cotton prices bringing them to a new low level for the season, accompanied the announcement that the wholesale index of commodity prices already was at the lowest level in five years.

Call money renewed at 4 per cent, as against 4½ yesterday, while time money displayed an easier undertone, particularly for the longer maturities.

CANADIAN PACIFIC UP

Canadian Pacific was the leader of the railroad group, soaring 18 points to 220¼ in anticipation of an early announcement of a 4-for-1 stock splitup.

Lackawanna, Erie, New Haven, New York Central and Norfolk & Western moved up 2 to 4 points, all at new 1930 peaks, in expectation of important developments concerning the eastern railroad consolidation program.

Detroit Edison soared 11 points, Stone & Webster 8 and National Lead, Commonwealth Power, People's Gas, Porto Rican Tobacco, American Woolen pfd and Gillette Safety Razor rallied 4 to 6 points, the sharp rebound in the last named following official denials of rumors that the production program for the new razor had been delayed.

In the early selling, Simmons broke 4⅞ points to a new 1930 low at 72, which contrasts with the 1929 high of 188, but rallied to around 75. Industrial Rayon dropped 12½ points and Vulcan Detinning 11 on small turnovers.

EXCHANGE SEAT UP $5000

New York, Feb. 7 (AP)—Arrangements have been made for the sale of two seats on the New York Stock Exchange at $390,000, the same price of the last recorded sale. One of the proposed new members is William J. McNamara, a telephone clerk on the exchange.

Arrangements also have been made for the sale of a third membership at $395,000, an increase of $5000 over the previous sale.

The first 25 chain store systems to report January business showed aggregate sales of $101,432,898, compared with $95,243,685 in January 1929, an increase of 6.49 per cent.

These figures, however, do not portray a true comparison, as most of the companies included in the compilation opened new stores or acquired other companies during the year, and the sales figures were not adjusted to reflect these changes.

Penn. Loadings at New Top for Year

Car loadings by Pennsylvania Railroad System made a new top for the year in week ended February 1 at 142,191. Since first of the year, when loadings were at their low of 130,909 cars, there has been a steady increase in traffic. Officials of Pennsylvania anticipated a falling off in traffic in the first quarter, but look for a picking up around the middle of March and from present outlook loadings should continue to show improvement the remainder of the year.

Cotton Rallies in New York Trading

New York, Feb. 7 (INS)—The cotton market was stronger here today and prices advanced from 5 to 10 points. March opened at 15.72, May 15.98, July 16.15, October 16.35, December 16.45 and January 16.47.

Research Is Becoming Key to Prosperity

Industry to Spend Quarter Billion on It; How It Works Miracles

—By B. C. FORBES—

NEW YORK, Feb. 7—This is a year of "cafeteria" prosperity. So declares John G. Lonsdale, able president of the American Bankers Association. He interprets "cafeteria" as meaning "help yourself."

B. C. Forbes

In the modern search for profitable business, says Mr. Lonsdale, the most valuable weapon is research.

Some $250,000,000 will be spent this year on industrial research alone in this country. And the total mounts annually, for the most successful of our corporation heads are the ones who devote most attention and money to research.

Dr. C. K. Mees, research director of Eastman Kodak, a very generous spender in this field, recently said: "At the present time the research laboratory is the principal weapon of competition between manufacturers either in the same industry or in industries which are supplying different materials. A few years ago a manufacturer of vehicles would never have thought of a maker of musical instruments as being a competitor, but at the present time the most formidable competitor of the radio industry is the automobile industry."

Dr. Arthur D. Little claims that research work conducted by the present generation has resulted in the creation of 10,000,000 jobs.

P. S. Arkwright, when president of the National Electric Light Association, made this statement: "The research workers in pure science are the advance guard of civilization. They furnish in their discoveries the raw material, so to speak, for the industrial laboratories. Unless the discoveries of pure science continue, the applications of science to our practical affairs will before long reach a limit."

As a fruit of his long and successful career in banking, Mr. Lonsdale, addressing a gathering of merchants this week said:

"As far as I have observed, there are just three principal ways of conducting a business. First, by definite, formulated rules; second, by hunches; third, by facts. The first two are rapidly going into the discard. Some there are who, like their fathers and grandfathers, adhere to unchangeable rules of the thumb for shaping their business careers; and still others act upon sentiment impulse and hunches.

"The third group adopt the plan of the scientist, by obtaining all the facts possible and examining them in all their varied relationship so that, as far as possible, guesswork and hazards may be eliminated before proceeding. As another mark of its progressiveness, this group makes judicious use of the printed word, for it has learned and as I like to repeat, the valuable lesson that business must advertise of fossilize.

"The master hand, the guiding inspiration—the pilot, if you will—of modern business, is not so much the man who directs its destinies as an executive officer but rather that unseen, invisible factor represented in the research and experimental departments.

"At this moment, hidden from our eyes, somewhere in our land, a patient research worker or some scientist is evolving new facts, or testing out some strange compound or device that on the morrow may revolutionize our very existence.

"Out in the Santa Clara Valley, California, the apricot grower had thrown away tons of apricot pits year after year. One day a scientist was called in. Now a million-dollar industry has developed through converting the kernels into oil and pastes, used in making salads, drugs, cosmetics, flavoring extracts and other preparations.

Only a few days ago, a group of Chicago bankers, farm leaders and business men organized a million-dollar corporation to convert cornstalks into lumber substitutes and other products. Cornstalks already have been transformed into 25 valuable products, among them rayon, guncotton and paper. From corn cobs more than 50 products have been evolved.

"To those whose minds are still attuned to the days of old, let me say: Look around you; see what is going on, modernize your old-fashioned ideas and traditions; no matter what your age, you are never too old to learn. Keep an open mind, read and study. There are books and magazines of every description whose pages the business man should find time to study for enlightenment. To individuals who protest they have no time for such things, I say, if you haven't time to read, you haven't time to succeed."

Self-satisfied complacency leads, first, to stagnation, then to bankruptcy. In the search for success, research is destined to play an enormously increasing part.

PROFIT-TAKING IS AGAIN FELT ON BIG CURB

By CLAUDE A. JAGGER

New York, Feb. 7 (AP)—The Curb market resumed its upward trend in rather cautious fashion today. Some further profit-taking appeared in various sections of the list.

Response to improved credit conditions was notably lacking. The market turned extremely dull on declines, however, and speculators for the rise were encouraged to resume their operations on a moderate scale.

The utilities showed pronounced firmness, yesterday's weak spots in the group rallying substantially. Such shares as Electric Bond & Share, American Superpower and United Light A gained a point or so, and Duke Power mounted 9 points, regaining its loss of the previous session.

The Insull stocks continued to creep higher, Insull Utility Investment gaining more than a point. The announcement of a plan whereby Central Public Service will acquire Portland Electric from Public Utility Holding was of negligible influence on the shares involved.

Natural Gas stocks encountered further profit taking, particularly the Arkansas issues. Southwest Gas was steadied by a favorable earnings report. Oils showed rallying tendencies at the opening, but then turned dull. Humble, Indiana and Cities Service were up fractionally.

Several of the investment trust and holding company shares were in good demand. Pennroad rose fractionally to a new 1930 high in a large turnover, and Lehman Corp. mounted a couple of points. Trans America and Marine Midland were firm.

Industrials were highly irregular. United Chemical was a buoyant feature, jumping 10 points to a new high at 30. There were several soft spots, American Arch, Columbia Pictures and Iron Firemen losing 2 to 5 points.

SHOE OUTPUT IS INCREASED

Shoe manufacturers are increasing production gradually, particularly in the lower priced novelty lines, according to Bradstreet's weekly review of trade conditions in this section.

"Prices are holding firm in sole and upper leather lines generally but buying is still restricted," report said. "Price outlook seems to favor lower prices than prevailed last year, although this condition is not settled.

"Business among dry goods jobbers is fair although as a whole less than one year ago. Jobbers of men's furnishings report business quiet as do manufacturers and jobbers of men's clothing. Suit and cloak manufacturers, and of women's dresses find business of small volume. Department store sales are less than expected, as is also true of specialty shops sales.

"General volume in the wholesale jewelry business for January was equal to same month last year. Volume in retail line was 10 per cent less than a year ago but a better feeling prevails than last year. Wool market is rather quiet. Prices have held fairly firm."

Central Offers Stock to Workers

New York, Feb. 7—New York Central announced it had applied to the commerce commission for authority to issue 75,000 shares to be offered officers and employes on a monthly payment plan at $130 a share. Recently the stock has been selling around $180.

With consent of the commission, stock offerings will be made on March 1, and subscriptions will be received for a limited time. Any employe two years or longer continuously in service of the company or of any controlled company will be entitled to subscribe for not more than one share for each $400 of annual pay with a maximum of 50 shares, subject to allotment. Payment is to be made in monthly instalments of $5 per share, to be deducted upon payroll. Interest at 6 per cent a year will be allowed on monthly payments and credited to account of the subscriber in part payment for the stock.

De Forest Business Displays Increase

New York, Feb. 7—President Garside of DeForest Radio Corp. states during first six months of company's renewed operations ended March 31, 1929, net or $176,829 after all charges was shown and in next six months ended Sept. 30, 1929, net was $261,109. In latter months of 1929 sales of radio tubes decreased materially. Net was $626,424 for 18 months ended Dec. 31, 1929. The 18 months' report included three months required for new construction and equipment beginning with present operations. During January, 1930, Mr. Garside said, business had increased 24 per cent over December, 1929.

January Business Is Best in History

Chicago, Feb. 7—January business of Electric Household Utilities Corp. was the largest of any similar month in the history of the company, E. N. Hurley, Jr., president of the company announced today.

British-American Oil Gives "Melon"

Toronto, Feb. 7—Directors of British-American Oil Co. have split stock 2-for-1 subject to the approval of stockholders at the annual meeting, and will place the new stock on a 20-cent quarterly dividend basis, equivalent to $1.60 annually on the present shares against $1 now paid. Company will issue shortly $5,000,000 15-year convertible redeemable sinking fund 5 per cent gold debentures to provide funds for general expansion of the company's business over the next few years.

$10,000,000 Sheet Mill Is Planned

Brier Hill, O., Feb. 7—Youngstown Sheet & Tube is to build immediately a $10,000,000 continuous sheet mill at its plant here.

BOSTON WOOL MARKET IS UNSETTLED

R. G. Dun & Co's Weekly Trade Review in this week's issue will say regarding trade conditions in Boston: Lower prices abroad continue to unsettle the local wool market, and buyers are unwilling to anticipate their needs, but some of the larger manufacturers have been buying, and a moderate volume of business has been transacted. Receipts of wool in Boston to date for the year have been 14,945,100 lbs. as compared with 18,668,500 lbs. to date last year.

Some of the latest openings of woolen goods have been at prices from 10 to 15 cts. a yard below those of six months ago. Knitting yarns continue active and fair amounts of other grades are being delivered on contract. Prices are being shaded on most new business.

RAW COTTON

Lower quotations are reported on raw cotton and the New England mills are not purchasing to any extent. Purchasing of both the fine goods and the staple lines is increasing, but prices are weak. The cotton yarn market is not so active as formerly, and spinners have usually been obliged to make concessions to get orders. Cotton consumption for 1929 showed an increase of 6.7 per cent over that of 1928. Cotton spindles in place showed a decrease, but spindle activity during 1929 increased.

Building and engineering contracts awarded in New England during the week amounted to $4,962,000, as compared with $5,472,400 for the corresponding week of last year. Contracts awarded in Massachusetts during 1929 amounted to $207,995,600, which was a decrease of 13 per cent, as compared with that of 1928.

During December the decrease was 35 per cent. Building lumber is slow and prices weak. The sales of hardwoods continue moderate, but some increases are expected. Sales of the heavier building materials are moderate. Few orders have been received by the steel fabricators but more activity is in sight. Sales of pig iron during the week have been 4500 tons and larger orders are expected. Prices are steady.

SHOE MARKETS ACTIVE

Shoe markets are developing more activity. Low-priced novelties in women's footwear have the best call, with prices tending lower. Shoe manufacturers making spring styles are calling for more leather, but sales at present are not so large as at this time last year.

The hide market is quiet, with prices steady. Increased sales of rubber footwear are reported, and local factories are increasing their forces to take care of the orders. Some price advances are being made. New England wholesale shoe concerns report an increase in sales of 2 per cent in December as compared with the record of the year previous.

Anthracite coal receipts in New England decreased 353,000 tons, while receipts of bituminous showed an increase of 1,748,000 tons over those of 1928. There has been an increase in the demand for shipyard mechanics and metal workers, but a considerable decrease in the call for workers in other lines as compared with January of a year ago.

A survey of the leading industries in the adjacent city of Cambridge, including ink, rubber goods, boiler works, road material, automobile fabric, valves and electricity finds that practically all made good gains during 1929, and that they are quite optimistic regarding the outlook for this year.

Youngstown Sheet Earnings Increase

New York, Feb. 6—The Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co. reports for 1929 net income of $21,564,174 after interest, depreciation, depletion and federal taxes, equal after 5½ per cent preferred dividends to $19.53 a share on 1,061,667 average no-par common shares outstanding during the year and $17.26 a share on the 1,200,000 common shares outstanding at the end of the year. This compares with $10,446,336, or $9.53 a share on 1,000,000 shares of common stock in 1928, after dividends on the 7 per cent preferred then outstanding.

Stinson Aircraft Directors Fewer

Wayne, Mich., Feb. 7—At the annual meeting of stockholders of the Stinson Aircraft Corp., the directorate was reduced from 15 to five members. The board as now constituted, has the following membership: E. L. Cord, chairman; Edward A. Stinson, W. A. Mara, Raymond S. Pruitt, and L. B. Manning.

Buying of Copper Reported Better

New York, Feb. 7—Orders are coming to brass plants and wire mills for finished products are better and buying of copper is improving in volume. Last week domestic sales, according to Engineering & Mining Journal's compilation, were the best for any week since September and above the average for weekly sales in 1929.

Foreign sales of copper Wednesday came to 2,750,000 pounds and Thursday they were 1,750,000 pounds.

Evans Auto Loading

Sales Gain 40.5 P. C.

Schiff company reports sales for January, 1930, totalling $535,520 compared with $380,959 in 1929, an increase of $154,561, or 40.5 per cent.

STOCK GAINS 1000 P. C. IN 9 YEARS

Boston-managed Railway and Light Securities Co. shows in its annual report a record year for the 12 months ending Dec. 31, 1929, with gross income of $2,169,716, of which amount $1,192,049 represents profit from sale of securities after related federal tax. This compares with gross income for the 12 months ending Dec. 31, 1928, of $773,308 of which $235,482 represents profit from sale of securities after related federal tax.

The stock's value has appreciated 1000 per cent since 1920.

Net earnings for 1929 including profits from sale of securities and after preferred dividends, amount to $1,696,148 or $14.91 per share on the average number of shares of common stock outstanding during the year and equivalent to $2.64 per share after elimination of profits from sales.

This compares with net earnings including profits from sale of securities and after preferred dividends of $350,400 in 1928. Regular dividends of $2 per share were paid on the common stock during the past year.

In addition, the company declared an extra dividend on the common of $3, payable Feb. 1, 1930, as compared with a similar extra dividend of $2 for 1928. This extra dividend represents approximately a 32 per cent participation in the profits realized from the sale of securities during the year.

Railway & Light Securities Company has paid regular dividends on its preferred stock since 1904, and on its common stock for the past 19 years without interruption. The liquidation value of the common stock including rights and stock dividends has appreciated over 1000 per cent since 1920.

As of January 31, 1930, liquidation value of common stock amounted to $76.67 per share, compared with a value of $63.46 on December 31, 1929. At the close of the year the market value of the assets was materially in excess of book value or cost. Rights having a value of $7 were issued during 1929.

MOTOR STOCK IMPROVES

New York, Feb. 7—President J. A. Bohannon of Peerless Motor is authority for the statement that for the quarter ending December 31 last the corporation had a net income of $52,013 after provision for depreciation and other charges.

Continuing, he says:

"The number of cars sold during the quarter exceeded the number sold during the same quarter of 1928 by 12 per cent. Production was started during December in the completely modernized plant. We believe that the benefits of the improved facilities will be reflected in the operations for 1930. Manufacturing overhead, sales and administrative expenses have been reduced on an average of more than $1,000,000 per year below similar expenses last year. The new 1930 lines have met with a very gratifying reception at the various automobile shows."

This is the first time since 1928 that Peerless has been able to report anything but a deficit. While the present production is 75 cars daily, arrangements have been completed for a 150-car per diem output to take care of the orders now on the books. It is estimated by the management that the net profits of Peerless for the quarter ending March 31 next will be above $250,000, or nearly $1 per share. The demand for the stock continues keen, even on recessions in prices and from sources close to the management.

Output Is Larger

New York, Feb. 7—American Gas & Electric Co. subsidiaries report output of 79,786,172 k. w. h. in week ended Feb. 1, an increase of 9 per cent over the like 1929 period.

BOND MARKET ACTIVITY IS INCREASED

By JOHN L. COOLEY

New York, Feb. 7 (AP)—The prompt response made by the money markets to the New York Federal Reserve Bank's lower rediscount rate was accompanied by increased activity in the bond list during today's trading.

Although prices were rather mixed, there was good support for United States Governments and first-grade rails, the two pivotal groups.

The tone in time money eased. Maturities of four to six months were quoted by some dealers at 4¼ percent flat against the recent rates of 4½ to 5, and it was said that lower levels would probably appear soon.

Securities of this Government, which move closely with changes in interest charges, were mostly firm in the dealings of the first two hours but the Liberty 3½s and the Treasury 4¼s advanced by small fractions on substantial accumulation.

There was some evidence of professional profit-taking on the strength of the Thursday advance, but such offerings as appeared were readily absorbed by investment accounts which were apparently looking forward to a period of cheaper money and the resultant upward move in bonds.

Southern Railway (St. Louis Division) 4s quickly advanced nearly 2 points, while Union Pacific first 5s rose ¾. Rock Island 4s and 4½s, New Haven 4½s, Pennsylvania general 4½s, Southern Railway consolidated 5s and numerous other investment rails shaded higher. Secondary carrier loans, including several Erie and Missouri Pacific listings, were active.

Utilities and industrials, which normally follow United States governments and rails in upward swings of the cycle, were quiet and firm. American Telephone 5s of 1965 equalled their high just above 101. There was also buying of Pacific Gas & Electric 5s, Utah Power & Light 5s, Standard Oil of New Jersey 5s, Lorillard 7s, Reading Coal & Iron 5s and General Steel Castings 5½s.

French Republic 7½s and 7s eased about half a point each on further large turnovers. The foreign group as a whole was rather irregular.

The Louisville & Nashville Railroad's offering of $15,000,000 in first mortgage 4½s at 95 and $5,000,000 in Unified Mortgage 4s at 94½ was oversubscribed.

Investment Trust to Control Chain Is Chicago Plan

Chicago, Feb. 7 (INS)—Organization of a holding company to operate exclusively in the investment trust field and eventually to control a nation-wide group of investment trusts of the general management type is in progress, it was learned here today. A strong group of financial and investment houses headed by the Fidelity Trust Company of Detroit and Baker-Simonds & Company is sponsoring the new company.

Cables Damaged by Quake Repaired

Halifax, N. S., Feb. 7—The cableship Dominia is in port after nine weeks of repair work on quake-damaged cables east of Halifax and in the Gulf Stream. Cables in this area were damaged by the earthquake which was felt throughout New England last November.

Engineers aboard the vessel reported no unusual change in depth of water or in the surface of the sea floor in the region where the ship was operating.

CIRCULATION IN NEW ENGLAND

1,029,225 Bostonians

A Report—Premature, Perhaps—That 1,018,933 of Them Have NO Pride in the "Fourth City of America"

"T. J. LYONS, Boston," suggests in a letter to the Transcript a method by which, he believes, the Boston of 2,000,000 inhabitants may take its proper place as the Fourth City of America.

"This may be done," we read, "by a brief statute providing that the cities and towns within the Metropolitan Park District shall hereafter be known as Boston. They shall continue to hold the autonomy they now possess . . . save and except such as apply and relate to existing fire, police and health departments."

Interesting and not altogether unlike the proposal which has been urged from time to time by those who have at heart the best interests of the Metropolitan District.

But what engages our interest is the paragraph with which Mr. Lyons begins his communication:

> "The suggestion for a Greater Boston shows the same reaction which has followed every like suggestion in the past thirty years. THE NINETY AND NINE OF THE PEOPLE LIVING IN THE CITIES AND TOWNS IN THE METROPOLITAN AREA OUTSIDE OF BOSTON ARE OPPOSED TO ANY UNION OR ANNEXATION, WHETHER BY A BOROUGH SYSTEM OR ANY OTHER PROPOSED PLAN."

This seems to have the ring of omniscience. There are 39 cities and towns in the "area outside of Boston," with a total population of 1,029,225, and here is a gentleman who knows where 99 out of every 100 of them stand on the subject of a borough plan WHICH HAS YET TO BE REVEALED.

HOW does he know?

Too Many Haddock?

A Suggestion That Demand Menaces Supply

IF Deputy United States Commissioner of Fisheries Lewis Radcliffe is right in his deductions, New England has reason for concern about its haddock fishery.

The haddock, in Deputy Radcliffe's opinion, is menaced by (1) the doubling of the size of the trawler fleet in the past eight years, (2) larger units in the fishing industry and (3) improved methods of handling and marketing.

APPARENTLY the condition of our fisheries is healthy. Landings at Boston, Gloucester and Portland have jumped from 151,000,000 pounds, in 1921, to about 300,000,000 pounds, for the year just ended.

The haddock accounts for more than one-half of this great total, not, Mr. Radcliffe thinks, because of its increased abundance so much as for economic reasons. The haddock is "pre-eminently adapted to the new methods of filleting and package merchandising." The Massachusetts "package" business, by the way, amounts to $10,000,000 or more, every year.

The 130,000 New Englanders who make their living in the fishing industry will be interested in Deputy Radcliffe's call for an investigation. Large sums of money are invested. The investors should know "what is in store for the future."

It is Mr. Radcliffe's belief that the continued development of the haddock fishery will ultimately endanger the supply and, on the theory that it is of no avail to padlock the garage after the flivver has disappeared, he would make a SURVEY of the haddock grounds—restricted and highly productive—before it is too late.

Wife-Kissing on Sunday

NOT Prohibited in 1930

WE had thought it was only in Connecticut that the "blue laws" of Colonial days forbade a man to kiss his wife on Sunday, but here we have the record—brought to light by Mr. Albert Morris of Boston University and printed in "Bostonia"—of the same sort of prohibitory law right here in Boston.

The time was 1656, or nearly 300 years ago, the offending husband one Captain Kemble.

> "Returning to his home after a voyage of three years, he was sentenced to sit in the stocks for his unseemly behavior in kissing his wife publicly on the Sabbath, when she met him on the doorstep."

Outrageous?

Perhaps, but why bring the matter up after the lapse of 274 years?

In this present year of grace there is no law to forbid a husband's kissing his wife, ten, twenty, fifty or ONE HUNDRED times, on Sunday.

Do the married men of Boston take advantage of this new freedom? If so, to what extent?

THAT is what we should like to know from the professors of B. U., and not what the custom was way back yonder.

What Do You Know?

BOSTON'S ORIGINAL KNOWLEDGE TEST

Fill each blank:

1—Apollo was the god of ——.
2—Minerva was the goddess of ——.
3—Pluto was the god of ——.
4—Ceres was the goddess of ——.
5—Psyche was beloved by ——.

Do you know:

6—Who wrote the famous short story, "A Piece of String?"
7—Who was Diana?
8—What is an ambush?
9—What is a vanguard?
10—What party did Andrew Jackson belong to?

Match correctly:

11—Othello—Dante.
12—Don Juan—Homer.
13—The Odyssey—Shakespeare.
14—The Divine Comedy—Pope.
15—The Rape of the Lock—Byron.

Answers to yesterday's test:

1—Shakespeare. 2—Roman goddess of marriage. 3—"So be it." 4—Robert Burns. 5—When they opposed the extension of slavery. 3—Witching. 7—Ben. 8—Grass. 9—Marine. 10—Lake. 11—The Roman God of Fire. 12—The Norse God of Thunder. 13—The Roman Goddess of the Morning. 14—A Titan who stole fire from heaven and gave it to man. 15—The God of Wine.

The BAER Facts

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

AFTER some very expert and contagious investigation we are enabled to outline the position of Class B stockholders.

When the directors meet each other's elbows in executive session a Class B investor can call an indignation assembly of kindred morons and demand to be ignored by proxy.

When the profits are eating up the surplus and the company is using a blow-out patch for a safety valve, the Class B investor is entitled to all the comforts attainable by shaving without soap.

When the corporation votes to increase the president's salary and expends sixteen million dollars for floral tributes the minority bagholders may issue a circular letter and chase it around the track.

When the committee reports progress in every direction except forward, the B boys can claim that the executives have defaulted in their clauses and may demand prettier certificates on fancier paper.

When the wolf is broadcasting a panicky solo in the vestibule and the welcome on the doormat is in parentheses, the B squad can stand upon its vested rights. Which is something like eating at the second table with the Jack Spratts.

There is more than one way to skin a cat and a 1000 names for the fur after it is skinned. We have been a Class B stockholder in the Vestless Pocket Company for a year and we would be wealthy if the decimal point were not so far to the left.

The directors all wear perpendicular silk hats, carry canes and dress in the furthest north of fashion with protruding spats. We have always claimed that Rudy Vallee would learn more if he put that megaphone to his ear once in a while.

Investigation by the exhausted B clique indicates that the certificates of good-will have all the trade-in value of a bitten cruller. People who live in revolving doors shouldn't swim against the tide.

The next time we catapult our financial resources into Wall Street we are either going to be a Class A victim of environment or we are going in for some chiropractic reprisals with a baseball bat.

A Class B passenger has all the social standing of a mouse in the sugar bowl. If you ain't on the board of directors you might as well be on a bicycle.

While waiting for the preferred stockholders to issue their hourly vote of confidence, the Class B students can chop a hole in the ice, jump in and while away the sunny, zero days by making noises like sealed bids.

H..G. Wells Writes on "The Science of Life"

In Collaboration With

Prof. Julian Huxley and Geo. P. Wells

HUGE thicknesses of white chalk and limestone consist very largely of the microscopic skeletons of foraminifera. The rock of which the pyramids of Egypt are built is composed largely of the shells of eocene foraminifera—and the earth known as "tripoli stone," used commercially as an abrasive or an absorbent, is composed mainly of radiolarian skeletons, the variety found in the Barbados, containing at least 100 different species.

H. G. Wells

In the second class of the protozoa, the Flagellata, the individuals are characterized by the possession of one to four long, lashing tails or flagella (singular flagellum), and flog themselves along through water much as spermatozoa do.

The group is a large one and profoundly important, both from the practical and the theoretical point of view.

They are of practical importance because they swarm in incredible multitudes in the sea, forming the chief food of a host of crustaceans, young fish and other large creatures, and thus indirectly nourishing man himself.

The diffuse phosphorescence of the sea is due largely to swarms of flagellates. Moreover, there are kinds of flagellate which live parasitically in our bodies or the bodies of our cattle and cause grave tropical diseases such as the sleeping-sickness of Africa, and the Indian scourge, kala-azar.

And the destructiveness of Termites in the tropics is due to the presence in their intestines of swarms of flagellates which enable them to digest wood.

Theoretically they are interesting because some of them are colored green with chlorophyll and lie on the border-line between animal and plant, and because others combine together to form colonies, a link between the independence of amoeba and the communal life of our own body cells.

A third class are the sporozoa. They are all parasites.

The most troublesome kinds are those of the various mosquito-borne fevers and agues, ranging from the comparatively mild intermittent fevers, which have been abolished by the drainage of our own fen and marsh districts, to the deadly malaria of tropical countries.

The fourth class, the Infusoria, are the most elaborately organized protozoa, and includes some of the largest.

They have definite mouths; their bodies are covered with hard pellicles; instead of one nucleus they have two, of different kinds, one for the chemical business of everyday, the other reserved for sexual union and other rare reproductive occasions.

Instead of one or two propulsive whips, like the whips of flagellates, they posses whole batteries of vibrating hairs or cilia by means of which they swim.

The cilia may be of various shapes and sizes, and are variously arranged on the body, and the modes of progression of their owners are correspondingly diverse. Some infusorians glide more or less smoothly through the water; some crawl and then dart; some spring by means of catapult-like cilia at their hinder ends.

Among the commoner freshwater forms well-known to microscopists are paramecium, the slipper animalcule—quite large for a protozoon, nearly a hundredth of an inch in length and visible as a tiny speck to the naked eye—vorticella, the bell-animalcule, a graceful living goblet fastened to some solid mooring by a long stalk, which can shorten to a tight spiral when the animal is alarmed and so pull it back out of danger—and a host of others.

Attractive though the infusoria are to the possessor of a microscope, they are of little direct importance to man. They do him no good, and, except for one species that lives in the intestines and causes dysentery, they do him no harm.

3. Plant Animals and Seaweeds.

MOST of the protozoa are quite obviously animals; they wander about and feed in the animal manner. But there are curious exceptions.

There is, for example, a tiny creature known as Eurglena, one of the flagellates possessed of a lashing whip by means of which it swims about.

Universe of Stars

By ARCHIBALD HENDERSON

THE extraordinary range in values among the stars, in size, weight, density, luminosity, radiation and other respects affords us one of the best possible proofs that this is indeed a universe in which we live.

As Jeans says, in his "The Universe Around Us," we can tell a sensational story by contrasting extremes. The following illustrations, which he furnishes, are indeed staggering.

The star known as Wolf 359 is the faintest star yet discovered. This red star emits only about one fifty-thousandth of the light of the sun.

The star Sirius A, commonly called the Dog Star, appears as the brightest star in the sky. Its surface temperature is nearly twice that of the sun; and its luminosity is about twenty-six times that of the sun.

ITS companion star, Sirius B, is very faint, emitting only one ten-thousandth part as much as Sirius A. This is a very remarkable star, for the average density of matter in Sirius B is about 60,000 times that of water.

The average cubic inch contains nearly a ton of matter. Its size relative to Sirius A is about as a small pin head is to the size of a half-dollar.

The star of smallest known weight, the fainter component in the system known as Kruger 60, has a fifth of the sun's weight. The quadruple system 27 Canis Majoris to all appearances weighs 940 times as much as the sun. But this is very exceptional.

A VERY wide variation occurs in the luminosity of the stars. The most luminous star known, S Donadus, has 300,000 times the luminosity of the sun. It is 15,000,000,000 times as luminous as the faintest known star, Wolf 359.

As Jean says:

"If the sun suddenly started to emit as much light and heat as S Donadus, the temperature of the earth and everything on it would run up about 7,000 degrees, so that both we and the solid earth would disappear into a cloud of vapor. On the other hand, if the sun's emission of light and heat were suddenly to sink to that of Wolf 359, people at the earth's equator would find that their new sun only gave as much light and heat at mid-day as a coal fire a mile away; we should all be frozen solid, while the earth's atmosphere would surround us in the form of an ocean of liquid air."

THERE is also a very wide range in surface radiation and temperature. The two constituents of Plaskett's star have more than 75 and 63 times the sun's weight, respectively; but this star is credited with a temperature of 28,000 degrees—or about five times that of the sun.

At the other extreme, stellar temperatures ranging down to about 2500 degrees are comparatively common. The surface temperature of a certain type stars, known as long period variables, ranges as low as 1650 degrees, which is only slightly above the temperature of a ordinary coal fire.

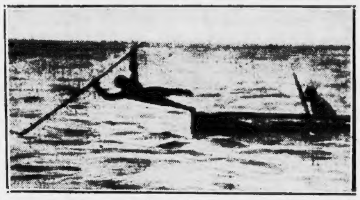
Use Your Brains

From the Brain Comes Everything

(Copyright, 1930)



THIS AUSTRALIAN FISHERMAN HAS NO ROPE

A MOST interesting article on sea life off the northwest coast of Australia, by L. Haden Guest, shows this picture of northwestern Australian native fishermen spearing a dugong.

The dugong, a great heavy sea monster, is not a fish, but a mammal, and nurses its young, of which it is very fond.

It is supposed that sailors' stories about the mermaid originated in the sight of this ugly fish, carrying the dugong baby under one front flipper and nursing it.

The interesting thing in this picture is the fact that the Australian fisherman hurling his spear at the dugong hurls himself with it, clinging to the spear after it penetrates the hide of the great mammal, in order not to lose the spear, the dugong and its meat.

This the Australian does because savages in this part of Australia possess no ropes. The rope, like everything else we use, is a human invention, a product of the brain.

The Australians have managed to produce dugout canoes and spears with sharp points. But they have not invented ropes. And when they hurl a spear at an animal they must hold onto it, using their bodies as a "float."

If the dugong drags them under, so much the worse. They must drown or let go.

Readers, particularly the young whose minds look at things freshly, should remember that everything comes from the brain.

It has often been said that there are as good fish in the sea as ever came out of it.

There are as GOOD IDEAS IN THE BRAIN as any that ever came out of it, and better.

A majority of brains remain idle, their owners content to contemplate life and the world as they drift through it, doing not much of anything.

The wise young man and woman will USE THEIR BRAINS, study the needs of the world and try to supply them.

Some native of northwestern Australia might have made his everlasting fortune and became a great chief or king merely by inventing a rope, made of the hair or the entrails of the kangaroo, or of twisted vines from trees.

But none ever did it. And they have no harpoon.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Feb. 7—Thoughts while strolling: Those new off-white tones for Milady's dress—biscuit, banana, eggshell and meringue. What became of the margin profits? New York's skyline fashioned in gum drops in a candy store window. Ousted pigeons fluttering over building excavations.

Ladies who pop into hotel lobbies—and pause suddenly in faint timidity. Samuel Hoffenstein, the poet. A girl in silver slippers at noon. And a dignified old pappy gives vent to a snort.

If perfumes would only live up to their gorgeous bottles. The old-fashioned banker who wears a flat-topped derby. The boys in corset-fitting overcoats and pulled-down derbies.

Those bob-tailed Siamese cats on leashes. Something odd about a fat postman. Count Boni's blond mustache. The ineffable gloom of an armory. Charles Phelps Cushing, another Kansas City Star alumnus. Nobody knows how to cook macaroni any more.

A Gertrude Stein tea room. Python skin shoes. The bank that furnishes a daily lapel flower to employes. Not so many "Love Nest" headlines in the tabloids since the market crash. The building that is almost entirely tenanted by race track tipsters.

A gentleman, by the way, who recently cruised to an outer rim of the world says he was sea sick all the way but on the return voyage an old captain told him "to walk himself into a sweat" before breakfast each morning and he would not be troubled. He did—and wasn't.

The soft drink cocktail has attained remarkable popularity. One hotel menu lists 19 varieties of pre dinner drinks and there is a steady and growing demand in all cafes. The most popular of the moment is chilled tomato juice, spiced with tobasco and Worcestershire sauce. Other favorites have kraut and clam juice as a base. A dressmaking salon has opened up a bar where soft drink cocktails are served.

At many homes the only alcoholic cocktails are served in dressing rooms by maids and butlers. It is a London vogue. Over there it has become unfashionable to drink after one has met the host or hostess.

I once attended a New Year's Eve dinner party that showed the devastation of a before dinner cocktail splurge. Forty-two guests were invited by the hostess to have cocktails at her home before proceeding to a country club for dinner. It was explained that to comply with rules no drinks would be served at the club. After an agonizing wait, the hostess and five guests sat down to a cold dinner at 11 o'clock. And the next day the hostess went to a sanitarium.

Cocktails with a kick start off a dinner with a noisy babble but it is noticeable that by 10 o'clock almost everybody is on the verge of a yawn. And not even the latest story of Dorothy Parker will revive a dinner that has sunk.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By ALINE MICHAELIS

"MANANA, MANANA,"
The stolid peons say,
And never glimpse the glowing world
Which might be theirs today:

"Tomorrow, tomorrow,"
A soothing, false refrain
To which men drowse away the hours
That will not come again.

"Manana, manana,"
To clink of castanets
And grace of languid, dark-eyed girls
"Tomorrow, tomorrow,"
How lightly glide the days
When all one's thoughts and hopes are bent
On distant, dream-dowered ways!

A curse to ward away,
Which can be only overcome
